- (iii) Company Secretary (CS).

“Nomination and Remuneration Committee” (NRC) means Nomination and Remuneration Committee of the Board of Directors of the Company for the time being in force.

“Senior Management” means personnel of the Company who are members of its Core Management Team excluding Board of Directors comprising of all members of management one level below the executive directors including the functional heads.

I. APPOINTMENT OF DIRECTORS

- The NRC reviews and assesses Board composition and recommends the appointment of new Directors. In evaluating the suitability of individual Board member, the NRC shall take into account the following criteria regarding qualifications, positive attributes and independence of director:
 1. All Board appointments will be based on merit, in the context of the skills, experience, independence and knowledge, for the Board as a whole to be effective.
 2. Ability of the candidates to devote sufficient time and attention to his professional obligations as Independent Director for informed and balanced decision making.
 3. Adherence to the Code of Conduct and highest level of Corporate Governance in letter and in spirit by the Independent Directors.

- Based on recommendation of the NRC, the Board will evaluate the candidate(s) and decide on the selection of the appropriate member. The Board through the Chairman or a Director will interact with the new member to obtain his/her consent for joining the Board. Upon receipt of the consent, the new Director will be co-opted by the Board in accordance with the applicable provisions of the Companies Act 2013 and Rules made thereunder.

REMOVAL OF DIRECTORS

If a Director is attracted with any disqualification as mentioned in any of the applicable Act, rules and regulations thereunder or due to non-adherence to the applicable policies of the Company, the NRC may recommend to the Board with reasons recorded in writing, removal of a Director subject to the compliance of the applicable statutory provisions.

SENIOR MANAGEMENT PERSONNEL

The NRC shall identify persons who are qualified to become directors and who may be appointed in senior management team in accordance with the criteria laid down above.

Senior Management personnel are appointed or promoted and removed/relieved with the authority of Chairman/CEO based on the business need and the suitability of the candidate. The details of the appointment made and the personnel removed one level below the Key Managerial Personnel during a quarter shall be presented to the Board.

II. SUCCESSION PLANNING:

Purpose

The Talent Management Policy sets out the approach to the development and management of talent in the Company to ensure the implementation of the strategic business plans of the Company Board:

The successors for the Independent Directors shall be identified by the NRC at least one quarter before expiry of the scheduled term. In case of separation of Independent Directors due to resignation or otherwise, successor will be appointed at the earliest but not later than the immediate next Board meeting or three months from the date of such vacancy, whichever is later.

The successors for the Executive Director(s) shall be identified by the NRC from among the Senior Management or through external source as the Board may deem fit.

The NRC will accord due consideration for the expertise and other criteria required for the successor.

The Board may also decide not to fill the vacancy caused at its discretion.

Senior Management Personnel:

A good succession-planning program aims to identify high growth individuals, train them and feed the pipelines with new talent. It will ensure replacements for key job incumbents in KMPs and senior management positions in the organization.

Significantly, we have a process of identifying Hi-pots and critical positions. Successors are mapped for these positions at the following levels:

1. Emergency successor
2. Ready now
3. Ready in 1 to 2 years
4. Ready in 2 to 5 years
5. Ready in more than 5 years

in order to ensure talent readiness as per a ladder approach.

Policy Statement

The Talent Management framework of the Company has been created to address three basic issues:

- 1) Given the strategic business plans, do we have the skills and competencies required to implement them? If not, how do we create them – by developing them internally or through lateral induction from outside?

- 2) For critical positions, what is the succession pipeline?
- 3) What are the individual development plans for individuals both in the succession pipeline as well as others?

The framework lays down architecture and processes to address these questions using the 3E approach:

- a) Experience i.e. both long and short-term assignments. This has 70% weightage
- b) Exposure i.e. coaching and mentoring – 20% weightage
- c) Education i.e. learning and development initiatives – 10% weightage

The talent pipeline is maintained and developed so as to ensure that there is a seamless flow of talent. An important part of this exercise is drawing up and implementing IDAPs (Individual Development Action Plans) for every Executive concerned using the 3E approach mentioned above.

ANNEXURE II B

POLICY FOR REMUNERATION OF THE DIRECTORS, KEY MANAGERIAL PERSONNEL AND OTHER EMPLOYEES

Purpose

This Policy sets out the approach to Compensation of Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and other employees in Mahindra Vehicle Manufacturers Limited ('MVML').

Policy Statement

The overall compensation philosophy which guides us is that in order to achieve global leadership and dominance in domestic markets, we need to attract and retain high performers by compensating them at levels that are broadly comparable with the median of the comparator basket while differentiating people on the basis of performance, potential and criticality for achieving competitive advantage in the business.

In order to effectively implement this, we have built our Compensation structure by a regular annual benchmarking over the years with relevant players across the industry we operate in.

NON-EXECUTIVE INCLUDING INDEPENDENT DIRECTORS

The Nomination and Remuneration Committee (NRC) shall decide the basis for determining the compensation, both Fixed and variable, to the Non Executive Directors, including Independent Directors, whether as commission or otherwise. The NRC shall take into consideration various factors such as director's participation in Board and Committee meetings during the year, other responsibilities undertaken, such as membership or Chairmanship of committees, time spent in carrying out their duties, role and functions as envisaged in Schedule IV of the Companies Act 2013 and such other factors as the NRC may deem fit for determining the compensation. The Board shall determine the compensation to Non-Executive Directors within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders' resolution.

Executive Directors:

The remuneration to Chairman & Managing Director and Executive Director(s) shall be recommended by NRC to the Board. The remuneration may consist of both fixed compensation and variable compensation and shall be paid as salary, commission, performance bonus, stock options (where applicable), perquisites and fringe benefits as approved by the Board and within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders' resolution. While the fixed compensation is determined at the time of their appointment, the variable compensation will be determined annually by the NRC based on their performance.

Key Managerial Personnel (KMPs)

The terms of remuneration of Chief Financial Officer (CFO) and the Company Secretary shall be determined and recommended to the Board by the NRC from time to time.

The remuneration shall be consistent with the competitive position of the salary for similar positions in the industry and their Qualifications, Experience, Roles and Responsibilities. Pursuant to the provisions of section 203 of the Companies Act 2013 the Board shall approve the remuneration at the time of their appointment.

The remuneration to directors, KMPs and senior management involves a balance between fixed and incentive pay reflecting short and long-term performance objectives appropriate to the working of the Company and its goals.

Employees

We follow a differential approach in choosing the comparator basket for benchmarking, depending upon the level in the organization:

- a. For all employees from Operational to Executive Band, we benchmark with a set of comparators from the same industry.
- b. For Strategic band and above, we have a position-based approach and the comparator basket includes benchmarks from across relevant industries.

We have a CTC (Cost to Company) concept which includes a fixed component (Guaranteed Pay) and a variable component (Performance pay). The percentage of the variable component increases with increasing hierarchy levels, as we believe employees at higher positions have a far greater impact and influence on the overall business result. The CTC is reviewed once every year and the compensation strategy for positioning of individuals takes into consideration the following elements:

- Performance
- Potential
- Criticality
- Longevity in grade

Remuneration for the new employees other than KMPs and Senior Management Personnel will be decided by the Auto Sector HR, in consultation with the CEO at the time of hiring, depending upon the relevant job experience, last compensation and the skill-set of the selected candidate.

- (ii) Depreciation on assets is calculated on Straight Line Method at the rates and in the manner prescribed in Schedule II to the Companies Act, 2013, except in respect of the following categories of assets, in whose case the life of the assets has been assessed as under based on technical advice, taking into account the nature of the asset, the estimated usage of the asset, the operating conditions of the asset, past history of replacement, anticipated technological changes, manufacturers warranties and maintenance support, etc. :
- (1) Certain items of Plant and Machinery individually costing more than Rs. 5,000 – over their useful lives (2 years, 5 years, 8 Years, 10 years, 20 years or 25 years as the case may be) as determined by the Company.

 - (4) Assets individually costing upto Rs 5000 over a period of 12 months.

Finished goods produced, manufactured components and work-in-progress are carried at cost or net realisable value whichever is lower. Excise duty is included in the value of finished goods inventory.

Stores, spares and tools other than obsolete and slow moving items are carried at cost. Obsolete and slow moving items are valued at cost or estimated net realisable value, whichever is lower.

(F) Foreign Exchange Transactions :

Transactions in foreign currencies are recorded at the exchange rates prevailing on the date of transaction. Monetary items are translated at the year-end rates. The exchange difference between the rate prevailing on the date of transaction and on the date of settlement as also on translation of monetary items at the end of the year (other than those relating to long term foreign currency monetary items) is recognised as income or expense, as the case may be.

Past services are recognised on a straight line basis over the average period until the benefits become vested. Actuarial gains and losses are recognised immediately in the Statement of Profit and Loss as income or expense. Obligation is measured at the present value of estimated future cash flows using a discounted rate that is determined by reference to the market yields at the Balance Sheet date on Government Bonds where the currency and terms of the Government Bonds are consistent with the currency and estimated terms of the defined benefit obligation.

(J) Borrowing Costs :

All borrowing costs are charged to the Statement of Profit and Loss except :

- (i) Borrowing costs that are attributable to the acquisition or construction of assets that necessarily take a substantial period of time to get ready for their intended use, which are capitalised as part of the cost of such assets.
- (ii) Expenses incurred on raising long term borrowings are amortised over the period of borrowings. On early buyback, conversion or repayment of borrowings, any unamortised expenditure is fully written off in that year.

It has a network of dealers spread across India to ensure timely availability of spare parts to the customers. The Company also exports spare parts in small quantities. It mainly follows a cash & carry business model.

2 Significant Accounting Policies

2.1 Basis of accounting and preparation of financial statements

The financial statements of the Company have been prepared in accordance with the Generally Accepted Accounting Principles in India (Indian GAAP) to comply with the Accounting Standards specified under Section 133 of the Companies Act, 2013, read with Rule 7 of the Companies (Accounts) Rules, 2014 and the relevant provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 ("the 2013 Act")/Companies Act, 1956 ("the 1956 Act"), as applicable. The financial statements have been prepared on accrual basis under the historical cost convention. The accounting policies adopted in the preparation of the financial statements are consistent with those followed in the previous year.

2.2 Use of estimates

The preparation of the financial statements in conformity with Indian GAAP requires the Management to make estimates and assumptions considered in the reported amounts of assets and liabilities (including contingent liabilities) and the reported income and expenses during the year. The Management believes that the estimates used in preparation of the financial statements are prudent and reasonable. Future results could differ due to these estimates and the differences between the actual results and the estimates are recognised in the periods in which the results are known/materialise.

2.3 Tangible Fixed Assets

- a) All tangible fixed assets are carried at cost of acquisition. Cost includes financing cost relating to borrowed funds attributable to construction or acquisition of qualifying fixed assets up to the date the asset is ready for use.

When an asset is scrapped or otherwise disposed off, the cost and related depreciation are removed from the books of account and resultant profit (including capital profit) or loss, if any, is reflected in the Statement of Profit and Loss.

- b) Depreciation on assets is calculated on Straight Line Method as per the useful life prescribed in Schedule II to the Companies Act, 2013 except in respect of the following categories of assets, in whose case the life of the assets has been assessed as under based on technical advice, taking into account the nature of the asset, the estimated usage of the asset, the operating conditions of the asset, past history of replacement, anticipated technological changes, manufacturers warranties and maintenance support, etc.:
General plant and machinery (Injection Moulding Tool - Verito Knob) - 8 years.

2.4 Investments

Current investments are valued at the lower of cost and fair value, determined by category of investment.

2.5 Inventories

Inventories comprise of all costs of purchase, conversion and other costs incurred in bringing the inventories to their present location and condition.

Raw materials and bought out components are valued at lower of cost or net realizable value. Cost is determined on the basis of the weighted average method.

Finished goods produced and purchased for sale, manufactured components and work-in-progress are carried at cost or net realizable value, whichever is lower. Excise duty is included in the value of finished goods inventory.

2.6 Foreign Exchange Transactions

Transactions in foreign currency are recorded at the daily exchange rates on days on which the transactions are effected. Exchange differences arising on settlement of revenue transactions are recognised in the Statement of Profit and Loss. Monetary items denominated in foreign currency are restated using the exchange rates prevailing at the date of the balance sheet. Gains/Losses arising on restatement and on settlement of such liabilities are recognized in the Statement of Profit and Loss. Premium/Discount on forward exchange contracts, which are not intended for trading or speculation purposes, are amortised at the Balance Sheet date over the period of the contracts if such contracts relate to monetary items.

2.7 Revenue Recognition

Sale of products and income from services rendered are recognised when the products are shipped or service rendered.

2.8 Employee Benefits

(i) Defined Contribution Plan:

Company's contributions paid/payable during the year to Provident Fund, Superannuation Fund are recognised in the Statement of Profit and Loss.

(ii) Defined Benefit Plan:

Company's liability towards gratuity is determined using the projected unit credit method which considers each period of service as giving rights to an additional unit of benefit entitlement and measure each unit separately to build up the final obligation. Past services are recognised on straight line basis over the average period until the benefits become vested. Actuarial gains and losses are recognised immediately in the statement of Profit and Loss Account as income or expense. Obligation is measured at the present value of estimated future cash flow using discounted rate i.e., determined by reference to the market yield at the Balance Sheet date on Government Bonds where the currency and terms of the Government Bonds are consistent with the currency and estimated terms of the defined benefit obligation.

(iii) Long Term Compensated Absences:

Company's liability towards compensated absences is actuarially determined using projected unit credit method. Employee Benefits in respect of gratuity and Long Term Compensated absences are provided for based on valuations, as at the Balance Sheet date, made by independent actuaries.

2.9 Product Warranty

In respect of warranties given by Company on sale of products, the estimated costs of these warranties are accrued at the time of sale. The estimates for accounting of warranties are reviewed and revisions are made as required.

2.10 Taxes on Income

Current tax is determined as the amount of tax payable in respect of taxable income for the year. Deferred tax is recognised, subject to consideration of prudence, on timing differences, being the difference between taxable income and accounting income that originate in one period and are capable of reversal in one or more subsequent periods. Deferred tax assets arising on account of unabsorbed depreciation or carry forward of tax losses are recognised only to the extent that there is virtual certainty supported by convincing evidence that sufficient future tax income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realised.

2.11 Segment Reporting

The Company's business activity falls within a single business segment viz. 'Automotive'. All other activities of the Company revolve around its main business. Hence there are no separate reportable primary segments as defined by Accounting Standard 17 on "Segment Reporting".

2.12 Cash Flow Statement

Cash flows are reported using the indirect method, whereby profit/(loss) before extraordinary items and tax is adjusted for the effects of transactions of non-cash nature and any deferrals or accruals of past or future cash receipts or payments. The cash flows are segregated on the basis of Operating, Investing & Financing activities of the company.

2.13 Earnings per share

Basic earnings per share is computed by dividing the profit/(loss) after tax (including the post tax effect of extraordinary items, if any) by the weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the year. Diluted earnings per share is computed by dividing the profit/(loss) after tax (including the post tax effect of extraordinary items, if any) as adjusted for dividend, interest and other charges to expense or income (net of any attributable taxes) relating to the dilutive potential equity shares, by the weighted average number of equity shares considered for deriving basic earnings per share and the weighted average number of equity shares which could have been issued on the conversion of all dilutive potential equity shares.

2.14 Impairment of assets

The carrying values of assets/cash generating units at each balance sheet date are reviewed for impairment if any indication of impairment exists.

If the carrying amount of the assets exceed the estimated recoverable amount, an impairment is recognised for such excess amount. The impairment loss is recognised as an expense in the Statement of Profit and Loss, unless the asset is carried at revalued amount, in which case any impairment loss of the revalued asset is treated as a revaluation decrease to the extent a revaluation reserve is available for that asset.

The recoverable amount is the greater of the net selling price and their value in use. Value in use is arrived at by discounting the future cash flows to their present value based on an appropriate discount factor.

When there is indication that an impairment loss recognised for an asset (other than a revalued asset) in earlier accounting periods no longer exists or may have decreased, such reversal of impairment loss is recognised in the Statement of Profit and Loss, to the extent the amount was previously charged to the Statement of Profit and Loss. In case of revalued assets such reversal is not recognised.

ANNEXURE II TO THE DIRECTORS' REPORT

I. POLICY FOR REMUNERATION OF THE DIRECTORS, KEY MANAGERIAL PERSONNEL AND OTHER EMPLOYEES

Purpose

This Policy sets out the approach to Compensation of Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and other employees in Mahindra Trucks & Buses Ltd.

Policy Statement

We have a well-defined Compensation policy which is in line with our parent company Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd. for Managing Director, Manager, Key Managerial Personnel and all employees, of the Company. The overall compensation philosophy which guides us is that in order to achieve global leadership and dominance in domestic markets, we need to attract and retain high performers by compensating them at levels that are broadly comparable with the median of the comparator basket while differentiating people on the basis of performance, potential and criticality for achieving competitive advantage in the business.

In order to effectively implement this, we have built our Compensation structure by a regular annual benchmarking over the years with relevant players across the industry we operate in.

NON-EXECUTIVE DIRECTORS: INCLUDING INDEPENDENT DIRECTORS:

The Nomination and Remuneration Committee (NRC) shall decide the basis for determining the compensation, both Fixed and variable, to the Non-Executive Directors, including Independent Directors, whether as commission or otherwise. The NRC shall take into consideration various factors such as director's participation in Board and Committee meetings during the year, other responsibilities undertaken, such as membership or Chairmanship of committees, time spent in carrying out their duties, role and functions as envisaged in Schedule IV of the Companies Act 2013 and such other factors as the NRC may consider deem fit for determining the compensation. The Board shall determine the compensation to Non-Executive Directors within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders resolution.

Executive Directors:

The remuneration to Chairman & Managing Director and Executive Director(s) shall be recommended by NRC to the Board. The remuneration consists of both fixed compensation and variable compensation and shall be paid as salary, commission, performance bonus, stock options (where applicable), perquisites and fringe benefits as approved by the Board and within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders resolution. While the fixed compensation is determined at the time of their appointment, the variable compensation will be determined annually by the NRC based on their performance.

Key Managerial Personnel (KMPs)

The terms of remuneration of Chief Financial Officer (CFO) and Company Secretary (CS) & other Key Management personnel, if any, shall be determined by the NRC from time to time. The remuneration shall be consistent with the competitive position of the salary for similar positions in the industry and their Qualifications, Experience, Roles and Responsibilities. Pursuant to the provisions of section 203 of the Companies Act 2013 the Board shall approve the remuneration at the time of their appointment.

The remuneration to directors, KMPs and senior management involves a balance between fixed and incentive pay reflecting short and long-term performance objectives appropriate to the working of the company and its goals.

Employees

We follow a differential approach in choosing the comparator basket for benchmarking, depending upon the level in the organization:

- For all employees from Operational to Executive Band, we benchmark with a set of comparators from the same industry.
- For Strategic band and above, we have a position-based approach and the comparator basket includes benchmarks from across relevant industries.

We have a CTC (Cost to Company) concept which includes a fixed component (Guaranteed Pay) and a variable component (Performance pay). The percentage of the variable component increases with increasing hierarchy levels, as we believe employees at higher positions have a far greater impact and influence on the overall business result. The CTC is reviewed once every year and the compensation strategy for positioning of individuals takes into consideration the following elements:

- Performance
- Potential
- Criticality
- Longevity in grade

Remuneration for the new employees other than KMPs and Senior Management Personnel will be decided by the HR, in consultation with the concerned business unit head at the time of hiring, depending upon the relevant job experience, last compensation and the skill-set of the selected candidate.

The Company may also grant Stock Options to the Employees and Directors (other than Independent Directors and Promoter) in accordance with the ESOP Scheme of the Company and subject to the compliance of the applicable statutes and regulations.

II. SUCCESSION PLANNING:

Purpose

The Talent Management Policy sets out the approach to the development and management of talent in the Mahindra Group to ensure the implementation of the strategic business plans of the Group and the Group Aspiration of being among the Top 50 globally most-admired brands by 2021.

Board:

The successors for the Independent Directors shall be identified by the NRC atleast one quarter before expiry of the scheduled term. In case of separation of Independent Directors due to resignation or otherwise, successor will be appointed at the earliest but not later than the immediate next Board meeting or three months from the date of such vacancy, whichever is later.

The successors for the Executive Director(s) shall be identified by the NRC from among the Senior Management or through external source as the Board may deem fit.

The NRC will accord due consideration for the expertise and other criteria required for the successor.

The Board may also decide not to fill the vacancy caused at its discretion.

Senior Management Personnel:

A good succession-planning program aims to identify high growth individuals, train them and feed the pipelines with new talent. It will ensure replacements for key job incumbents in KMPs and senior management positions in the organization.

Significantly, we have a process of identifying Hi-pots and critical positions. Successors are mapped for these positions at the following levels:

1. Emergency successor
2. Ready now
3. Ready in 1 to 2 years
4. Ready in 2 to 5 years
5. Ready in more than 5 years

in order to ensure talent readiness as per a laddered approach.

Policy Statement

The Talent Management framework of the Mahindra Group has been created to address three basic issues:

- 1) Given the strategic business plans, do we have the skills and competencies required to implement them? If not, how do we create them – by developing them internally or through lateral induction from outside?
- 2) For critical positions, what is the succession pipeline?
- 3) What are the individual development plans for individuals both in the succession pipeline as well as others?

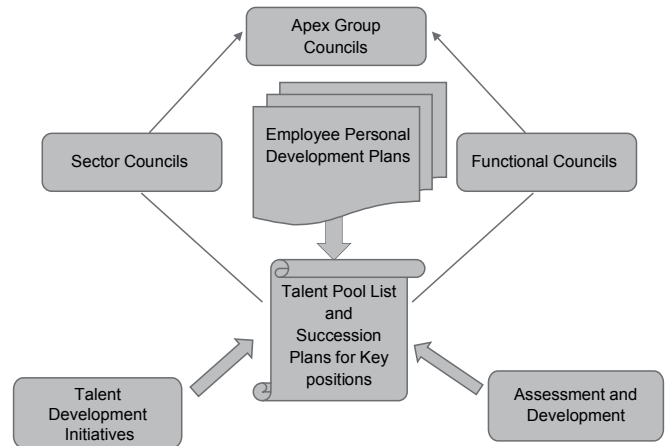

The framework lays down an architecture and processes to address these questions using the 3E approach:

- a) Experience i.e. both long and short-term assignments. This has 70% weightage
- b) Exposure i.e. coaching and mentoring – 20% weightage
- c) Education i.e. learning and development initiatives – 10% weightage

The Talent Management process is applicable to all employees. Over the years, the Talent Management framework has become a well-structured and process-oriented system which is driven by an interactive and collaborative network of Talent Councils at the Group and Sector Levels. These Talent Councils, which consist mainly of Senior business leaders supported by HR, are a mix of Sector (Business) and Functional Councils coordinated by an Apex Talent Council, headed by the Group Chairman. The Apex Council reviews the work done by the Talent Councils and facilitates movement of talent across Sectors. The Sector/Functional Councils meet regularly throughout the year and the Apex Council interacts with each one of them separately once a year, and in addition conducts an integrated meeting where the Chairpersons of all the Councils are present.

The Talent Management process can be represented pictorially as under:

The talent pipeline is maintained and developed so as to ensure that there is a seamless flow of talent. An important part of this exercise is drawing up and implementing IDAPs (Individual Development Action Plans) for every Executive concerned using the 3E approach mentioned above.

ANNEXURE II TO THE DIRECTORS' REPORT

Purpose

This Policy sets out the approach to Compensation of Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and other employees in Mahindra Heavy Engines Pvt. Ltd. (formerly known as Mahindra Navistar Engines Pvt. Ltd.)

Policy Statement

We have a well-defined Compensation policy which is in line with our parent company Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd. for Managing Director, Manager, Key Managerial Personnel and all employees, of the Company. The overall compensation philosophy which guides us is that in order to achieve global leadership and dominance in domestic markets, we need to attract and retain high performers by compensating them at levels that are broadly comparable with the median of the comparator basket while differentiating people on the basis of performance, potential and criticality for achieving competitive advantage in the business.

In order to effectively implement this, we have built our Compensation structure by a regular annual benchmarking over the years with relevant players across the industry we operate in.

NON-EXECUTIVE INCLUDING INDEPENDENT DIRECTORS:

The Nomination and Remuneration Committee (NRC) shall decide the basis for determining the compensation, both Fixed and variable, to the Non-Executive Directors, including Independent Directors, whether as commission or otherwise. The NRC shall take into consideration various factors such as director's participation in Board and Committee meetings during the year, other responsibilities undertaken, such as membership or Chairmanship of committees, time spent in carrying out their duties, role and functions as envisaged in Schedule IV of the Companies Act, 2013 and such other factors as the NRC may consider deem fit for determining the compensation. The Board shall determine the compensation to Non-Executive Directors within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders resolution.

Executive Directors:

The remuneration to Chairman & Managing Director and Executive Director(s) shall be recommended by NRC to the Board. The remuneration consists of both fixed compensation and variable compensation and shall be paid as salary, commission, performance bonus, stock options (where applicable), perquisites and fringe benefits as approved by the Board and within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders resolution. While the fixed compensation is determined at the time of their appointment, the variable compensation will be determined annually by the NRC based on their performance.

Key Managerial Personnel (KMPs)

The terms of remuneration of Chief Financial Officer (CFO) and Company Secretary (CS) & other Key Management personnel, if any, shall be determined by the NRC from time to time. The remuneration shall be consistent with the competitive position of the salary for similar positions in the industry and their Qualifications, Experience, Roles and Responsibilities. Pursuant to the provisions of section 203 of the Companies Act, 2013 the Board shall approve the remuneration at the time of their appointment.

The remuneration to directors, KMPs and senior management involves a balance between fixed and incentive pay reflecting short and long-term performance objectives appropriate to the working of the company and its goals.

Employees

We follow a differential approach in choosing the comparator basket for benchmarking, depending upon the level in the organization:

- a. For all employees from Operational to Executive Band, we benchmark with a set of comparators from the same industry.
- b. For Strategic band and above, we have a position-based approach and the comparator basket includes benchmarks from across relevant industries.

We have a CTC (Cost to Company) concept which includes a fixed component (Guaranteed Pay) and a variable component (Performance pay). The percentage of the variable component increases with increasing hierarchy levels, as we believe employees at higher positions have a far greater impact and influence on the overall business result. The CTC is reviewed once every year and the compensation strategy for positioning of individuals takes into consideration the following elements:

- Performance
- Potential
- Criticality
- Longevity in grade

Remuneration for the new employees other than KMPs and Senior Management Personnel will be decided by the HR, in consultation with the concerned business unit head at the time of hiring, depending upon the relevant job experience, last compensation and the skill-set of the selected candidate.

The Company may also grant Stock Options to the Employees and Directors (other than Independent Directors and Promoter) in accordance with the ESOP Scheme of the Company and subject to the compliance of the applicable statutes and regulations.

II. SUCCESSION PLANNING:

Purpose

The Talent Management Policy sets out the approach to the development and management of talent in the Mahindra Group to ensure the implementation of the strategic business plans of the Group and the Group Aspiration of being among the Top 50 globally most-admired brands by 2021.

Board:

The successors for the Independent Directors shall be identified by the NRC atleast one quarter before expiry of the scheduled term. In case of separation of Independent Directors due to resignation or otherwise, successor will be appointed at the earliest but not later than the immediate next Board meeting or three months from the date of such vacancy, whichever is later.

The successors for the Executive Director(s) shall be identified by the NRC from among the Senior Management or through external source as the Board may deem fit.

The NRC will accord due consideration for the expertise and other criteria required for the successor.

The Board may also decide not to fill the vacancy caused at its discretion.

Senior Management Personnel:

A good succession-planning program aims to identify high growth individuals, train them and feed the pipelines with new talent. It will ensure replacements for key job incumbents in KMPs and senior management positions in the organization.

Significantly, we have a process of identifying Hi-pots and critical positions. Successors are mapped for these positions at the following levels:

1. Emergency successor
2. Ready now
3. Ready in 1 to 2 years
4. Ready in 2 to 5 years
5. Ready in more than 5 years

in order to ensure talent readiness as per a ladder approach.

Policy Statement

The Talent Management framework of the Mahindra Group has been created to address three basic issues:

- 1) Given the strategic business plans, do we have the skills and competencies required to implement them? If not, how do we create them – by developing them internally or through lateral induction from outside?
- 2) For critical positions, what is the succession pipeline?
- 3) What are the individual development plans for individuals both in the succession pipeline as well as others?

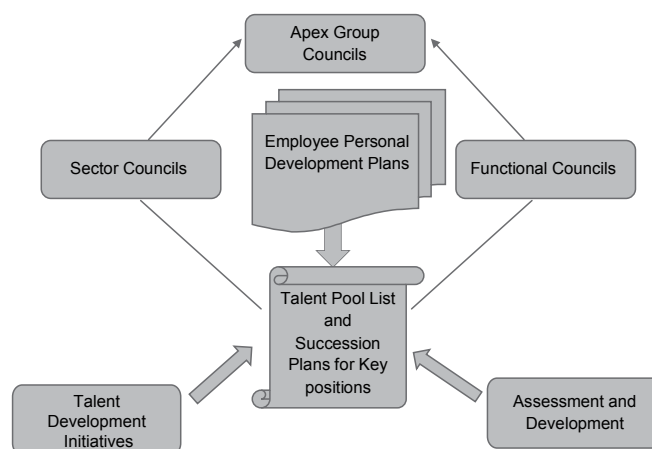

The framework lays down an architecture and processes to address these questions using the 3E approach:

- a) Experience i.e. both long and short-term assignments. This has 70% weightage
- b) Exposure i.e. coaching and mentoring – 20% weightage
- c) Education i.e. learning and development initiatives – 10% weightage

The Talent Management process is applicable to all employees. Over the years, the Talent Management framework has become a well-structured and process-oriented system which is driven by an interactive and collaborative network of Talent Councils at the Group and Sector Levels. These Talent Councils, which consist mainly of Senior business leaders supported by HR, are a mix of Sector (Business) and Functional Councils coordinated by an Apex Talent Council, headed by the Group Chairman. The Apex Council reviews the work done by the Talent Councils and facilitates movement of talent across Sectors. The Sector/Functional Councils meet regularly throughout the year and the Apex Council interacts with each one of them separately once a year, and in addition conducts an integrated meeting where the Chairpersons of all the Councils are present.

The Talent Management process can be represented pictorially as under:

The talent pipeline is maintained and developed so as to ensure that there is a seamless flow of talent. An important part of this exercise is drawing up and implementing IDAPs (Individual Development Action Plans) for every Executive concerned using the 3E approach mentioned above.

Past services are recognised on straight line basis over the average period until the benefits become vested. Actuarial gains and losses are recognised immediately in the Statement of Profit and Loss as income or expense. Obligation is measured at the present value of estimated future cash flow using discounted rate i.e. determined by reference to the market yield at the Balance Sheet date on Government Bonds where the currency and terms of the Government Bonds are consistent with the currency and estimated terms of the defined benefit obligation.

- (iii) Other Benefits:

The undiscounted amount of short-term employee benefits expected to be paid in exchange for the services rendered by employees is recognised during the period when the employee renders the service.

(FORMERLY KNOWN AS MAHINDRA NAVISTAR ENGINES PRIVATE LIMITED)

N. Taxes on Income:

Tax expense comprises of current tax and deferred tax. Current tax is measured at the amount expected to be paid to/recovered from the tax authorities, using the applicable tax rates. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognised for future tax consequences attributable to timing differences between taxable income and accounting income that are capable of reversal in one or more subsequent years and are measured using relevant enacted tax rates. Deferred tax assets are recognised only to the extent that there is a reasonable certainty that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realised. In situations where the Company has unabsorbed depreciation or carry forward tax losses, all deferred tax assets are recognised only if there is a virtual certainty supported by convincing evidence that they can be realised against future taxable profits.

O. Borrowing Costs:

Borrowing costs that are attributable to the acquisition or construction of a qualifying asset are capitalised as part of such assets. A qualifying asset is one that necessarily takes a substantial period of time to get ready for its intended use or sale. All other borrowing costs are recognised as an expense in the period in which they are incurred.

P. Warranty:

Product warranty costs are accrued at the time of sale of products based on technical estimates made by management and is included in 'Other expenses'.

Q. Government Grants and Other Incentives:

The Company, directly or indirectly through a consortium of Mahindra Group Companies, expects to be entitled to various incentives from government authorities in respect of manufacturing units located in developing regions. The company accounts for such entitlement on accrual basis.

R. Segment Reporting:

The Company's business activity falls within a primary business segment namely manufacturing of Engines and other auto components and there is no reportable geographical segment.

S. Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets:

Provision involving substantial degree of estimation in measurement is recognised when there is a present obligation as a result of past events and it is probable that there will be an outflow of resources. Contingent liabilities are not recognised but are disclosed in the notes. Contingent assets are neither recognised nor disclosed in the financial statements.

ANNEXURE I TO THE DIRECTORS' REPORT

Purpose

This Policy sets out the approach to Compensation of Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and other employees in NBS International Limited.

Policy Statement

We have a well-defined Compensation policy for Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and all employees, The overall compensation philosophy which guides us is that in order to achieve dominance in domestic markets, we need to attract and retain high performers by compensating them at levels that are broadly comparable with the industry while differentiating people on the basis of performance, potential and criticality for achieving competitive advantage in the business.

In order to effectively implement this, we have built our Compensation structure by benchmarking with relevant players across the industry we operate in.

NON-EXECUTIVE INCLUDING INDEPENDENT DIRECTORS:

The Nomination and Remuneration Committee (NRC) shall decide the basis for determining the compensation, both Fixed and variable, to the Non Executive Directors, including Independent Directors, whether as commission or otherwise. The NRC shall take into consideration various factors such as director's participation in Board and Committee meetings during the year, other responsibilities undertaken, such as membership or Chairmanship of committees, time spent in carrying out their duties, role and functions as envisaged in Schedule IV of the Companies Act 2013 and such other factors as the NRC may consider deem fit for determining the compensation. The Board shall determine the compensation to Non-Executive Directors within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders resolution.

Executive Directors:

The remuneration to Managing Director and Executive Director(s) shall be recommended by NRC to the Board. The remuneration consists of both fixed compensation and variable compensation and shall be paid as salary, commission, performance bonus, stock options (where applicable), perquisites and fringe benefits as approved by the Board and within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders resolution. While the fixed compensation is determined at the time of their appointment, the variable compensation will be determined annually by the NRC based on their performance.

Key Managerial Personnel (KMPs)

The terms of remuneration of Chief Executive officer, Chief Financial Officer (CFO) and Company Secretary (CS) shall be determined by the Board and may be revised from time to time, either by any Director or such other person as may be authorised by the Board. The remuneration shall be consistent with the competitive position of the salary for similar positions in the industry and their Qualifications, Experience, Roles and Responsibilities. Pursuant to the provisions of section 203 of the Companies Act 2013 the Board shall approve the remuneration at the time of their appointment.

The remuneration to directors, KMPs and senior management involves a balance between fixed and incentive pay reflecting short and long-term performance objectives appropriate to the working of the company and its goals.

Employees

We follow a differential approach based on industry benchmarking and statutory requirement, depending upon the level in the organization i.e for all employees from Technician to Senior Management Band, we benchmark with competition from the same industry.

We have a CTC (Cost to Company) concept. In Managerial and Senior Managerial band starting from Grade M3 and above CTC includes a fixed component (Guaranteed Pay) and a variable component (Performance pay). The percentage of the variable component increases with increasing hierarchy levels, as we believe employees at higher positions have a far greater impact and influence on the overall business result. The CTC is reviewed once every year and the compensation strategy for positioning of individuals takes into consideration the following elements:

- Performance
- Potential
- Criticality
- Longevity in grade

Remuneration for the new employees other than KMPs and Senior Management Personnel will be decided by the HR, in consultation with the concerned business unit head at the time of hiring, depending upon the relevant job experience, last compensation and the skill-set of the selected candidate.

The Company may also grant Stock Appreciation Rights and/ or Stock Options to Employees and Directors (other than Independent Directors) in accordance with any Scheme of the Company and subject to compliance of the applicable statutes and regulations.

Purpose

The Talent Management Policy sets out the approach to the development and management of talent in the Mahindra Group to ensure the implementation of the strategic business plans of the Group and the Group Aspiration of being among the Top 50 globally most-admired brands by 2021.

Board:

The successors for the Independent Directors shall be identified by the NRC at least one quarter before expiry of the scheduled term. The NRC will accord due consideration for the expertise and other criteria required for the successor.

The Board may also decide not to fill the vacancy caused at its discretion.

Senior Management Personnel:

A good succession-planning program aims to identify high growth individuals, train them and feed the pipelines with new talent. It will ensure replacements for key job incumbents in KMPs and senior management positions in the organization.

Significantly, we have a process of identifying Hi-pots and critical positions. Successors are mapped for these positions at the following levels:

1. Emergency successor
2. Ready now
3. Ready in 1 to 2 years
4. Ready in 2 to 5 years
5. Ready in more than 5 years

in order to ensure talent readiness as per a laddered approach.

Policy Statement

The Talent Management framework of the Mahindra Group has been created to address three basic issues:

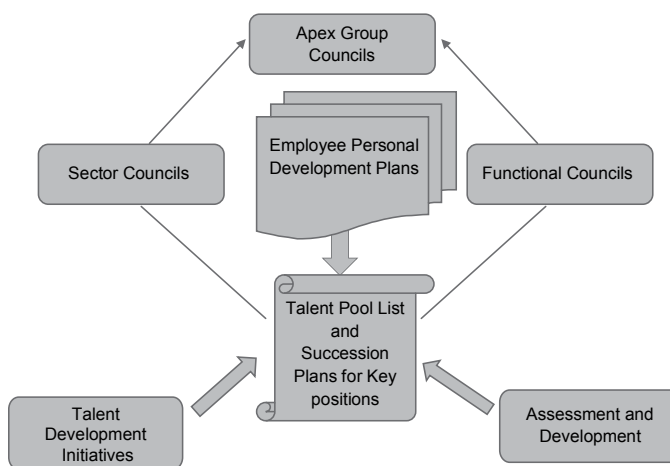

- 1) Given the strategic business plans, do we have the skills and competencies required to implement them? If not, how do we create them – by developing them internally or through lateral induction from outside?
- 2) For critical positions, what is the succession pipeline?
- 3) What are the individual development plans for individuals both in the succession pipeline as well as others?

The framework lays down an architecture and processes to address these questions using the 3E approach:

- a) Experience i.e. both long and short-term assignments. This has 70% weightage
- b) Exposure i.e. coaching and mentoring – 20% weightage
- c) Education i.e. learning and development initiatives – 10% weightage

The Talent Management process is applicable to all employees. Over the years, the Talent Management framework has become a well-structured and process-oriented system which is driven by an interactive and collaborative network of Talent Councils at the Group and Sector Levels. These Talent Councils, which consist mainly of senior business leaders supported by HR, are a mix of Sector (Business) and Functional Councils coordinated by an Apex Talent Council, headed by the Group Chairman. The Apex Council reviews the work done by the Talent Councils and facilitates movement of talent across Sectors. The Sector / Functional Councils meet regularly throughout the year and the Apex Council interacts with each one of them separately once a year, and in addition conducts an integrated meeting where the Chairpersons of all the Councils are present.

The Talent Management process can be represented pictorially as under:

The talent pipeline is maintained and developed so as to ensure that there is a seamless flow of talent. An important part of this exercise is drawing up and implementing IDAPs (Individual Development Action Plans) for every Executive concerned using the 3E approach mentioned above.

Benefits such as salaries and wages, etc. and the expected cost of the bonus/ex-gratia are recognized in the period in which the employee renders the related service.

• Post employment employee benefits

Defined Contribution schemes

Company's contributions to the Provident Fund and Employee's State Insurance Fund are charged to the Statement of Profit and Loss of the year when the contributions to the respective funds are due.

Defined benefits plans

Company's liabilities towards gratuity is determined by independent actuary, using the projected unit credit method which considers each period of service as giving rise to an additional unit of benefit entitlement and measures each unit separately to build up the final obligation. Actuarial gain and losses are recognised in the Statement of Profit and loss as income or expense in the year in which they occur. Obligation is measured at the present value of estimated future cash flow using a discount rate that is determined by reference to market yields at the Balance Sheet date on Government Bonds where the currency and terms of the Government Bonds are consistent with the currency and estimated terms of the defined benefit obligation.

Other long term employee benefits

Company's liabilities towards compensated absences to employees are accrued on the basis of valuations, as at the Balance Sheet date, carried out by an independent actuary using Projected Unit Credit Method. Actuarial gains and losses comprise experience adjustments and the effects of changes in actuarial assumptions and are recognized immediately in the Statement of Profit and Loss.

h) Earnings Per Share

Basic earnings per share are calculated by dividing the net profit or loss for the period attributable to equity shareholders by the weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the period.

Diluted earnings per share are calculated after adjusting effects of potential equity shares (PES). PES are those shares which will convert into equity shares at a later stage. Profit/loss is adjusted by the expenses incurred on such PES. Adjusted profit/loss is divided by the weighted average number of ordinary plus potential equity shares.

i) Taxation

Income-tax expense comprises current tax, deferred tax charge or credit, minimum alternative tax (MAT).

Current tax

Provision for current tax is made for the tax liability payable on taxable income after considering tax allowances, deductions and exemptions determined in accordance with the prevailing tax laws.

Deferred tax

Deferred tax liability or asset is recognized for timing differences between the profits/losses offered for income tax and profits/losses as per the financial statements. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using the tax rates and tax laws that have been enacted or substantively enacted at the Balance Sheet date.

Deferred tax asset is recognized only to the extent there is reasonable certainty that the assets can be realized in future; however, where there is unabsorbed depreciation or carried forward loss under taxation laws, deferred tax asset is recognized only if there is a virtual certainty of realization of such asset. Deferred tax asset is reviewed as at each Balance Sheet date and written down or written up to reflect the amount that is reasonably/virtually certain to be realized.

Minimum alternative tax

Minimum alternative tax (MAT) obligation in accordance with the tax laws, which give rise to future economic benefits in the form of adjustment of future income tax liability, is considered as an asset if there is convincing evidence that the Company will pay normal tax during the specified period. Accordingly, it is recognized as an asset in the Balance Sheet when it is probable that the future economic benefit associated with it will flow to the Company and the asset can be measured reliably.

j) Impairment of Assets

The Company assesses at each Balance Sheet date whether there is any indication that an asset or a group of assets (cash generating unit) may be impaired. If any such indication exists, the Company estimates the recoverable amount of the asset or a group of assets. The recoverable amount of the asset (or where applicable, that of the cash generating unit to which the asset belongs) is estimated as the higher of its net selling price and its value in use. If such recoverable amount of the asset or the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit to which the asset belongs is less than its carrying amount, the carrying amount is reduced to its recoverable amount. The reduction is treated as an impairment loss and is recognized in the Statement of Profit and Loss. After impairment, depreciation is provided on the revised carrying amount of the asset over its remaining useful life.

Value in use is the present value of estimated future cash flow expected to arise from the continuing use of the assets and from its disposal at the end of its useful life.

If at the Balance Sheet date there is an indication that a previously assessed impairment loss no longer exists, the recoverable amount is reassessed and the asset is reflected at the recoverable amount subject to a maximum of depreciable historical cost.

k) Provisions and Contingencies

A provision is recognized when an enterprise has a present obligation as a result of past event and it is probable that an outflow of resources will be required to settle the obligation, in respect of which a reliable estimate can be made. Provisions are not discounted to their present values and are determined based on management estimate required to settle the obligation at the Balance Sheet date. These are reviewed at each Balance Sheet date and adjusted to reflect the current management estimates.

Contingent liabilities are disclosed in respect of possible obligations that have arisen from past events and the existence of which will be confirmed only by the occurrence or non-occurrence of future events not wholly within the control of the Company.

When there is an obligation in respect of which the likelihood of outflow of resources is remote, no provision or disclosure is made.

3. During the current year company has incurred cash losses amounting to INR 180.79 lacs (previous year INR 519.20 lacs). Net-worth at the end of the year is also negative amounting to INR 947.68 lacs (previous year INR 609.29 lacs).

In the opinion of the management, taking into account its business and financial plans for the foreseeable future, the company is a going concern and accordingly the financial statements have been drawn up on that basis.

4. Pursuant to the Companies Act 2013 (the "Act") becoming effective from 1st April 2014, the Company has recomputed the depreciation based on the useful life of the assets as prescribed in Schedule II of The Act. This resulted in additional charge of depreciation of Rs. 69.10 lacs for the year ended 31st March 2015. Further as per transitional provision, carrying value of the asset of Rs. 9.81 lacs (net of Deferred tax of Rs. 6.48 lacs) is adjusted in the opening balance of retained earnings in respect of assets where the remaining useful life is NIL as at 1st April 2014.

These controls are monitored throughout the company and all employees are required to maintain the highest ethical standards in ensuring the company's business is conducted in a manner that in all reasonable circumstances is above reproach. The focus of risk management in the company is on identifying, assessing, managing and monitoring all known forms of risk across the company. While operating risk cannot be fully eliminated, the company endeavours to minimise it by ensuring that appropriate infrastructure, controls, systems and ethical behaviour are applied and managed within predetermined procedures and constraints.

The directors are of the opinion, based on the information and explanations given by management, that the system of internal control provides reasonable assurance that the financial records may be relied on for the preparation of the annual financial statements. However, any system of internal financial control can provide only reasonable, and not absolute, assurance against material misstatement or loss.

1. Presentation of Financial Statements

The annual financial statements have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards, and the Companies Act 71 of 2008. The financial statements have been prepared on the historical cost basis, except for the measurement of certain financial instruments at fair value, and incorporate the principal accounting policies set out below. They are presented in South African Rands.

These accounting policies are consistent with the previous period.

1.1 Significant judgements and sources of estimation uncertainty

In preparing the annual financial statements, management is required to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts represented in the financial statements and related disclosures. Use of available information and the application of judgement is inherent in the formation of estimates. Actual results in the future could differ from these estimates which may be material to the annual financial statements. Significant judgements include:

Deferred revenue

The fair value of deferred revenue from service plans is management's best estimate of the company's future income and cost based on the estimated service cost that would occur for the selected models over a period of three to five years adjusted for inflation and possible price increases in parts and labour used in the service of the selected model.

Provision for warranties

Warranty provisions are management's best estimate of the company's liability (after the expected reimbursement from the manufacturer) on vehicles under two, three or five year warranties based on the three years actual historical sales and warranty claims occurred. The cost per day calculated on those claims is used to estimate the future cost for the remaining warranty days under consideration.

1.2 Fair value measurement

The company measures financial instruments at fair value at each reporting date.

The fair values of financial instruments measured at amortised cost are disclosed should it be determined that the carrying value of these instruments do not reasonably approximate their value at each reporting date.

Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. The fair value measurement is based on the presumption that the transaction to sell the asset or transfer the liability takes place either:

- In the principal market for the asset or liability; or;
- In the absence of a principal market, in the most advantageous market for the asset or liability.

The principal or the most advantageous market must be accessible by the company.

The fair value of an asset or a liability is measured using the assumptions that market participants would use when pricing the asset or liability, assuming that market participants act in their economic best interest. At fair value measurement of a non-financial asset takes into account a market participant's ability to generate economic benefits by using the asset in the highest and best use or by selling it to another market participant that would use the asset in its highest and best use.

The company uses valuation techniques that are appropriate in the circumstances and for which sufficient data is available to measure fair value, maximizing the use of relevant observable inputs and minimising the use of unobservable inputs.

All assets and liabilities for which fair value is measured or disclosed in the financial statements are categorized within the fair value hierarchy, described as follows, based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement as a whole:

- Level 1 – Quoted (unadjusted) market prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities; or
- Level 2 – Valuation techniques for which the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement is directly or indirectly observable; or
- Level 3 – Valuation techniques for which the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement is unobservable.

1.3 Property, plant and equipment

The cost of an item of property, plant and equipment is recognised as an asset when:

- it is probable that future economic benefits associated with the item will flow to the company; and
- the cost of the item can be measured reliably.

Property, plant and equipment is initially measured at cost.

Costs include costs incurred initially to acquire or construct an item of property, plant and equipment and costs incurred subsequently to add to, replace part of, or service it. If a replacement cost is recognised in the carrying amount of an item of property, plant and equipment, the carrying amount of the replaced part is derecognised.

Property, plant and equipment are depreciated on the straight line basis over their expected useful lives to their estimated residual value.

Property, plant and equipment is carried at cost less accumulated depreciation and any impairment losses.

The useful lives of items of property, plant and equipment have been assessed as follows:

Item	Average useful life
Plant and machinery	3 years
Furniture and fixtures	3 years
Motor vehicles	4 years
Office equipment	6 years
IT equipment	4 years
Computer software	5 years
Leasehold improvements	3 years

The residual value, useful life and depreciation method of each asset are reviewed at the end of each reporting period. If the expectations differ from previous estimates, the change is accounted for as a change in accounting estimate.

Each part of an item of property, plant and equipment with a cost that is significant in relation to the total cost of the item is depreciated separately.

The depreciation charge for each period is recognised in profit or loss.

The gain or loss arising from the derecognition of an item of property, plant and equipment is included in profit or loss when the item is derecognised. The gain or loss arising from the derecognition of an item of property, plant and equipment is determined as the difference between the net disposal proceeds, if any, and the carrying amount of the item.

1.4 Financial instruments

Initial recognition and measurement

Financial instruments are recognised initially when the company becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instruments.

Financial assets and liabilities are initially recognized at fair value.

The company classifies financial instruments, or their component parts, on initial recognition as a financial asset, a financial liability or an equity instrument in accordance with the substance of the contractual arrangement.

Trade and other receivables

Trade receivables are measured at initial recognition at fair value, and are subsequently measured at amortised cost using the effective interest rate method. Appropriate allowances for estimated irrecoverable amounts are recognised in profit or loss when there is objective evidence that the asset is impaired. Significant financial difficulties of the debtor, probability that the debtor will enter bankruptcy or financial reorganisation, and default or delinquency in payments (more than 30 days overdue) are considered indicators that the trade receivable is impaired. The allowance recognised is measured as the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the present value of estimated future cash flows discounted at the effective interest rate computed at initial recognition.

The carrying amount of the asset is reduced through the use of an allowance account, and the amount of the loss is recognised in profit or loss within operating expenses. When a trade receivable is uncollectable, it is written off against the allowance account for trade receivables. Subsequent recoveries of amounts previously written off are credited against operating expenses in profit or loss.

Trade and other receivables are classified as loans and receivables.

Trade and other payables

Trade payables are initially measured at fair value, and are subsequently measured at amortised cost, using the effective interest rate method.

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents comprise of cash on hand and demand deposits, and other short term highly liquid investments that are readily convertible to a known amount of cash and are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value. These are initially and subsequently recorded at fair value.

Bank overdraft and borrowings

Bank overdrafts and borrowings are initially measured at fair value, and are subsequently measured at amortised cost, using the effective interest rate method. Any difference between the proceeds (net of transaction costs) and the settlement or redemption of borrowings is recognised over the term of the borrowings in accordance with the company's accounting policy for borrowing costs.

Other financial liabilities are measured initially at fair value and subsequently at amortised cost, using the effective interest rate method.

Derivatives

Derivative financial instruments, which are not designated as hedging instruments, consisting of foreign exchange contracts and interest rate swaps, are initially measured at fair value on the contract date, and are re measured to fair value at subsequent reporting dates.

Changes in the fair value of derivative financial instruments are recognised in profit or loss as they arise.

Derivatives are classified as financial assets at fair value through profit or loss – held for trading.

1.5 Tax

Current tax assets and liabilities

Current tax is based on taxable profit for the year.

Current tax for current and prior periods is, to the extent unpaid, recognised as a liability. If the amount already paid in respect of current and prior periods exceeds the amount due for those periods, the excess is recognised as an asset.

Current tax liabilities (assets) for the current and prior periods are measured at the amount expected to be paid to (recovered from) the tax authorities, using the tax rates (and tax laws) that have been enacted or substantively enacted by the end of the reporting period.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities

A deferred tax liability is recognised for all taxable temporary differences, except to the extent that the deferred tax liability arises from the initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction which at the time of the transaction, affects neither accounting profit nor taxable profit (tax loss).

A deferred tax asset is recognised for all deductible temporary differences to the extent that it is probable that taxable profit will be available against which the deductible temporary difference can be utilised. A deferred tax asset is not recognised when it arises from the initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction at the time of the transaction, affects neither accounting profit nor taxable profit (tax loss).

A deferred tax asset is recognised for the carry forward of unused tax losses to the extent that it is probable that future taxable profit will be available against which the unused tax losses can be utilised.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured at the tax rates that are expected to apply to the period when the asset is realised or the liability is settled, based on tax rates (and tax laws) that have been enacted or substantively enacted by the end of the reporting period.

Tax expenses

Income tax expenses represents the sum of the tax currently payable and the movement in deferred tax.

Current and deferred taxes are recognised as income or an expense and included in profit or loss for the period, except to the extent that the tax arises from:

- a transaction or event which is recognised, in the same or a different period, to other comprehensive income, or
- a transaction or event which is recognised, in the same or a different period, directly in equity, or
- a business combination.

Current tax and deferred taxes are charged or credited directly to equity if the tax relates to items that are credited or charged, in the same or a different period, directly in equity.

1.6 Leases

A lease is classified as a finance lease if it transfers substantially all the risks and rewards incidental to ownership. A lease is classified as an operating lease if it does not transfer substantially all the risks and rewards incidental to ownership.

Operating leases – lessee

Operating lease payments are recognised as an expense on a straight line basis over the lease term. The difference between the amounts recognised as an expense and the contractual payments are recognised as an operating lease asset. This liability is not discounted.

1.7 Inventories

Inventories are measured at the lower of cost and net realisable value.

Net realisable value is the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business less the estimated costs of completion and the estimated costs (towards rebates or incentives) necessary to make the sale.

The cost of inventories comprises of all costs of purchase, costs of conversion and other costs incurred in bringing the inventories to their present location and condition.

The cost of inventories is assigned using the weighted average cost formula. The same cost formula is used for all inventories having a similar nature and use to the entity.

1.8 Impairment of assets

The company assesses at each end of the reporting period whether there is any indication that an asset may be impaired. If any such indication exists, the group estimates the recoverable amount of the asset.

If there is any indication that an asset may be impaired, the recoverable amount is estimated for the individual asset. If it is not possible to estimate the recoverable amount of the individual asset, the recoverable amount of the cash generating unit to which the asset belongs is determined.

The recoverable amount of an asset or a cash generating unit is the higher of its fair value less costs to sell and its value in use.

If the recoverable amount of an asset is less than its carrying amount, the carrying amount of the asset is reduced to its recoverable amount. That reduction is an impairment loss.

An impairment loss of assets carried at cost less any accumulated depreciation or amortisation is recognised immediately in profit or loss. Any impairment loss of a revalued asset is treated as a revaluation decrease.

An entity assesses at each reporting date whether there is any indication that an impairment loss recognised in prior periods for assets other than goodwill may no longer exist or may have decreased. If any such indication exists, the recoverable amounts of those assets are estimated.

The increased carrying amount of an asset other than goodwill attributable to a reversal of an impairment loss does not exceed the carrying amount that would have been determined had no impairment loss been recognised for the asset in prior periods.

A reversal of an impairment loss of assets carried at cost less accumulated depreciation or amortisation other than goodwill is recognised immediately in profit or loss. Any reversal of an impairment loss of a revalued asset is treated as a revaluation increase.

1.9 Share capital and equity

An equity instrument is any contract that evidences a residual interest in the assets of an entity after deducting all of its liabilities.

Ordinary shares are classified as inventory.

1.10 Employee benefits

Short term employee benefits

The cost of short term employee benefits, (those payable within 12 months after the service is rendered, such as paid vacation leave and sick leave, bonuses, and non monetary benefits such as medical care), are recognised in the period in which the service is rendered and are not discounted.

The expected cost of compensated absences is recognised as an expense as the employees render services that increase their entitlement or, in the case of non accumulating absences, when the absence occurs.

The expected cost of profit sharing and bonus payments is recognised as an expense when there is a legal or constructive obligation to make such payments as a result of past performance.

Defined contribution plans

Payments to defined contribution retirement benefit plans are charged as an expense as they fall due.

1.11 Provisions and contingencies

Provisions are recognised when:

- the company has a present obligation as a result of a past event;
- it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation; and
- a reliable estimate can be made of the obligation.

The amount of a provision is the present value of the expenditure expected to be required to settle the obligation.

Where some or all of the expenditure required to settle a provision is expected to be reimbursed by another party, the reimbursement shall be recognised when, and only when, it is virtually certain that reimbursement will be received if the entity settles the obligation. The reimbursement shall be treated as a separate asset. The amount recognised for the reimbursement shall not exceed the amount of the provision.

Provisions are not recognised for future operating losses.

If an entity has a contract that is onerous, the present obligation under the contract shall be recognised and measured as a provision.

Contingent assets and contingent liabilities are not recognised.

1.12 Revenue

Revenue from the sale of goods is recognised when all the following conditions have been satisfied:

- the company has transferred to the buyer the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the goods;
- the company retains neither continuing managerial involvement to the degree usually associated with ownership nor effective control over the goods sold;
- the amount of revenue can be measured reliably;
- it is probable that the economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the company; and
- the costs incurred or to be incurred in respect of the transaction can be measured reliably.

When the outcome of a transaction involving the rendering of services can be estimated reliably, revenue associated with the transaction is recognized by reference to the stage of completion of the transaction at the end of the reporting period.

The outcome of a transaction can be estimated reliably when all the following conditions are satisfied:

- the amount of revenue can be measured reliably;
- it is probable that the economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the company;
- the stage of completion of the transaction at the end of the reporting period can be measured reliably; and
- the costs incurred for the transaction and the costs to complete the transaction can be measured reliably.

When the outcome of the transaction involving the rendering of services cannot be estimated reliably, revenue shall be recognised only to the extent of the expenses recognized that are recoverable.

Revenue is measured at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable and represents the amounts receivable for goods and services provided in the normal course of business, net of trade discounts and volume rebates, and value added tax.

Revenue from the sale of service plans is deferred over the term of the service plan.

Interest is recognised, in profit or loss, using the effective interest rate method.

1.13 Cost of sales

When inventories are sold, the carrying amount of those inventories is recognised as an expense in the period in which the related revenue is recognised. The amount of any write down of inventories to net realisable value and all losses of inventories are recognised as an expense in the period the write down or loss occurs. The amount of any reversal of any write down of inventories, arising from an increase in net realisable value, is recognised as a reduction in the amount of inventories recognised as an expense in the period in which the reversal occurs.

The related cost of providing services recognised as revenue in the current period is included in cost of sales.

1.14 Borrowing costs

Borrowing costs are recognised as an expense in the period in which they are incurred.

1.15 Translation of foreign currencies

Foreign currency transactions

A foreign currency transaction is recorded, on initial recognition in Rands, by applying to the foreign currency amount the spot exchange rate between the functional currency and the foreign currency at the date of the transaction.

At the end of the reporting period:

- foreign currency monetary items are translated using the closing rate;
- non monetary items that are measured in terms of historical cost in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rate at the date of the transaction; and
- non monetary items that are measured at fair value in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rates at the date when the fair value was determined.

Exchange differences arising on the settlement of monetary items or on translating monetary items at rates different from those at which they were translated on initial recognition during the period or in previous financial statements are recognised in profit or loss in the period in which they arise.

Cash flows arising from transactions in a foreign currency are recorded in Rands by applying to the foreign currency amount the exchange rate between the Rand and the foreign currency at the date of the cash flow.

2 New Standards and Interpretations

At the date of approval of these annual financial statements, certain new accounting standards, amendments and interpretations to existing standards have been published but are not yet effective, and have not been adopted early by the entity.

Management anticipates that all of the pronouncements will be adopted in the entity's accounting policies for the first period beginning after the effective date of the pronouncement. Information on new standards, amendments and interpretations that are expected to be relevant to the entity's financial statements is provided below. Certain other new standards and interpretations have been issued but are not expected to have a material impact on the entity's financial statements.

2.1 Standards and interpretations not yet effective and adopted in the current year

In the current year, the company has adopted the following standards and interpretations that are effective for the current financial year and that are relevant to its operations:

IFRS 13 Fair Value Measurement

The following amendments have been implemented: amendments to clarify the measurement requirements for those short-term receivable and payables and amendments to clarify that the portfolio exception applies to all contracts within the scope of, and in accordance with, IAS 39 and IFRS 9.

The effective date of the amendment is for years beginning on or after 1 July 2014.

The company has adopted the amendment for the first time in the 2015 annual financial statements.

The impact of the amendment is not material.

IAS 16 Property, Plant and Equipment

Amendments to the revaluation method will be implemented relating to proportionate restatement of accumulated depreciation.

The effective date of the amendment is for years beginning on or after 01 July 2014.

The company has adopted the amendment for the first time in the 2015 annual financial statements.

The impact of the amendment is not material.

IAS 36: Impairment assets

The amendments to IAS 36 clarified the required disclosures of information about the recoverable amount of impaired assets if that amount is based on fair value less costs of disposal.

The effective date of the amendment is for years beginning on or after 1 January 2014.

The company has adopted the amendment for the first time in the 2015 annual financial statements.

The impact of the amendment is not material.

2.2 Standards and interpretations not yet effective

The company has chosen not to early adopt the following standards and interpretations, which have been published and are mandatory for the company's accounting periods beginning on or after 01 April 2015 or later periods:

IFRS 9 Financial Instruments

The IASB aims to replace IAS 39 'Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement' (IAS 39) in its entirety with IFRS 9. To date, the chapters dealing with recognition, classification, measurement, derecognition of financial assets and liabilities and hedge accounting have been issued. Chapters dealing with impairment methodology are still being developed. Further, in November 2011, the IASB tentatively decided to consider making limited modifications to IFRS 9's financial asset classification model to address application issues.

The effective date of the amendment is for years beginning on or after 01 January 2018.

The adoption of this standard is not expected to impact on the results of the company, but may result in more disclosure than is currently provided in the annual financial statements.

IFRS 15: Revenue from Contracts with Customers

This standard provides guidance on recognition of revenue that requires recognition of revenue in a manner that depicts the transfer of goods or services to customers at an amount that reflects the consideration the entity expects to be entitled to in exchange for those goods or services.

The effective date of standard is for years beginning on or after 1 January 2017.

The adoption of this standard is not expected to impact on the results of the company, but may result in more disclosure than is currently provided in the annual financial statements.

Foreign currency sensitivity

The following table illustrates the sensitivity of the net result for the year and equity in regards to the company's financial assets and financial liabilities and the US Dollar Rand exchange rate.

It assumes a +5% and -10% change of the Rand/US Dollar exchange rate for the year ended 31 March 2015 (2014: +5% and -10%). This has been determined based on the average market volatility in exchange rates in the previous 12 months. The sensitivity analysis is based on the company's foreign currency financial instruments held at balance sheet date and also takes into account forward exchange contracts that offset effects from changes in currency exchange rates.

If the Rand had strengthened against the US Dollar by 5% (2014: 5%) then this would have had the following impact:

	Rs	ZAR	Rs	ZAR
Net results for the year	80,909	15,680	69,717	13,511

If the Rand had weakened against the US Dollar by 12% (2014: 10%) then this would have had the following impact:

	2015		2014
	Rs	ZAR	Rs	ZAR
Net results for the year	(194,181)	(37,632)	(139,439)	(27,023)

Exposure to foreign exchange rates varies during the year depending on the volumes of overseas transactions. Nonetheless the analysis above is considered to be representative of the company's exposure to currency risk.

29 Convenience Translation

The exchange rate of ZAR 1 = INR 5.17 has been used across the financial statements.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR THE FINANCIAL YEAR ENDED 31 MARCH 2015

1. Statement of significant accounting policies

General information

The financial report is a special purpose financial report prepared to satisfy the financial report preparation requirements of the Corporations Act 2001. The directors have determined that the company is not a reporting entity because in the opinion of the directors there are unlikely to exist users of the financial report who are unable to command the preparation of reports, tailored so as to satisfy specifically all of their information needs.

For the purposes of preparing the financial statements, the Company is a for profit entity.

Mahindra Automotive Australia Pty Limited is a proprietary company limited by shares, incorporated and domiciled in Australia. The ultimate parent entity is Mahindra & Mahindra Limited incorporated in India.

The following is a summary of the material accounting policies adopted by the company in the preparation of the financial report. The accounting policies have been consistently applied, unless otherwise stated. Any changes in accounting policies compared to the previous financial year have been disclosed in the Notes to the Financial Statements.

AASB 108: Accounting Policies, Changes in Accounting Estimates and Errors

The financial report has been prepared on an accruals basis and is based on historical costs, and financial assets and financial liabilities for which fair value basis of accounting has been applied. All amounts have been stated in Australian dollars.

Adoption of new and revised accounting standards

New and revised Standards and Interpretations issued by the Australian Accounting Standards Board (AASB) have not resulted in changes to the entity's accounting policies.

At the date of authorisation of the financial report, the Standards and Interpretations listed below were in issue but not yet effective. The potential impact of the new or revised Standards and Interpretations has not yet been determined.

AASB 2015-4 'Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards – Financial Reporting Requirements for Australian Groups with a Foreign Parent'	1 July 2015	31 December 2016

The following significant accounting policies have been adopted in the preparation and presentation of the financial report:

(a) Assessment of Going Concern

The financial report of the Company shows a working Capital Surplus of $1,583,700 (2014 $135,564). This financial report was prepared on a going concern basis, which assumes continuity of normal business activities and the realisation of assets and the settlement of liabilities in the ordinary course of business.

The directors are confident of the company's ability to continue as a going concern, which is dependent upon the company:

- Generating sufficient cash flows from operations to meet its financial obligations;
- Achieving future profitable trading operations
- Receiving continued support by its shareholders, in the next 12 months by extending credit as and when required in order to meet ongoing obligations to creditors as and when they fall due.

(b) Inventories

Stock on hand has been valued as follows:

New vehicles and tractors – at the lower of cost and net realisable value.

Spare parts and accessories – at the lower of cost price and net realisable value.

Demonstrator vehicles – at the lower of cost and net realisable value on a unit by unit basis.

(c) Financial instruments

Financial assets and financial liabilities are recognised on the company's balance sheet when the company becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instrument.

i) Trade receivables

Trade receivables are measured at initial recognition at fair value, and are subsequently measured at amortised cost. Appropriate allowances for estimated irrecoverable amounts are recognised in profit or loss when there is objective evidence that the asset is impaired. The allowance recognised is measured as the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the initial fair value.

ii) Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents comprise cash on hand and demand deposits, and other short-term highly liquid investments that are readily convertible to a known amount of cash and are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value.

iii) Trade payables

Trade payables are initially measured at fair value, and are subsequently measured at amortised cost.

(d) Income tax

The charge for current income tax expense is based on the profit for the year adjusted for any non-assessable or disallowed items. It is calculated using the tax rates that have been enacted or are substantially enacted by the balance sheet date.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognised in respect of temporary differences arising between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their carrying amounts in the financial statements, and on unused tax losses. No deferred tax assets or liabilities will be recognised from the initial recognition of an asset or liability excluding a business combination, that at the time of the transaction did not affect either accounting or taxable profit or loss.

Deferred tax is calculated at the tax rates that are expected to apply to the period when the asset is realised or liability is settled. Deferred tax is recognised in the income statement except where it relates to items which are recognised directly in equity, in which case the deferred tax is recognised directly in equity.

Deferred tax assets are recognised to the extent that it is probable that future tax profits will be available against which deductible temporary differences and tax losses can be utilised.

(e) Revenue recognition
i) Sales revenue

Revenue from sale of goods is recognised when the buyer has accepted the risks and rewards of ownership by taking delivery of the goods.

ii) Goods and Services Tax

All revenue is stated net of the amount of goods and services tax (GST). Cash flows are included in the cash flow statement on a gross basis. The GST component of cash flows arising from investing and financing activities which is recoverable from, or payable to, the taxation authority is classified as operating cash flows.

(f) Plant and equipment
i) Plant and equipment

Plant and equipment is measured on the cost basis less depreciation and impairment losses. Plant and equipment is measured initially at cost. Cost includes all directly attributable expenditure incurred including costs to get the asset ready for its use as intended by management. Costs includes an estimate of any expenditure expected to be incurred at the end of the asset's useful life. The following useful lives are used in the calculation of depreciation:

Plant and equipment	3 – 15 years
Furniture and fixtures	3 – 15 years
Motor Vehicles	4 – 8 years
Computer equipment	3 – 10 years

The carrying amount of plant and equipment is reviewed annually by directors for indications of impairment. If any such indications exist, an impairment test is carried out, and any impairment losses on the assets recognised.

Subsequent costs are included in the asset's carrying amount or recognised as a separate asset, as appropriate, only when it is probable that future economic benefits associated with the item will flow to the group and the cost of the item can be measured reliably. All other repairs and maintenance are charged to the income statement during the financial period in which they are incurred.

ii) Depreciation

The depreciable amount of all fixed assets is depreciated on a straight-line basis over their useful lives (commencing from the time the asset is ready for use). Leasehold improvements are depreciated over the shorter of either the unexpired period of the lease or the estimated useful lives of the improvements.

The depreciable amount is the carrying value of the asset less estimated residual amounts. The residual amount is based on what a similar asset of the expected condition of the asset at the end of its useful life could be sold for. The assets' residual values and useful lives are reviewed, and adjusted if appropriate, at each balance sheet date.

Gains and losses on disposals are determined by comparing proceeds with the carrying amount. These gains and losses are included in the income statement. When revalued assets are sold, amounts included in the revaluation reserve relating to that asset are transferred back to the income statement as part of the profit or loss on disposal.

(g) Employee benefits

Provisions are made for the company's liability for employee benefits arising from services rendered by employees to balance sheet date. Employee benefits that are expected to be settled within one year have been measured at the amounts expected to be paid when the liability is settled. Employee benefits payable later than one year have been measured at the nominal value.

(h) Critical judgements in applying the entity's accounting policies

The following are the critical judgements that management has made in the process of applying the accounting policies and that have the most significant effect on the amounts recognised in the financial statements:

Deferred tax

Deferred tax assets for timing differences and tax losses carried forward have not been recognised in the current year, and will only be recognised until such time that it is possible that future tax profits will be available.

The details of the appointment made and the personnel removed one level below the Key Managerial Personnel during a quarter shall be presented to the Board.

II. SUCCESSION PLANNING:

Purpose

The Talent Management Policy sets out the approach to the development and management of talent in the Mahindra Group to ensure the implementation of the strategic business plans of the Group and the Group Aspiration of being among the Top 50 globally most-admired brands by 2021.

Board:

The successors for the Independent Directors shall be identified by the NRC at least one quarter before expiry of the scheduled term. In case of separation of Independent Directors due to resignation or otherwise, successor will be appointed at the earliest but not later than the immediate next Board meeting or three months from the date of such vacancy, whichever is later.

The successors for the Executive Director(s) shall be identified by the NRC from among the Senior Management or through external source as the Board may deem fit.

The NRC will accord due consideration for the expertise and other criteria required for the successor.

The Board may also decide not to fill the vacancy caused at its discretion.

Senior Management Personnel:

A good succession-planning program aims to identify high growth individuals, train them and feed the pipelines with new talent. It will ensure replacements for key job incumbents in KMPs and senior management positions in the organization.

Significantly, we have a process of identifying Hi-pots and critical positions. Successors are mapped for these positions at the following levels :

1. Emergency successor
2. Ready now
3. Ready in 1 to 2 years
4. Ready in 2 to 5 years
5. Ready in more than 5 years

in order to ensure talent readiness as per a laddered approach.

Policy Statement

The Talent Management framework of the Mahindra Group has been created to address three basic issues :

- 1) Given the strategic business plans, do we have the skills and competencies required to implement them? If not, how do we create them – by developing them internally or through lateral induction from outside?
- 2) For critical positions, what is the succession pipeline?
- 3) What are the individual development plans for individuals both in the succession pipeline as well as others?

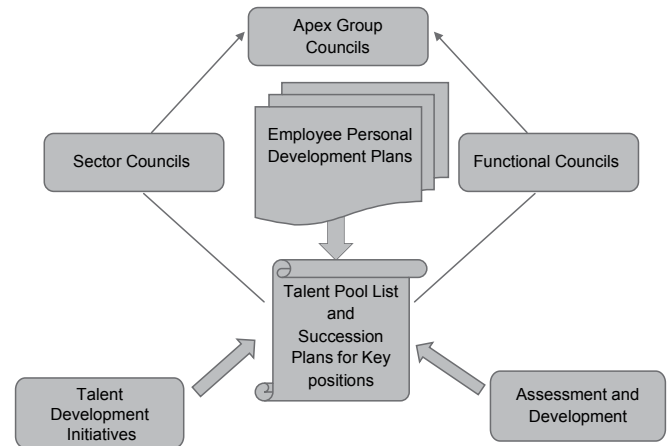

The framework lays down an architecture and processes to address these questions using the 3E approach :

- a) Experience i.e. both long and short-term assignments. This has 70% weightage
- b) Exposure i.e. coaching and mentoring – 20% weightage
- c) Education i.e. learning and development initiatives – 10% weightage

The Talent Management process is applicable to all employees. Over the years, the Talent Management framework has become a well-structured and process-oriented system which is driven by an interactive and collaborative network of Talent Councils at the Group and Sector Levels. These Talent Councils, which consist mainly of Senior business leaders supported by HR, are a mix of Sector (Business) and Functional Councils coordinated by an Apex Talent Council, headed by the Group Chairman. The Apex Council reviews the work done by the Talent Councils and facilitates movement of talent across Sectors. The Sector/Functional Councils meet regularly throughout the year and the Apex Council interacts with each one of them separately once a year, and in addition conducts an integrated meeting where the Chairpersons of all the Councils are present.

The Talent Management process can be represented pictorially as under:

The talent pipeline is maintained and developed so as to ensure that there is a seamless flow of talent. An important part of this exercise is drawing up and implementing IDAPs (Individual Development Action Plans) for every Executive concerned using the 3E approach mentioned above.

POLICY FOR REMUNERATION OF THE DIRECTORS, KEY MANAGERIAL PERSONNEL AND OTHER EMPLOYEES

Purpose

This Policy sets out the approach to Compensation of Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and other employees in Mahindra Reva Electric Vehicles Private Limited.

Policy Statement

We have a well-defined Compensation policy for Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and all employees, including the Chairman, Presidents and other Members of the Group Executive Board who are employees of the Company. The overall compensation philosophy which guides us is that in order to achieve global leadership and dominance in domestic markets, we need to attract and retain high performers by compensating them at levels that are broadly comparable with the median of the comparator basket while differentiating people on the basis of performance, potential and criticality for achieving competitive advantage in the business.

In order to effectively implement this, we have built our Compensation structure by a regular annual benchmarking over the years with relevant players across the industry we operate in.

NON-EXECUTIVE INCLUDING INDEPENDENT DIRECTORS:

The Nomination and Remuneration Committee (NRC) shall decide the basis for determining the compensation, both Fixed and variable, to the Non Executive Directors, including Independent Directors, whether as commission or otherwise. The NRC shall take into consideration various factors such as director's participation in Board and Committee meetings during the year, other responsibilities undertaken, such as membership or Chairmanship of committees, time spent in carrying out their duties, role and functions as envisaged in Schedule IV of the Companies Act 2013 and Clause 49 of the Listing Agreement with Stock Exchanges and such other factors as the NRC may consider deem fit for determining the compensation. The Board shall determine the compensation to Non-Executive Directors within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders resolution.

Executive Directors/Managing Director/Manager:

The remuneration to Managing Director/Manager/Executive Director(s) shall be recommended by NRC to the Board. The remuneration consists of both fixed compensation and variable compensation and shall be paid as salary, commission, performance bonus, stock options (where applicable), perquisites and fringe benefits as approved by the Board and within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders resolution. While the fixed compensation is determined at the time of their appointment, the variable compensation will be determined annually by the NRC based on their performance.

Key Managerial Personnel (KMPs)

The terms of remuneration of Chief Executive Officer (CEO), Chief Financial Officer (CFO), and the Company Secretary shall be determined by any director or such other person as may be authorised by the Nomination and Remuneration Committee (NRC) from time to time. The remuneration shall be consistent with the competitive position of the salary for similar positions in the industry and their Qualifications, Experience, Roles and Responsibilities. Pursuant to the provisions of section 203 of the Companies Act 2013 the Board shall approve the remuneration at the time of their appointment.

The remuneration to directors, KMPs and senior management involves a balance between fixed and incentive pay reflecting short and long-term performance objectives appropriate to the working of the company and its goals.

Employees

We follow a differential approach in choosing the comparator basket for benchmarking, depending upon the level in the organization:

- a. For all employees from Operational to Executive Band, we benchmark with a set of comparators from the same industry.
- b. For Strategic band and above, we have a position-based approach and the comparator basket includes benchmarks from across relevant industries.

We have a CTC (Cost to Company) concept which includes a fixed component (Guaranteed Pay) and a variable component (Performance pay). The percentage of the variable component increases with increasing hierarchy levels, as we believe employees at higher positions have a far greater impact and influence on the overall business result. The CTC is reviewed once every year and the compensation strategy for positioning of individuals takes into consideration the following elements:

- Performance
- Potential
- Criticality
- Longevity in grade

Remuneration for the new employees other than KMPs and Senior Management Personnel will be decided by the HR, in consultation with the concerned business unit head at the time of hiring, depending upon the relevant job experience, last compensation and the skill-set of the selected candidate.

The Company may also grant Stock Options to the Employees and Directors (other than Independent Directors and Promoter) in accordance with the ESOP Scheme of the Company and subject to the compliance of the applicable statutes and regulations.

1. Corporate information

Mahindra Reva Electric Vehicles Private Limited (formerly Reva Electric Car Company Private Limited) ('the Company' or 'REVA') is engaged in design, manufacture, assembly, testing, marketing and selling of electrically powered vehicles and licensing of technology. The marketing of the car is done through a network of dealers in India and abroad.

2. Basis of preparation

The financial statements of the Company have been prepared in accordance with the generally accepted accounting principles in India (Indian GAAP). The Company has prepared these financial statements to comply in all material respects with the accounting standards notified under section 133 of the Companies Act 2013, read together with paragraph 7 of the Companies (Accounts) Rules 2014. The financial statements have been prepared on an accrual basis and under the historical cost convention. The accounting policies adopted in the preparation of financial statements are consistent with those of previous year.

2.1 Summary of significant accounting policies

a. Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with Indian GAAP requires the management to make judgments, estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of revenues, expenses, assets and liabilities and the disclosure of contingent liabilities, at the end of the reporting period. Although these estimates are based on the management's best knowledge of current events and actions, uncertainty about these assumptions and estimates could result in the outcomes requiring a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets or liabilities in future periods.

b. Tangible fixed assets

Fixed assets are stated at cost, net of accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses, if any. The cost comprises purchase price, borrowing costs if capitalization criteria are met and directly attributable cost of bringing the asset to its working condition for the intended use. Any trade discounts and rebates are deducted in arriving at the purchase price.

Subsequent expenditure related to an item of fixed asset is added to its book value only if it increases the future benefits from the existing asset beyond its previously assessed standard of performance. All other expenses on existing fixed assets, including day-to-day repair and maintenance expenditure and cost of replacing parts, are charged to the statement of profit and loss for the period during which such expenses are incurred.

Gains or losses arising from de recognition of fixed assets are measured as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset and are recognized in the statement of profit and loss when the asset is derecognized.

c. Depreciation on tangible fixed assets

Depreciation on fixed assets is calculated on a straight-line basis over the useful lives of assets estimated by the management. The Company has used the following rates to provide depreciation on its fixed assets.

Type of asset	Estimated Life (SLM)	Schedule II Estimated Life (SLM)
Plant and Equipment	15	15
Factory Building	30	30
Furniture & Fixtures	10	10
Computer Equipment	3	3
Vehicles	5	8
Batteries	8	Not defined
Tools and fixtures	8	Not defined
Office Equipment	5	5

Leasehold improvements at leased premises are depreciated over the unexpired lease period or 10 years useful life, whichever is less. Fixed assets individually having an original cost of Rs 5,000 or less are fully depreciated in the year of purchase.

d. Intangible assets

Technical Know-how

Technical know-how is amortised using the straight-line method over a period not exceeding five years from the date of purchase/licensing.

Development expenditure

Research costs are expensed as incurred. Development expenditure incurred on individual products is capitalised as an intangible asset, when its future recoverability can reasonably be regarded as assured. Intangibles representing capitalised product development costs are amortised, on a straight line basis over a period not exceeding five years from the date of commercial production, based on the estimation of future economic life of the product by the management.

Computer Software

The expenditure incurred is amortised, on a straight line basis over a period of four years.

e. Operating Leases

Leases of assets under which all the risks and rewards of ownership are effectively retained by the lessor are classified as operating leases. Lease payments under operating leases are recognized as an expense on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

f. Borrowing costs

Borrowing cost includes interest, amortization of ancillary costs incurred in connection with the arrangement of borrowings and exchange differences arising from foreign currency borrowings to the extent they are regarded as an adjustment to the interest cost.

Borrowing costs directly attributable to the acquisition, construction or production of an asset that necessarily takes a substantial period of time to get ready for its intended use or sale are capitalized as part of the cost of the respective asset. All other borrowing costs are expensed in the period they occur.

g. Impairment of tangible and intangible assets

The carrying amounts of assets are reviewed at each balance sheet date if there is any indication of impairment based on internal/external factors. An impairment loss is recognized wherever the carrying amount of an asset exceeds its recoverable amount. The recoverable amount is the greater of the assets net selling price and value in use. In assessing value in use, the estimated future cash flows are discounted to their present value at the weighted average cost of capital. After impairment, depreciation is provided on the revised carrying amount of the assets over its remaining useful life.

h. Investments

Investments that are readily realisable and intended to be held for not more than a year are classified as current investments. All other investments are classified as long-term investments. Current investments are carried at lower of cost and fair value determined on an individual investment basis. Long-term investments are carried at cost. However, provision for diminution in value is made to recognise a decline other than temporary in the value of the investments.

On disposal of an investment, the difference between its carrying amount and net disposal proceeds is charged or credited to the statement of profit and loss.

i. Inventories

Inventories are valued as follows:

Raw materials, components, stores and spares

Lower of cost and net realizable value. However, materials and other items held for use in the production of inventories are not written down below cost if the finished products in which they will be incorporated are expected to be sold at or above cost. Cost is determined on a weighted average basis. Customs duty on materials in bonded warehouses is considered for valuation of inventories, as applicable.

Work-in-progress and finished goods

Lower of cost and net realizable value. Cost includes direct materials and labour and a proportion of manufacturing overheads based on normal operating capacity. Cost of finished goods includes excise duty.

Net realizable value is the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business, less estimated costs of completion and to make the sale. Obsolete or slow moving inventories are adequately provided for on a specific identification basis.

j. Revenue recognition

Revenue is recognized to the extent that it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Company and the revenue can be reliably measured.

Sale of Products

Sale of cars, accessories and spares, are recognised on despatch of goods to customers and are shown net of trade discounts and returns, Sales Tax and Value Added Tax. Excise duty deducted from Sales (Gross) is the amount that is included in the amount of Sales (Gross) and not the entire amount of liability that arose during the year.

Income from services

Revenue relating to licensing of technology is recognized upon completion of performance obligations under the terms of agreement with the customer. Revenue relating to development of technology is recognized on the basis of proportionate completion method.

Revenues from maintenance contracts are recognized pro-rata over the period of the contract as and when services are rendered. The Company collects service tax on behalf of the government and, therefore, it is not an economic benefit flowing to the Company. Hence, it is excluded from revenue.

Interest

Revenue is recognised on a time proportion basis taking into account the amount outstanding and the rate applicable.

k. Foreign currency translation

Foreign currency transactions and balances

(i) Initial recognition

Foreign currency transactions are recorded in the reporting currency, by applying to the foreign currency amount the exchange rate between the reporting currency and the foreign currency at the date of the transaction.

(ii) Conversion

Foreign currency monetary items are reported using the closing rate. Non-monetary items which are carried in terms of historical cost denominated in a foreign currency are reported using the exchange rate at the date of the transaction; and non-monetary items which are carried at fair value or other similar valuation denominated in a foreign currency are reported using the exchange rates that existed when the values were determined.

(iii) Exchange Differences

Exchange differences arising on the settlement of monetary items or on reporting Company's monetary items at rates different from those at which they were initially recorded during the year, or reported in previous financial statements, are recognised as income or as expenses in the year in which they arise.

(iv) Forward exchange contracts not intended for trading or speculation purposes

The premium or discount arising at the inception of forward exchange contracts is amortised as expense or income over the life of the contract. Exchange differences on such contracts are recognised in the statement of profit and loss in the year in which the exchange rates change. Any profit or loss arising on cancellation or renewal of forward exchange contract is recognised as income or as expense for the year.

l. Retirement and other employee benefits

Defined Contribution Plan (Provident fund)

Retirement benefit in the form of provident fund is a defined contribution scheme. The contributions to the provident fund are charged to the statement of profit and loss for the year when the contributions are due. The Company has no obligation, other than the contribution payable to the provident fund.

Defined Benefit Plan (Gratuity)

Gratuity liability is provided for based on the actuarial valuation on projected unit credit method made at end of each financial year. The gratuity plan is funded with insurance companies, in the form of qualifying insurance policies. Actuarial gains/losses are immediately taken to profit and loss account and are not deferred.

Leave Encashment

Accumulated leave, which is expected to be utilized within the next 12 months, is treated as short-term employee benefit. The Company measures the expected cost of such absences as the additional amount that it expects to pay as a result of the unused entitlement that has accumulated at the reporting date. The Company treats accumulated leave expected to be carried forward beyond twelve months, as long-term employee benefit for measurement purposes. Such long-term compensated absences are provided for based on the actuarial valuation using the projected unit credit method at the year-end. Actuarial gains/losses are immediately taken to the statement of profit and loss and are not deferred.

m. Income taxes

Tax expense comprises current and deferred tax. Current income tax is measured at the amount expected to be paid to the tax authorities in accordance with the Income-tax Act, 1961 enacted in India. Deferred income taxes reflect the impact of current year timing differences between taxable income and accounting income for the year and reversal of timing differences of earlier years. Deferred tax is measured based on the tax rates and the tax laws enacted or substantively enacted at the balance sheet date. Deferred tax assets are recognised on carry forward of unabsorbed depreciation and tax losses only if there is virtual certainty that such deferred tax assets can be realised against future taxable profits. Unrecognised deferred tax assets of earlier years are re-assessed and recognised to the extent that it has become reasonably certain that future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realised. As at March 31, 2015, the Company has carry forward loss and unabsorbed depreciation but no deferred tax assets have been recognised in absence of virtual certainty of profits in the near future.

n. Employee stock compensation cost

Measurement and disclosure of the employee share-based payment plans is done in accordance with the Guidance Note on Accounting for Employee Share-based Payments, issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India. The Company measures compensation cost relating to employee stock options using the intrinsic value method. Compensation expense is amortized over the vesting period of the option on a straight line basis.

Compensation expense means the excess of the intrinsic value of the underlying shares as at the date of grant of the options over the exercise price of the options.

o. Segment reporting

The Company is engaged in design, manufacture, assembly, testing, marketing and selling of electrically powered vehicles and licensing of technology. The risks and returns of the Company are predominantly determined by its principal product i.e. battery operated electric cars and accordingly the Company operates in single business segment. The geographical segment information is disclosed based on the location of the customer. There are no fixed assets located outside India.

p. Earnings/(Loss) Per Share

Basic earnings/(loss) per share are calculated by dividing the net profit or loss for the period attributable to equity shareholders (after deducting preference dividends and attributable taxes) by the weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the period. Partly paid equity shares are treated as a fraction of an equity share to the extent that they were entitled to participate in dividends relative to a fully paid equity share during the reporting period. The weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the period is adjusted for events of bonus issue; bonus element in a rights issue to existing shareholders; share split; and reverse share split (consolidation of shares).

For the purpose of calculating diluted earnings/(loss) per share, the net profit or loss for the period attributable to equity shareholders and the weighted average number of shares outstanding during the period are adjusted for the effects of all dilutive potential equity shares. Potential equity shares are anti-dilutive since their conversion to equity shares would decrease loss per share from continuing ordinary activities. Accordingly, the effects of anti-dilutive potential equity shares are ignored in calculating dilutive earnings per share.

q. Provisions

A provision is recognized when the Company has a present obligation as a result of past event, it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation and a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation. Provisions are not discounted to their present value and are determined based on the best estimate required to settle the obligation at the reporting date. These estimates are reviewed at each reporting date and adjusted to reflect the current best estimates.

r. Contingent liabilities

A contingent liability is a possible obligation that arises from past events whose existence will be confirmed by the occurrence or non-occurrence of one or more uncertain future events beyond the control of the Company or a present obligation that is not recognized because it is not probable that an outflow of resources will be required to settle the obligation. A contingent liability also arises in extremely rare cases where there is a liability that cannot be recognized because it cannot be measured reliably. The Company does not recognize a contingent liability but discloses its existence in the financial statements.

s. Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents for the purposes of cash flow statement comprise cash at bank and in hand and short-term investments with an original maturity of three months or less.

3. During the year, the Company continued to incur substantial losses i.e. Rs. 940.83 million (2014 – Rs. 805.09 million) and has accumulated losses of Rs. 3,544.64 million (2014 – Rs. 2,602.90 million) as at March 31, 2015. However, owing to the continued support from the holding company and based on the future growth as per the business plans, the Company is confident of funding its operating and capital expenditure and continue business operations in the foreseeable future. Accordingly, these financial statements have been prepared on a going concern basis.

The principal assumptions used in determining gratuity for the company's plan are shown below:

Discount rate	7.85%	9.17%
Expected rate of return on assets	8%	8%

The estimates of future salary increases, considered in actuarial valuation, take account of inflation, seniority, promotion and other relevant factors, such as supply and demand in the employment market. The overall expected rate of return on assets is determined based on the market prices prevailing on that date, applicable to the period over which the obligation is to be settled.

Located in Pyeongtaek near Seoul, South Korea, SYMC is a manufacturer of vehicles and automotive parts with a line-up of models below.

- a) SUVs – Rexton, Kyron, Actyon, Korando C and Tivoli;
- b) Pick up – Korando Sports (Sports Utility Truck; SUT);
- c) MPV – Korando Turismo; and
- d) Luxury sedans – Chairman

The Company also manufactures gasoline and diesel engines at its Changwon plant. The Company has over 170 domestic dealers, and exports through distributors to more than 100 countries.

The Company has 2 subsidiaries, namely, Ssangyong Motor (Shanghai) Company Limited in China, and Ssangyong European Parts Center B.V. in the Netherlands.

2. Operation Overview

SYMC's total sales revenue of 2014 decreased by 4.6% to KRW 3,314.9 bn (INR 190.6 bn) and total sales in 2014 slightly decreased by 3.2% to 141,047 units.

The domestic sales in 2014 increased by 7.9% to 69,036 units compared to that in 2013. SYMC has seen sales increase in the domestic market for 5 consecutive years. Also, SYMC recorded the highest domestic sales volume since 2005. However, exports in 2014 decreased by 11.8% to 72,011 (including CKD) mainly due to volume decrease in the major export markets such as Russia.

3. Profit and Loss

In spite of proactive cost reduction activities and sales expansion of profitable cars, company's net loss increased from KRW 3.8bn (INR 0.2bn) in 2013 to KRW 50.6bn (INR 2.9bn) in 2014. Also, company's operating loss increased from KRW 10.6bn (INR 0.6bn) in 2013 to KRW 77.8bn (INR 4.5bn) in 2014. This was mainly due to the expanded application of ordinary wage and the volume decrease in the major export markets including Russia.

4. Financial Status

Total asset decreased by KRW 150 bn (INR 8.6 bn) to KRW 1,973.8 bn (INR 113.5 bn) at the end of 2014, from KRW 2,123.8 bn (INR 124.8 bn) at the end of the preceding fiscal year. Total liabilities decreased by KRW 43 bn (INR 2.5 bn) to KRW 1,190.7 bn (INR 68.5 bn) at the end of 2014 from KRW 1,233.8 bn (INR 72.5 bn) at the end of the preceding fiscal year. Total capital decreased by KRW 106.9 bn (INR 6.1 bn) to KRW 783.1 bn (INR 45.0 bn) at the end of 2014 from KRW 890bn (INR 52.3 bn) at the end of the preceding fiscal year, and debt ratio (total liabilities to total capital) increased to 152.1% from 138.6% at the end of the preceding fiscal year.

The decrease in assets is primarily due to the decrease in cash and cash equivalents by KRW 210 bn (INR 12.1 bn) resulting from operating loss, increased working capital, capital expenditure and loan repayment. The main cause for the decrease in liabilities is the repayment of corporate bond KRW 95.4 bn (INR 5.5 bn) which was issued at the time of Mahindra's acquisition of SYMC in 2011.

Share capital at the end of 2014 is KRW 686.1 bn (INR 40.3 bn). There has not been a change after the issuance of 14,545,455 shares through a third party allotment, total value of KRW 80bn (INR 4.7 bn) (Including premium of KRW 7.3bn (INR 0.4bn) on stock issued in 2013.

5. Future Business Plan

SYMC's 2015 business plan is to target 156,000 units of global sales volume.

SYMC plans to expand global sales by proactively responding to the growth in SUV sectors both in the domestic and the export markets. By launching one new model every year and improving cost structure and profitability, SYMC plans to strengthen the company's financial condition.

SYMC will launch various line up including 'Tivoli' gasoline, diesel and long-body models. The gasoline model was launched in January, 2015 and during the 1st quarter, 8037 units were sold achieving a market share of 55.4% in the domestic SUV B-segment.

In particular, SYMC plans to make best efforts to make 'Tivoli' the main driving engine for the company towards its aim to be known as a global SUV expert.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

English Translation of Independent Auditors' Report Originally Issued in Korean on March 9, 2015

To the Shareholders and Board of Directors of Ssangyong Motor Company:

Report on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying separate financial statements of SSANGYONG MOTOR COMPANY (the "Company"), which comprise the separate statements of financial position as of December 31, 2014 and December 31, 2013, respectively, and the separate statements of comprehensive income, separate statements of changes in stockholders' equity and separate statements of cash flows, for the years ended, and a summary of significant accounting policies and other explanatory information.

Management's Responsibility for the Separate Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these separate financial statements in accordance with Korean International Financial Reporting Standards ("K-IFRS") and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of separate financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditors' Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an audit opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with Korean Standards on Auditing ("KSAs"). Those standards require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion

In our opinion, the separate financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Company as of December 31, 2014, and December 31, 2013, respectively and its financial performance and its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with K-IFRS.

Others

We conducted our audit of separate financial statements of the Company as of December 31, 2013 in accordance with the former KSAs, known as auditing standards generally accepted in Korea.

Our audit also comprehended the translation of Korean Won amounts into Indian rupee amounts and, in our opinion, such translation has been made in conformity with the basis in Note 2. Such Indian rupee amounts are presented solely for the convenience of readers.

(1) Basis of preparation

The Company has prepared its financial statements in accordance with the Korean International Financial Reporting Standards ("K-IFRS") for the annual period beginning on January 1, 2011.

The Company's financial statements are separate financial statements prepared in accordance with the requirements of K-IFRS 1027 Separate Financial Statements, in which a parent, or an investor with joint control of, or significant influence over, an investee accounts for the investments on the basis of the direct equity interest rather than on the basis of the underlying results and net assets of the investees.

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared on the historical cost basis except for certain properties/non-current assets and financial instruments that are measured at revalued amounts or fair values, as explained in the accounting policies below. Historical cost is generally based on the fair value of the consideration given.

(1) First-time adoption of IFRSs and its description (change in accounting policy) as follows:Amendments to K-IFRS 1019 – Employee Benefits

The amendments permits the Company to recognize amount of contributions as a reduction in the service cost in which the related service is rendered if the amount of the contributions are independent of the number of years of service. The amendments are effective for the annual periods beginning on or after July 1, 2014.

Amendments to K-IFRS 1032 – Financial Instruments: Presentation

The amendments to K-IFRS 1032 clarify the requirement for the offset presentation of financial assets and financial liabilities: the right to offset must not be conditional upon the occurrence of future events and can be exercised anytime during the contract periods. The right to offset is executable even in the case of default or insolvency. As the Company does not have any financial assets and financial liabilities that qualify for offset based on the criteria set out in the amendments and concluded that the application of the amendments has no significant impact on the Company's financial statements.

Amendments to K-IFRS 1110, 1112 and 1027 – Investment Entities

The amendments introduced an exception to the principle in K-IFRS 1110 Consolidated financial statement that all subsidiaries shall be consolidated. The amendments define an investment entity and require a reporting entity that meets definition of an investment entity not to consolidate its subsidiaries but instead to measure its subsidiaries at fair value through profit or loss in its consolidated and separate financial statements. Also, the Consequential amendments have been made to K-IFRS 1112, Disclosure of Interests in Other Entities and K-IFRS 1027, Separate Financial Statements to introduce new disclosure requirements for investment entities. As the Company is not an investment entity, the application of the amendments has no significant impact on the Company's separate financial statements.

Amendments to K-IFRS 1036 – Impairment of Assets

The amendments introduced disclosure requirements of recoverable amount when the recoverable amount of an asset or CGU is measured at fair value less costs of disposal. The application of these amendments has no impact on the disclosure in the Company's financial statements.

Amendments to K-IFRS 1039 – Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement

The amendments permits the Company to use hedge accounting when, as a consequence of laws or regulations or the introduction of laws or regulations, the original counterparty to the hedging instrument is replaced by a central counterparty or an entity which is acting as counterparty in order to effect clearing by a central counterparty. The adoption of the amendments has no significant impact on the Company's separate financial statements.

Enactment of K-IFRS 2121 – Levies

The enactment defines that the obligating event giving rise to the recognition of a liability to pay a levy is the activity that triggers the payment of the levy in accordance with the related legislation. The enactment no significant impact on the Company's separate financial statements.

The list above does not include some other amendments such as the Amendments to K-IFRS 1036 related to recoverable amount disclosures for non-financial assets, and the amendments do not have an impact on the interim financial statement.

Annual Improvements to K-IFRS 2010-2012 Cycle

The amendments to K-IFRS 1002 (i) changes the definitions of 'vesting condition' and 'market condition'; and (ii) add definition for 'performance condition' and 'service condition' which were previously included within the definition of 'vesting condition'. The amendments to K-IFRS 1103 clarify the classification and measurement of the contingent consideration in business combination. The amendments to K-IFRS 1108 clarify that a reconciliation of the total of the reportable segments' assets should only be provided if the segment assets are regularly provided to the chief operating decision maker. The amendments are effective for the annual periods beginning on or after July 1, 2014.

Annual Improvements to K-IFRS 2011-2013 Cycle

The amendments to K-IFRS 1103 clarify the scope of the portfolio exception for measuring the fair values of the Company of financial assets and financial liabilities on a net basis includes all contracts that are within the scope the standard does not apply to the accounting for the formation of all types of joint arrangement in the financial statements of the joint arrangement itself. The amendments to K-IFRS 1113 Fair values Measurements and K-IFRS 1040 Investment Properties exist and these amendments are effective to the annual periods beginning on or after July 1, 2014.

2) New and revised IFRSs issued but not yet effective

The Company has not applied the following new and revised IFRSs that have been issued but are not yet effective.

Amendments to K-IFRS 1016 – Property, plant and Equipments

Amendments to K-IFRS 1038 Intangible Assets

The amendments apply prospectively for annual periods beginning on or after January 1, 2016. The amendments to K-IFRS 38 rebuts presumption that revenue is not an appropriate basis for the amortisation of an intangible assets, which the presumption can only be rebutted when the intangible asset expressed as a measure of revenue or when it can be demonstrated that revenue and consumption of the economic benefits of the intangible asset are highly correlated,

Amendments to K-IFRS 1111 Accounting for Acquisitions of Interests in Joint Operations

The amendments to K-IFRS 1111 provides guidance on how to account for the acquisition of joint operation that constitute a business as defined in K-IFRS 1103 Business Combinations. Amendments to K-IFRS 1027 – Separate Financial Statements

The following amendments discusses accounting for investment in subsidiaries, related parties, and joint ventures at cost basis, and as well as allowing application of K-IFRS 1039 Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement methods and application of equity method accounting under K-IFRS 1028 Investment in Associates and Joint Ventures. The amendments are effective for the annual periods beginning on or after January 1, 2016.

The Company does not anticipate that these amendments referred above will have a significant effect on the Company's separate financial statements and disclosures.

Major accounting policies used for the preparation of the separate financial statements are stated below. Unless stated otherwise, these accounting policies have been applied consistently to the financial statements for the current period and accompanying comparative period.

(2) Accounting for investments in subsidiaries

The Company in accordance with the K-IFRS 1027 'Consolidated and Separate financial statements', is a parent company and it has subsidiaries of which Ssangyong Motor (Shanghai) Co., Ltd and Ssangyong European Parts Center B.V. When the Company prepares separate statements, the investments in subsidiaries are accounted for at cost basis by the direct investment proportion. And also the Company recognize a dividend from a subsidiary in profit or loss in the separate financial statements when its right to receive the dividend is established.

(3) Revenue recognition

Revenue is measured at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable. Revenue is reduced for estimated customer returns, rebates and other similar allowances. The Company recognizes revenue when the amount of revenue can be reliably measured; when it is probable that future economic benefits will flow to the entity; and when specific criteria have been met for each of the Company's activities, as described below.

1) Sale of goods

Revenue from the sale of goods is recognized when the Company has transferred to the buyer the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the goods.

2) Rendering of services

Revenue from a contract to provide services is recognized by reference to the stage of completion of the contract. Depending on the nature of the transaction, the Company determines the stage of completion by reference to surveys of work performed, services performed to date as a percentage of total services to be performed, or the proportion that costs incurred to date bear to the estimated total costs of the transaction, as applicable.

3) Dividend and interest income

Dividend income from investments is recognized when the shareholder's right to receive payment has been established (provided that it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Company and the amount of income can be measured reliably).

Interest income from a financial asset is recognized when it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Company and the amount of income can be measured reliably. Interest income is accrued on a time basis, by reference to the principal outstanding and at the effective interest rate applicable, which is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash receipts through the expected life of the financial asset to that asset's net carrying amount on initial recognition

(4) Foreign currencies

The individual financial statements of each entity are presented in the currency of the primary economic environment in which the entity operates (its functional currency). For the purpose of the financial statements, the results and financial position of each entity are expressed in Korean Won, which is the functional currency of the entity and the presentation currency for the consolidated financial statements.

In preparing the financial statements of the individual entities, transactions in currencies other than the entity's functional currency (foreign currencies) are recognized at the rates of exchange prevailing at the dates of the transactions. At the end of each reporting period, monetary items denominated in foreign currencies are retranslated at the rates prevailing at that date. Non-monetary items carried at fair value that are denominated in foreign currencies are retranslated at the rates prevailing at the date when the fair value was determined. Non-monetary items that are measured in terms of historical cost in a foreign currency are not retranslated.

Exchange differences are recognized in profit or loss in the period in which they arise except for:

- exchange differences on foreign currency borrowings relating to assets under construction for future productive use, which are included in the cost of those assets when they are regarded as an adjustment to interest costs on those foreign currency borrowings;
- exchange differences on transactions entered into in order to hedge certain foreign currency risks (see Note 2 (25) below for hedging accounting policies); and
- exchange differences on monetary items receivable from or payable to a foreign operation for which settlement is neither planned nor likely to occur (therefore forming part of the net investment in the foreign operation), which are recognized initially in other comprehensive income and reclassified from equity to profit or loss on disposal or partial disposal of the net investment.

For the purpose of presenting financial statements, the assets and liabilities of the Company's foreign operations are expressed in Korean Won using exchange rates prevailing at the end of the reporting period. Income and expense items are translated at the average exchange rates for the period, unless exchange rates fluctuated significantly during that period, in which case the exchange rates at the dates of the transactions are used. Exchange differences arising, if any, are recognized in other comprehensive income and accumulated in equity (attributed to non-controlling interests as appropriate).

On the disposal of a foreign operation (i.e. a disposal of the Group's entire interest in a foreign operation, or a disposal involving loss of control over a subsidiary that includes a foreign operation, or partial disposal of an interest in a joint arrangement or an associate that includes a foreign operation of which the retained interest becomes a financial asset), all of the accumulated exchange differences in respect of that operation attributable to the owners of the Company are reclassified to profit or loss. Any exchange differences that have previously been attributed to non-controlling interests are derecognized, but they are not reclassified to profit or loss.

In the case of a partial disposal (i.e. no loss of control) of a subsidiary that includes a foreign operation, the proportionate share of accumulated exchange differences are re-attributed to non-controlling interests in equity and are not recognized in profit or loss. For all other partial disposals (i.e. partial disposals of associates or joint arrangements that do not result in the Company losing significant influence or joint control), the proportionate share of the accumulated exchange differences is reclassified to profit or loss.

Goodwill and fair value adjustments arising on the acquisition of a foreign operation are treated as assets and liabilities of the foreign operation and translated at the closing rate. Exchange differences arising are recognized in other comprehensive income.

(5) Financial instruments

Financial assets and financial liabilities are recognized when a an entity becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instruments. Financial assets and financial liabilities are initially measured at fair value. Transaction costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition or issue of financial assets and financial liabilities are added to or deducted from the fair value of the financial assets or financial liabilities, as appropriate, on initial recognition. Transaction costs directly attributable to the acquisition of financial assets or financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss are recognized immediately in profit or loss.

All regular way purchases or sales of financial assets are recognized and derecognized on a trade date basis. Regular way purchases or sales are purchases or sales of financial assets that require delivery of assets within the time frame established by regulation or convention in the marketplace.

Financial assets are classified into the following specified categories: 'financial assets at fair value through profit or loss (FVTPL)', 'held-to-maturity investments', 'available-for-sale (AFS) financial assets' and 'loans and receivables'. The classification depends on the nature and purpose of the financial assets and is determined at the time of initial recognition.

1) Effective interest method

The effective interest method is a method of calculating the amortized cost of a debt instrument and of allocating interest income over the relevant period. The effective interest rate is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash receipts (including all fees and points paid or received that form an integral part of the effective interest rate, transaction costs and other premiums or discounts) through the expected life of the debt instrument, or, where appropriate, a shorter period, to the net carrying amount on initial recognition.

Income is recognized on an effective interest basis for debt instruments other than those financial assets classified as at FVTPL.

2) Financial assets at FVTPL

Financial assets are classified as at FVTPL when the financial asset is either held for trading or it is designated as at FVTPL.

A financial asset is classified as held for trading if:

- it has been acquired principally for the purpose of selling it in the near term; or
- on initial recognition it is part of a portfolio of identified financial instruments that the Company manages together and has a recent actual pattern of short-term profit-taking; or
- it is a derivative that is not designated and effective as a hedging instrument.

A financial asset other than a financial asset held for trading may be designated as at FVTPL upon initial recognition if:

- such designation eliminates or significantly reduces a measurement or recognition inconsistency that would otherwise arise; or
- the financial asset forms part of a Company of financial assets or financial liabilities or both, which is managed and its performance is evaluated on a fair value basis, in accordance with the Company's documented risk management or investment strategy, and information about the grouping is provided internally on that basis; or
- it forms part of a contract containing one or more embedded derivatives, and K-IFRS 1039 Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement permits the entire combined contract (asset or liability) to be designated as at FVTPL.

Financial assets at FVTPL are stated at fair value, with any gains or losses arising on remeasurement recognized in profit or loss. The net gain or loss recognized in profit or loss incorporates any dividend or interest earned on the financial asset and is included in the 'other gains and losses' line item in the statement of comprehensive income.

3) Held-to-maturity investments

Non-derivatives financial assets with fixed or determinable payments and fixed maturity dates that the Company has the positive intent and ability to hold to maturity are classified as held-to-maturity investments. Held-to-maturity investments are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method less any impairment, with revenue recognized on an effective yield basis.

4) AFS financial assets

AFS financial assets are non-derivatives that are either designated as AFS or are not classified as (a) loans and receivables, (b) held-to-maturity investments or (c) financial assets at fair value through profit or loss.

They are subsequently measured at fair value at the end of each reporting period. Changes in the carrying amount of AFS monetary financial assets relating to changes in foreign currency rates (see below), interest income calculated using the effective interest method and dividends on AFS equity investments are recognized in profit or loss. Other changes in the carrying amount of AFS financial assets are recognized in other comprehensive income (as investments revaluation reserve). When the investment is disposed of or is determined to be impaired, the cumulative gain or loss previously accumulated in other comprehensive income is reclassified to profit or loss.

Dividends on AFS equity instruments are recognized in profit or loss when the Company's right to receive the dividends is established.

The fair value of AFS monetary financial assets denominated in a foreign currency is determined in that foreign currency and translated at the spot rate prevailing at the end of the reporting period. The foreign exchange gains and losses that are recognized in profit or loss are determined based on the amortized cost of the monetary asset. Other foreign exchange gains and losses are recognized in other comprehensive income.

AFS equity investments that do not have a quoted market price in an active market and whose fair value cannot be reliably measured and derivatives that are linked to and must be settled by delivery of such unquoted equity investments are measured at cost less any identified impairment losses at the end of each reporting period.

5) Loans and receivables

Trade receivables, loans, and other receivables that have fixed or determinable payments that are not quoted in an active market are classified as 'loans and receivables'. Loans and receivables are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method, less any impairment. Interest income is recognized by applying the effective interest rate, except for short-term receivables when the effect of discounting is immaterial.

6) Impairment of financial assets

Financial assets, other than those at FVTPL, are assessed for indicators of impairment at the end of each reporting period. Financial assets are considered to be impaired when there is objective evidence that more events that occurred after the initial recognition of the financial asset, the estimated future cash flows of the investment have been affected.

For AFS equity investments, a significant or prolonged decline in the fair value of the security below its cost is considered to be objective evidence of impairment.

For all other financial assets, objective evidence of impairment include:

- significant financial difficulty of the issuer or counterparty; or
- default or delinquency in interest or principal payments; or
- it becoming probable that the borrower will enter bankruptcy or financial re-organization; or
- the disappearance of an active market for that financial asset because of financial difficulties.

For certain categories of financial asset, such as trade receivables, assets that are assessed not to be impaired individually are, in addition, assessed for impairment on a collective basis. Objective evidence of impairment for a portfolio of receivables could include the Company's past experience of collecting payments, an increase in the number of delayed payments in the portfolio past the average credit period of [xx] days, as well as observable changes in national or local economic conditions that correlate with default on receivables.

For financial assets carried at amortized cost, the amount of the impairment loss recognized is the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the present value of estimated future cash flows, discounted at the financial asset's original effective interest rate.

For financial assets that are carried at cost, the amount of the impairment loss recognized is the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the present value of estimated future cash flows, discounted at the current market rate of return for a similar financial asset. Such impairment loss will not be reversed in subsequent periods.

The carrying amount of the financial asset is reduced by the impairment loss directly for all financial assets with the exception of trade receivables, where the carrying amount is reduced through the use of an allowance account. When a trade receivable is considered uncollectible, it is written off against the allowance account. Subsequent recoveries of amounts previously written off are credited against the allowance account. Changes in the carrying amount of the allowance account are recognized in profit or loss.

When an AFS financial asset is considered to be impaired, cumulative gains or losses previously recognized in other comprehensive income are reclassified to profit or loss in the period.

For financial assets measured at amortized cost, if, in a subsequent period, the amount of the impairment loss decreases and the decrease can be related objectively to an event occurring after the impairment was recognized, the previously recognized impairment loss is reversed through profit or loss to the extent that the carrying amount of the investment at the date the impairment is reversed does not exceed what the amortized cost would have been had the impairment not been recognized.

In respect of AFS equity securities, impairment losses previously recognized in profit or loss are not reversed through profit or loss. Any increase in fair value subsequent to an impairment loss is recognized in other comprehensive income. In respect of AFS debt securities, impairment losses are subsequently reversed through profit or loss if an increase in the fair value of the investment can be objectively related to an event occurring after the recognition of the impairment loss.

7) Derecognition of financial assets

The Company derecognizes a financial asset only when the contractual rights to the cash flows from the asset expire, or when it transfers the financial asset and substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership of the asset to another entity. If the Company neither transfers nor retains substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership and continues to control the transferred asset, the Company recognizes its retained interest in the asset and an associated liability for amounts it may have to pay. If the Company retains substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership of a transferred financial asset, the Company continues to recognize the financial asset and also recognizes a collateralized borrowing for the proceeds received.

On derecognition of a financial asset in its entirety, the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the sum of the consideration received and receivable and the cumulated gain or loss that had been recognized in other comprehensive income and accumulated in equity is recognized in profit or loss.

On derecognition of a financial assets other than in its entirety (e.g. when the Company retains an option to repurchase part of a transferred asset, or it retains a residual interest and such an retained interest indicates that the transferor has neither transferred nor retained substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership and has retained control of the transferred asset), the Company allocates the previous carrying amount of the financial asset between the part it continues to recognize under continuing involvement, and the part it no longer recognizes on the basis of the relative fair value of those parts on the date of the transfer. The difference between the carrying amount allocated to the part that is no longer recognized and the sum of the consideration received for the part that is no longer recognized and any cumulative gain or loss allocated to it that had been recognized in other comprehensive income is recognized in profit or loss. A cumulative gain or loss that had been recognized in other comprehensive income is allocated between the part that continues to be recognized and the part that is no longer recognized on the basis of the relative fair value of those parts.

(6) Financial liabilities and equity instruments

1) Classification as debt or equity

Debt and equity instruments are classified as either financial liabilities or as equity in accordance with the substance of the contractual arrangement and the definitions of financial liability and an equity instrument.

2) Equity instruments

An equity instrument is any contract that evidences a residual interest in the assets of an entity after deducting all of its liabilities. Equity instruments issued by the Company are recognized at the proceeds received, net of direct issue costs.

Repurchase of the Company's own equity instruments is recognized and deducted directly in equity. No gain or loss is recognized in profit or loss on the purchase, sale, issue or cancellation of the Company's own equity instruments.

3) Financial liabilities

Financial liabilities are recognized when the Company becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instruments. Financial liabilities are initially measured at fair value. Transaction cost that are directly attributable to the issue of financial liabilities are deducted from the fair value of the financial liabilities on initial recognition. Transaction cost directly attributable to acquisition of financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss are recognized immediately in profit or loss.

Financial liabilities are classified as either financial liabilities at FVTPL or other financial liabilities.

4) Financial liabilities at FVTPL

Financial liabilities are classified as at FVTPL when the financial liability is either held for trading or it is designated as FVTPL.

A financial liability is classified as held for trading if:

- it has been acquired principally for the purpose of repurchasing it in the near term; or
- on initial recognition it is part of a portfolio of identified financial instruments that the Company manages together and has a recent actual pattern of short-term profit-taking; or
- it is a derivative that is not designated and effective as a hedging instrument.

A financial liability other than a financial liability held for trading may be designated as at FVTPL upon initial recognition if:

- such designation eliminates or significantly reduces a measurement or recognition inconsistency that would otherwise arise; or
- the financial liability forms part of a Company of financial assets or financial liabilities or both, which is managed and its performance is evaluated on a fair value basis, in accordance with the Company's documented risk management or investment strategy, and information about the grouping is provided internally on that basis; or
- it forms part of a contract containing one or more embedded derivatives, and K-IFRS 1039 Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement permits the entire combined contract (asset or liability) to be designated as at FVTPL.

Financial liabilities at FVTPL are stated at fair value, with any gains or losses arising on remeasurement recognized in profit or loss. The net gain or loss recognized in other gains and losses line item in the statement of comprehensive income.

5) Other financial liabilities

Other financial liabilities are subsequently measured at amortized cost using the effective interest method, with interest expense recognized on an effective yield basis.

The effective interest method is a method of calculating the amortized cost of a financial liability and of allocating interest expense over the relevant period. The effective interest rate is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash payments including all fees and points paid or received (that form an integral part of the effective interest rate) and transaction costs and other premiums or discounts through the expected life of the financial liability, or (where appropriate) a shorter period, to the net carrying amount on initial recognition.

6) Derecognition of financial liabilities

The Company derecognize financial liabilities when the Company's obligation are discharged, cancelled or they expire. The difference between the carrying amount of the financial liability derecognized and the consideration paid and payable is recognized in profit or loss.

(7) Derivative financial instruments

The Company enters into a variety of derivative financial instruments to manage its exposure to interest rate and foreign exchange rate risk, including foreign exchange forward contracts, interest rate swaps and cross currency swaps.

Derivatives are initially recognized at fair value at the date the derivative contract is entered into and are subsequently remeasured to their fair value at the end of each reporting period. The resulting gain or loss is recognized in profit or loss immediately unless the derivative is designated and effective as a hedging instrument, in such case the timing of the recognition in profit or loss depends on the nature of the hedge relationship.

A derivative with a positive fair value is recognized as a financial asset; a derivative with a negative fair value is recognized as a financial liability. A derivative is presented as a non-current asset or a non-current liability if the remaining maturity of the instrument is more than 12 months and it is not expected to be realized or settled within 12 months. Other derivatives are presented as current assets or current liabilities.

1) Cash flow hedges

The effective portion of changes in the fair value of derivatives that are designated and qualify as cash flow hedges is recognized in other comprehensive income. The gain or loss relating to the ineffective portion is recognized immediately in other gains and losses line item.

Amounts previously recognized in other comprehensive income and accumulated in equity are reclassified to profit or loss in the periods when the hedged item is recognized in profit or loss, in the same line of the statement of comprehensive income as the recognized hedged item. However, when the forecast transaction that is hedged results in the recognition of a non-financial asset or a non-financial liability, the gains and losses previously accumulated in equity are transferred from equity and included in the initial measurement of the cost of the non-financial asset or non-financial liability.

Hedge accounting is discontinued when the Company revokes the hedging relationship, when the hedging instrument expires or is sold, terminated, or exercised, or it no longer qualifies for hedge accounting. Any gain or loss accumulated in equity at that time remains in equity and is recognized when the forecast transaction is ultimately recognized in profit or loss. When a forecast transaction is no longer expected to occur, the gain or loss accumulated in equity is recognized immediately in profit or loss.

(8) Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost and net realizable value. Cost of inventories, except for those in in-transit, are measured under the weighted average method and consists of the purchase price, cost of conversion and other costs incurred in bringing the inventories to their present location and condition. Net realizable value represents the estimated selling price for inventories less all estimated costs of completion and costs necessary to make the sale.

When inventories are sold, the carrying amount of those inventories is recognized as an expense (cost of sales) in the period in which the related revenue is recognized. The amount of any write-down of inventories to net realizable value and all losses of inventories is recognized as an expense in the period the write-down or loss occurs. The amount of any reversal of any write-down of inventories, arising from an increase in net realizable value, is recognized as a reduction in the amount of inventories recognized as an expense in the period in which the reversal occurs.

(9) Property, plant and equipment

Property, plant and equipment are stated at cost less subsequent accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses. The cost of an item of property, plant and equipment is directly attributable to their purchase or construction, which includes any costs directly attributable to bringing the asset to the location and condition necessary for it to be capable of operating in the manner intended by management. It also includes the initial estimate of the costs of dismantling and removing the item and restoring the site on which it is located.

Subsequent costs are recognized in carrying amount of an asset or as a separate asset if it is probable that future economic benefits associated with the assets will flow into the Company and the cost of an asset can be measured reliably. Routine maintenance and repairs are expensed as incurred.

The Company does not depreciate land. Depreciation expense is computed using the straight-line method based on the estimated useful lives of the assets as follows:

	Useful lives (Years)
Buildings	24~50
Structures	13~30
Machinery and Equipment	10
Vehicles	6~10
Other	6~10

If each part of an item of property, plant and equipment has a cost that is significant in relation to the total cost of the item, it is depreciated separately.

The Company reviews the depreciation method, the estimated useful lives and residual values of property, plant and equipment at the end of each annual reporting period. If expectations differ from previous estimates, the changes are accounted for as a change in an accounting estimate.

An item of property, plant and equipment is derecognized upon disposal or when no future economic benefits are expected to arise from the continued use of the asset. Any gain or loss arising on derecognition of the property (calculated as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset) is included in profit or loss in the period in which the property is derecognized.

(10) Intangible assets

1) Intangible assets acquired separately

Intangible assets with finite useful lives that are acquired separately are carried at cost less accumulated amortization and accumulated impairment losses. Amortization is recognized on a straight-line basis over their estimated useful lives. The estimated useful life and amortization method are reviewed at the end of each reporting period, with the effect of any changes in estimate being accounted for on a prospective basis. Intangible assets with indefinite useful lives that are acquired separately are carried at cost less accumulated impairment losses.

2) Internally-generated intangible assets - research and development expenditure

Expenditure on research activities is recognized as an expense in the period in which it is incurred.

Expenditure arising from development (or from the development phase of an internal project) is recognized as an intangible asset if, only if, the development project is designed to produce new or substantially improved products, and the Company can demonstrate the technical and economical feasibility and measure reliably the resources attributable to the intangible asset during its development.

The amount initially recognized for internally-generated intangible assets is the sum of the expenditure incurred from the date when the intangible asset first meets the recognition criteria. Where no internally-generated intangible asset can be recognized, development expenditure is recognized in profit or loss in the period in which it is incurred.

Subsequent to initial recognition, internally-generated intangible assets are reported at cost less accumulated amortization and accumulated impairment losses, on the same basis as intangible assets that are acquired separately.

3) Intangible assets acquired in a business combination

Intangible assets that are acquired in a business combination are recognized separately from goodwill and are initially recognized at their fair value at the acquisition date (which is regarded as their cost). Subsequent to initial recognition, intangible assets acquired in a business combination are reported at cost less accumulated amortization and accumulated impairment losses, on the same basis as intangible assets that are acquired separately.

4) Derecognition of intangible assets

An intangible asset is derecognized on disposal, or when no future economic benefits are expected from its use or disposal. Gains or losses arising from derecognition of an intangible asset, measured as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset, and are recognized in profit or loss when the asset is derecognized.

(11) Impairment of property, plant and equipment

At the end of each reporting period, the Company reviews the carrying amounts of its tangible and intangible assets to determine whether there is any indication that those assets have suffered an impairment loss. If any such indication exists, the recoverable amount of the asset is estimated in order to determine the extent of the impairment loss (if any). Where it is not possible to estimate the recoverable amount of an individual asset, the Company estimates the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit to which the asset belongs. Where a reasonable and consistent basis of allocation can be identified, corporate assets are also allocated to individual cash-generating units, or otherwise they are allocated to the smallest group of cash-generating units for which a reasonable and consistent allocation basis can be identified.

Intangible assets with indefinite useful lives and intangible assets not yet available for use are tested for impairment at least annually, and whenever there is an indication that the asset may be impaired. Recoverable amount is the higher of fair value less costs to sell and value in use. In assessing value in use, the estimated future cash flows are discounted to their present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the asset for which the estimates of future cash flows have not been adjusted.

If the recoverable amount of an asset (or a cash-generating unit) is estimated to be less than its carrying amount, the carrying amount of the asset (or the cash-generating unit) is reduced to its recoverable amount. An impairment loss is recognized immediately in profit or loss, unless the relevant asset is carried at a revalued amount, in which case the impairment loss is treated as a revaluation decrease.

(12) Retirement benefit costs and termination benefits

For defined benefit retirement benefit plans, the cost of providing benefits is determined using the Projected Unit Credit Method, with actuarial valuations being carried out at the end of each reporting period. Remeasurement, comprising actuarial gains and losses, the effect of the changes to the asset ceiling (if applicable) and the return on plan assets (excluding interest), is reflected immediately in the statement of financial position with a charge or credit recognized in other comprehensive income in the period in which they occur. Remeasurement recognized in other comprehensive income is reflected immediately in retained earnings and will not be reclassified to profit or loss. Past service cost is recognized in profit or loss in the period of a plan amendment. Net interest is calculated by applying the discount rate at the beginning of the period to the net defined benefit liability or asset. Defined benefit costs are composed of service cost (including current service cost, past service cost, as well as gains and losses on curtailments and settlements), net interest expense (income), and remeasurement.

The Company presents the service cost and net interest expense (income) components in profit or loss, and the remeasurement component in other comprehensive income. Curtailment gains and losses are accounted for as past service costs.

The retirement benefit obligation recognized in the statement of statement of financial position represents the actual deficit or surplus in the Company's defined benefit plans. Any surplus resulting from this calculation is limited to the present value of any economic benefits available in the form of refunds from the plans or reductions in future contributions to the plans.

A liability for a termination benefit is recognized at the earlier of when the entity can no longer withdraw the offer of the termination benefit and when the entity recognizes any related restructuring costs.

(13) Provisions

Provisions are recognized when the Company has a present obligation (legal or constructive) as a result of a past event, it is probable that the Company will be required to settle the obligation, and a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation.

The amount recognized as a provision is the best estimate of the consideration required to settle the present obligation at the end of the reporting period, taking into account the risks and uncertainties surrounding the obligation. When a provision is measured using the cash flows estimated to settle the present obligation, its carrying amount is the present value of those cash flows (where the effect of the time value of money is material). The discount rate used is a pre-tax rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the liability. Where discounting is used, the increase in the provision due to the passage is recognized in profit or loss as borrowing cost.

When some or all of the economic benefits required to settle a provision are expected to be recovered from a third party, a receivable is recognized as an asset if it is virtually certain that reimbursement will be received and the amount of the receivable can be measured reliably.

At the end of each reporting period, the remaining provision balance is reviewed and assessed to determine if the current best estimate is being recognized. If the existence of an obligation to transfer economic benefit is no longer probable, the related provision is reversed during the period.

(14) Lease

Leases are classified as finance leases whenever the terms of the lease transfer substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership to the lessee. All other leases are classified as operating leases.

1) The Company as lessor

Amounts due from lessees under finance leases are recognized as receivables at the amount of the Company's net investment in the leases. Finance lease income is allocated to accounting periods so as to reflect a constant periodic rate of return on the Company's net investment outstanding in respect of the leases.

Rental income from operating leases is recognized on a straight-line basis over the term of the relevant lease. Initial direct costs incurred in negotiating and arranging an operating lease are added to the carrying amount of the leased asset and recognized on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

2) The Company as lessee

Assets held under finance leases are initially recognized as assets of the Company at their fair value at the inception of the lease or, if lower, at the present value of the minimum lease payments. The corresponding liability to the lessor is included in the statement of financial position as a finance lease obligation.

Lease payments are apportioned between finance expenses and reduction of the lease obligation so as to achieve a constant rate of interest on the remaining balance of the liability. Finance expenses are recognized immediately in profit or loss, unless they are directly attributable to qualifying assets, in which case they are capitalized in accordance with the Company's general policy on borrowing costs (see Note 2. (12)). Contingent rentals are recognized as expenses in the periods in which they are incurred.

Operating lease payments are recognized as an expense on a straight-line basis over the lease term, except where another systematic basis is more representative of the time pattern in which economic benefits from the leased asset are consumed. Contingent rentals arising under operating leases are recognized as an expense in the period in which they are incurred.

In the event that lease incentives are received to enter into operating leases, such incentives are recognized as a liability. The aggregate benefit of incentives is recognized as a reduction of rental expense on a straight-line basis, except where another systematic basis is more representative of the time pattern in which economic benefits from the leased asset are consumed

(15) Borrowing costs

Borrowing costs directly attributable to the acquisition, construction or production of qualifying assets, which are assets that necessarily take a substantial period of time to get ready for their intended use or sale, are added to the cost of those assets, until such time as the assets are substantially ready for their intended use or sale.

Investment income earned on the temporary investment of specific borrowings pending their expenditure on qualifying assets is deducted from the borrowing costs eligible for capitalization.

All other borrowing costs are recognized in profit or loss in the period in which they are incurred.

(16) Government grants

Government grants are not recognized until there is reasonable assurance that the Company will comply with the conditions attaching to them and that the grants will be received.

The benefit of a government loan at a below-market rate of interest is treated as a government grant, measured as the difference between proceeds received and the fair value of the loan based on prevailing market interest rates.

Government grants related to assets are presented in the statement of financial position by deducting the grant from the carrying amount of the asset. The related grant is recognized in profit or loss over the life of a depreciable asset as a reduced depreciation expense.

Government grants related to income are recognized in profit or loss on a systematic basis over the periods in which the Company recognizes as expenses the related costs for which the grants are intended to compensate. Government grants that are receivable as compensation for expenses or losses already incurred or for the purpose of giving immediate financial support to the Company with no future related costs are recognized in profit or loss in the period in which they become receivable

(17) Taxation

Income tax expense represents the sum of the tax currently payable and deferred tax.

1) Current tax

The tax currently payable is based on taxable profit for the year. Taxable profit differs from profit as reported in the statement of profit or loss and comprehensive income because of items of income or expense that are taxable or deductible in other years and items that are never taxable or deductible. The Company's liability for current tax is calculated using tax rates that have been enacted or substantively enacted by the end of the reporting period.

2) Deferred tax

Deferred tax is recognized on temporary differences between the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities in the financial statements and the corresponding tax bases used in the computation of taxable profit. Deferred tax liabilities are generally recognized for all taxable temporary differences. Deferred tax assets are generally recognized for all deductible temporary differences to the extent that it is probable that taxable profits will be available against which those deductible temporary differences can be utilized. Such deferred tax assets and liabilities are not recognized if the temporary difference arises from goodwill or from the initial recognition (other than in a business combination) of other assets and liabilities in a transaction that affects neither the taxable profit nor the accounting profit.

Deferred tax liabilities are recognized for taxable temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries and associates, and interests in joint ventures, except where the Company is able to control the reversal of the temporary difference and it is probable that the temporary difference will not reverse in the foreseeable future. Deferred tax assets arising from deductible temporary differences associated with such investments and interests are only recognized to the extent that it is probable that there will be sufficient taxable profits against which to utilize the benefits of the temporary differences and they are expected to reverse in the foreseeable future.

The carrying amount of deferred tax assets is reviewed at the end of each reporting period and reduced to the extent that it is no longer probable that sufficient taxable profits will be available to allow all or part of the asset to be recovered.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured at the tax rates that are expected to apply in the period in which the liability is settled or the asset realized, based on tax rates (and tax laws) that have been enacted or substantively enacted by the end of the reporting period. The measurement of deferred tax liabilities and assets reflects the tax consequences that would follow from the manner in which the Company expects, at the end of the reporting period, to recover or settle the carrying amount of its assets and liabilities.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are offset if, and only if the Company has a legally enforceable right to set off current tax assets against current tax liabilities, and the deferred tax assets and liabilities relate to income taxes levied by the same taxation authority on either the same taxable entity or different taxable entities which intend either to settle current tax liabilities and assets on a net basis, or to realize the assets and settle the liabilities simultaneously, in each future period in which significant amounts of deferred tax liabilities or assets are expected to be settled or recovered.

For the purpose of measuring deferred tax liabilities and deferred tax assets for investment properties that are measured using the fair value model, the carrying amounts of such properties are presumed to be recovered entirely through sale, unless the presumption is rebutted. The presumption is rebutted when the investment property is depreciable and is held within a business model whose objective is to consume substantially all of the economic benefits embodied in the investment properties over time, rather than through sale.

3) Current and deferred tax for the year

Current and deferred tax are recognized in profit or loss, except when they relate to items that are recognized in other comprehensive income or directly in equity, in which case, the current and deferred tax are also recognized in other comprehensive income or directly in equity respectively. Where current tax or deferred tax arises from the initial accounting for a business combination, the tax effect is included in the accounting for the business combination.

(18) Fair Value

Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date, regardless of whether that price is directly observable or estimated using another valuation technique. In estimating the fair value of an asset or a liability, the Company takes into account the characteristics of the asset or liability if market participants would take those characteristics into account when pricing the asset or liability at the measurement date. Fair value for measurement and/or disclosure purposes in these financial statements is determined on such a basis, except for share-based payment transactions that are within the scope of K-IFRS 1102 Share-based payment, leasing transactions that are within the scope of K-IFRS 1017 Leases, and measurements that have some similarities to fair value but are not fair value, such as net realisable value in K-IFRS 1002 Inventories or value in use in K-IFRS 1036 Impairment of Assets.

In addition, for financial reporting purposes, fair value measurements are categorized into Level 1, 2 or 3 based on the degree to which the inputs to the fair value measurements are observable and the significance of the inputs to the fair value measurement in its entirety, which are described as follows:

- Level 1 inputs are quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the entity can access at the measurement date;
- Level 2 inputs are inputs, other than quoted prices included within Level 1, that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly or indirectly; and
- Level 3 inputs are unobservable inputs for the asset or liability.

(19) Segment information

Segment information is presented in the same format as the reporting material presented to the Company's management. The Company's management is liable for the assessment of the resources to be allocated to the business segments and the performance results of the business segments.

3. CRITICAL ACCOUNTING ESTIMATES AND ASSUMPTIONS:

In the application of the Company accounting policies, which are described in Note 2, management is required to make judgments, estimates and assumptions about the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities that are not readily apparent from other sources. The estimates and associated assumptions are based on historical experience and other factors that are considered to be relevant. Actual results may differ from these estimates.

The estimates and underlying assumptions are reviewed on an ongoing basis. Revisions to accounting estimates are recognized in the period in which the estimate is revised if the revision affects only that period or in the period of the revision and future periods if the revision affects both current and future periods.

The following are the key assumptions concerning the future, and other key sources of estimation uncertainty at the end of the reporting period, that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities within the next financial year.

(1) Provision for product warranties

The Company provides warranties for its products at recognition of sale and establishes a provision for product warranties at the end of each reporting period based on the best estimate of the expenses necessary to provide present and future warranty obligations.

5. RESTRICTED FINANCIAL ASSETS:

Restricted financial assets as of December 31, 2014, and 2013, are as follows:

6. LONG-TERM AVAILABLE-FOR-SALE FINANCIAL ASSETS:

The Company's long-term available-for-sale financial assets as of December 31, 2014, and December 31, 2013, are as follows:
(Unit: Korean won in thousands)

Classification	Ownership (%)	December 31, 2014			December 31, 2013

Kihyup Technology Banking Corporation (*).....	1.72%	Rs. 28,750	Rs. 38,546	Rs. 28,750	Rs. 28,750

(2) Retirement benefit obligation

The retirement benefit obligation recognized in the statements of financial position represents the present value of the defined benefit obligation as adjusted for unrecognized actuarial gains and losses and unrecognized past service cost, and as reduced by the fair value of plan assets. For defined benefit retirement benefit plans, the cost of providing benefits is determined using the Projected Unit Credit Method, with actuarial valuations being carried out at the end of each reporting period. The present value of defined benefit obligations is expressed in a currency in which retirement benefits will be paid and is calculated by discounting expected future cash outflows with the interest rate of high quality corporate bonds which maturity is similar to the payment date of retirement benefit obligations. Other significant assumptions related to defined benefit obligation are partly based on the current market situation.

4. CASH AND CASH EQUIVALENTS:

Cash and cash equivalents include cash on hand and in banks and highly liquid short-term financial instruments that may be easily converted into cash and whose risk of value fluctuation is not material.

Classification	Ownership (%)	December 31, 2014			December 31, 2013

		Rs. 32,200	Rs. 64,952	Rs. 32,200	Rs. 32,200

(*) Because the market prices from an active market are not available and the fair values cannot be reliably measured, AFS financial assets are measured at their acquisition costs.

7. TRADE AND OTHER RECEIVABLES:

All current trade and other receivables are due within 1 year from December 31, 2014, and because the present value discount effect is not material, the fair value of the aforementioned receivables is equal to the book value.

(2) Credit risk and allowance for doubtful accounts

The above-mentioned trade and non-trade receivables and other receivables are classified as loans and receivables and measured at amortized cost.

If a credit risk occurs with respect to a dealership sale, which is a major type of the Company's sales, the respective dealership bears all of the risk; the Company manages credit risk on product sales using two management indexes, agreed liability rate and agreed excess rate, and when the management index exceeds the agreed rate, it imposes a release restriction on the respective dealership and transfers a credit risk arising from product sales.

The Company's trade receivables are usually collected within 30 days but some of the notes receivable are collected within 75 days. Based on the past experience, receivables that are overdue for more than one year are usually not collected, and the Company reserves the full amount of those receivables as an allowance for doubtful accounts. The Company estimates an allowance for the receivables that are overdue for more than 90 days but less than one year through an individual analysis based on each transacting party; for receivables that are not subject to individual analysis, the Company estimates an allowance based on the historical loss rates.

Some of the trade receivables that are overdue for more than 90 days are not included in the above-mentioned trade receivables (refer to the aging analysis below); the Company did not reserve an allowance for the aforementioned receivables since their credit ratings did not change materially and they are expected to be collected. The Company has no collaterals pledged or credit enforcement provided for the aforementioned receivables and does not have a legal right to offset those receivables with the debt of the transacting parties.

Aging analysis of the trade and non-trade receivables that are overdue but are not impaired as of December 31, 2014, and 2013, are as follows:

b. Interest rate risk

Sensitivity analysis was conducted assuming floating rate debt current balance is the same during the whole reporting period. When reporting interest rate risk to management internally, 0.5% variation is used, representing management's assessment about reasonably possible fluctuations of interest rates.

When other variables are constant and the interest rate is lower or higher by 0.5% than the current rate, the Company's current income will decrease/increase ₩176,301 thousand (Rs. 10,137 thousand) for the year ended December 31, 2014, due to floating rate debt's interest rate risk.

(5) Fair value of financial instruments

1) The Company's management deems that the differences between carrying value and fair value of financial assets and financial liabilities recognized as amortized cost on financial statements is not significant.

2) Valuation methods and assumptions applied in fair value measurement

The fair values of financial instruments (i.e., government bonds and unsecured corporate bonds) traded on active markets are determined with reference to quoted market prices. The Company uses the closing price as the quoted market price for its financial assets.

The fair values of derivatives where no active market exists or where quoted prices are not otherwise available are determined by using valuation techniques. Non-option derivatives are evaluated by discounted cash flow method using the yield curve available. Options are evaluated by option-pricing models. Foreign exchange forward contracts are determined using the yield curve derived from market interest rates with the same maturity of forward contracts. To measure interest rate swaps, the cash flows are estimated by the yield curve derived from market interest rate and discounted to calculate the present value of swaps.

Fair values of other financial assets and liabilities (except those stated above) are calculated by generally accepted valuation models based on discounted cash flow analysis.

3) The following table provides an analysis of financial instruments that are measured subsequent to initial recognition at fair value, classified as Level 1, 2 or 3, based on the degree to which the fair value is observable.

Level 1	Unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities
Level 2	Inputs other than quoted prices that are observable for the asset or liability either directly or indirectly
Level 3	Inputs that are not based on observable market data

Fair values of financial instruments by heirarchy level as of December 31, 2014, and 2013, are as follows:

(Unit: Korean won in thousands)

Type	December 31, 2014				Fair value
	Level 1	Level 2	Level 3

	Level 1	Level 2	Level 3
Derivatives designated to hedge item	Rs.	–	Rs. 1,666,612	Rs.	–	Rs. 1,666,612

4) The Company measures the foreign exchange forward contract derivative assets: ₩1,232,650 thousand (Rs. 70,877 thousand), derivative liabilities : ₩14,974,250 thousand (Rs. 861,019 thousand)) based on the forward rate announced officially in the market as of December 31, 2014. In the event that no corresponding forward rate with residual period of the foreign exchange forward contract in the market exists, the Company measured the market value through interpolation method.

As input factors used in measuring market value of foreign exchange forward are from observable exchange forward rate, the Company classified the fair value of the foreign exchange forward as Level 2.

DIRECTORS' REPORT

Ssangyong European Parts Center B.V. (the Company) is pleased to present the financial information of the Company for the year ended 31 December 2014.

Principal Activities

The Company was established in 2006 as a 100% subsidiary of Ssangyong Motor Company ("SYMC", hereinafter), an automotive manufacturing company in Korea with its products of SUV's (sports utility vehicles) and a large-sized sedan. On behalf of SYMC, the Company is supplying spare parts to SYMC's overseas distributors in Europe for their after-sales services, through its warehouse facilities in Breda, since April 2007.

Risks

The Company is performing its business activities based on the service agreement settled with SYMC.

Currency risk:

The Company is mainly active in the European Union and all receivables and payables are denominated in Euro, accordingly, the currency risk is not hedged.

Interest rate risk:

The Company is exposed to interest rate risk mainly on the interest-bearing cash at bank. The Company is exposed to the consequences of variable interest rates on cash at bank. The Company has not entered into any derivative contracts to hedge the interest risk on assets or liabilities.

Operations in 2014

The Company achieved annual re-invoicing sales of around EUR 10.0 million (around Rupees 777.3 million) in 2014, which is slightly higher as in the previous year.

With respect to gross operating structure, excluding the effects from its provision for bad inventory and the yearend adjustment for the agreed compensation with SYMC, the Company's Cost Of Goods Sold (COGS) rate increased by around 0.1 % points to 73.0% in 2014 from 72.9 % a year earlier.

In terms of the Company's local operational cost, its Sales, General & Administrative expenses (SG&A) decreased this year around 4.49 % to EUR 2.3 million (around Rupees 179 million), primarily due to the investments in its ERP system and Human Resources to prepare for the further reduced outsourcing work scopes, mentioned in the 'Significant events in 2014' in this report. As of December 31, 2014, the Company employs 7 local people including expatriates from SYMC.

Significant events in 2014

The Company has entered into a 5 year service agreement with Pantos Logistics Benelux B.V. effectively at January 1, 2012 to outsource its warehousing facilities and IT system. This change has enabled the Company to reduce around 52% of its fixed outsourcing cost, which accounted for around 78% of total SG&A in 2011, 56% of total SG&A in 2012, 51% of total SG&A in 2013 and 53% of total SG&A in 2014.

During 2011, the Company settled with SYMC on the service agreement, of which the Dutch tax authorities acknowledged the validity through an Advanced Pricing Agreement (APA) with the Company.

In 2014 the Company significantly lowered its provision for bad inventory following the sale- and scrap of the older spare parts for models no longer sold or serviced within the European Union. At the same time this enabled the Company to free up warehouse space that will be needed for the spare parts for the new models the parent company scheduled to launch in 2015 and thereafter.

Future Prospects

The Company predicts that its sales in the year of 2015 will be favourable compared to the prior period. And the Company's operating profit will be going forward favourably by the new environment under which its logistics service provider and the outsourced work scopes changed since January 1, 2012.

The Company will have a focus on having a stable operation structure to meet any requirement that is coming from the customers' side and occurs internally as well.

The shareholder has been fully supporting for the Company's operation going further in the year of 2015 and the after, considering that the Company's distribution of spare parts is a basic value in automotive business against Distributors and Partners in European territories. No significant further changes in personnel and investments are expected in 2015.

1.1 The Company

Ssangyong European Parts Center B.V., located at IABC 5253-5254, 4814 RD, Breda ("the Company", hereinafter) is a limited liability company, having its official seat in Breda.

The Company was incorporated as a 100% subsidiary of Ssangyong Motor Company, 455-12 Dongsak-ro, Pyungtaek-si, Gyeonggi-do in Korea ("SYMC", hereinafter) with its principal capital of Euro 700,000 (Proforma Indian Rupees 59,378,000) on 12 December 2006. Since early 2011, the majority of the shares of SYMC has been acquired by Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd. in India. Accordingly, the financial information of the Company has been included in the consolidated financial information of SYMC and Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd., the ultimate parent company.

SYMC is an automotive manufacturing company in Korea with its products of SUVs (sports utility vehicles) and a large-sized sedan, one of whose main export markets has been Western-Europe since 2002.

1.2 Activities

As of 31 December 2013, the Company is distributing the spare parts to 27 distributors through its outsourced warehouse facilities in Breda. The Company's activity is to provide logistics and administrative support services including re-invoicing activities to SYMC for its distribution of spare parts to the distributors in Europe, who have an exclusive distributorship of SYMC's products respectively by country. Accordingly, all spare parts handled by the Company come from SYMC.

The Company's services are performed in accordance with the service agreement between SYMC and the Company, which is effective as of January 1, 2011. Based on the agreement, SYMC compensates the Company for its local operational cost, including the profit mark-up using a certain fixed rate, which is known as the Transactional Net Margin Method.

The remuneration in the above is acknowledged to be an arms' length remuneration for the Company's services to SYMC, through the Advance Pricing Agreement settled into by the Company and the Dutch tax authorities, on October 6, 2011.

1.3 Estimates

The preparation of the financial information in conformity with the relevant rules requires the use of certain critical accounting estimates. It also requires management to exercise its judgement in the process of applying the Company's accounting policies. If necessary for the purposes of providing the view required under Section 362(1), Book 2, of The Netherlands Civil Code, the nature of these estimates and judgments, including the related assumptions, is disclosed in the notes to the financial statement items in question.

1.4 Support parent company:

In view of the negative equity and negative working capital balances the continuation of the Company's operation might be dependent on the financial support of the parent company. In connection with this Ssangyong Motor Company, parent of Ssangyong European Parts Center B.V., has confirmed that it will provide the necessary financial support to Ssangyong European Parts Center B.V. to enable it to operate as a going concern and to meet its financial obligations for at the 18 months period after the date of these financial statements and confirmed that it has the financial resources to fulfil that commitment.

2 Accounting policies for the balance sheet

2.1 General information

The financial statements are prepared according to the stipulations in chapter 9 Book 2 of The Netherlands Civil Code.

Valuation of assets and liabilities and determination of the result takes place under the historical cost convention. Unless presented otherwise at the relevant principle for the specific balance sheet item, assets and liabilities are valued according to the cost model.

Income and expenses are accounted for on accrual basis. Profit is only included when realized on the balance sheet date. Losses originating before the end of the financial year are taken into account if they have become known before preparation of the financial statements.

The financial information is denominated in Euros.

2.2 Proforma information

All amounts disclosed in Indian Proforma Indian Rupees are the Euro amount converted against a currency rate of approximately Rupees 77.01 = Euro 1 for 2013 and 2014.

The same rate is applied for the opening balance sheet, the results and closing balance sheet. The comparative information has also been translated against this same currency rate.

2.3 Related party transactions

In the ordinary course of business the Company purchases approximately 99% of its products from affiliated parties. The Company is furthermore financed by an intercompany payable, reference is made to note 5.8.

2.4 Prior-year comparison

The accounting policies have been consistently applied to all the years presented, if not specifically stated otherwise. For comparison purposes certain figures of 2013 are restated to comply with the 2014 presentation. The restatement, to an amount of € 47,901 (Proforma Indian Rupees 3,688,877) relates to the reclassification of the packaging costs from Sales, General and Administrative (SG&A) expenses to Cost Of Goods Sold (COGS) expenses.

2.5 Foreign currencies

Receivables, liabilities and obligations denominated in foreign currencies are translated against the exchange rates prevailing at balance sheet date. Transactions in foreign currencies during the financial year are recognised in the financial statements against the exchange rates prevailing at transaction date. The exchange differences resulting from the translation as of balance sheet date, are recorded in income statement.

Transactions, receivables and debts

Foreign currency transactions in the reporting period are translated into the functional currency using the exchange rates prevailing at the dates of the transactions.

Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into the functional currency at the rate of exchange prevailing at the balance sheet date. Foreign exchange gains and losses resulting from the settlement of such transactions and from the translation at year-end exchange rates are recognised in the income statement.

Translation differences on non-monetary assets held at cost are recognised using the exchange rates prevailing at the dates of the transactions.

2.6 Financial instruments

Financial instruments be both primary financial instruments, such as receivables and payables, and financial derivatives. The notes to the specific items of the balance sheet disclose the fair value of the related instrument if this deviates from the carrying amount. If the financial instrument is not recorded in the balance sheet the information on the fair value is disclosed in the notes to the "Contingent rights and obligations." For the principles of primary financial instruments, in case applicable, reference is made to the treatment per balance sheet item.

2.7 Intangible fixed assets

Intangible fixed assets are presented at cost less accumulated amortisation. Amortisation is charged as a fixed percentage of cost, as specified in more detail in the notes to the balance sheet. The useful life and the amortisation method are reassessed at the end of each financial year.

2.8 Tangible fixed assets

Property, plant and equipment are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation and impairment and are depreciated over their estimated useful lives on a straight line basis. Ordinary maintenance and repairs are expensed as incurred.

Property, plant and equipment are depreciated over their estimated useful lives as from the inception of their use. Land and investment property are not depreciated. Future depreciation and amortisation is adjusted if there is a change in estimated useful life.

2.9 Financial fixed assets

Deferred tax assets are stated under the financial fixed assets if and to the extent it is probable that the tax claim can be realised in due course. These deferred tax assets are valued at nominal value and are predominantly long-term in nature.

2.10 Impairment of assets

On balance sheet date, the company tests whether there are any indications of an asset, which could be subject to impairment. If there are such indications, the company estimates the recoverable amount of the asset concerned. If this is not possible, the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit to which the asset belongs, is identified. An asset is subject to impairment if its book value exceeds its recoverable value; the recoverable value is the higher of the value in use and the fair value less costs to sell.

Impairment is recognized as an expense in the profit and loss account immediately, unless the asset is carried at the revalued amount; in that case, the impairment is treated as a revaluation decrease.

2.11 Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost and net realisable value. The valuation is based on weighted average prices. Net realisable value is the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business, less applicable variable selling expenses. A provision is made for obsolete inventories by individual assessment of inventories, where considered necessary.

2.12 Receivables

Upon initial recognition the receivables are included at fair value and then valued at amortised cost. The fair value and amortized cost equal the face value. Any provision for doubtful accounts deemed necessary is deducted. These provisions are determined by individual assessment of the receivables.

2.13 Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include cash in hand, bank balances and deposits held at call with maturities of less than 12 months. Cash and cash equivalents are stated at face value.

2.14 Provisions

Provisions are recognised for legally enforceable or constructive obligations existing at the balance sheet date, the settlement of which is probable to require an outflow of resources whose extent can be reliably estimated. Provisions are measured on the basis of the best estimate of the amounts required to settle the obligations at the balance sheet date. Unless indicated otherwise, provisions are stated at the present value of the expenditure expected to be required to settle the obligations.

2.15 Deferred income tax assets and liabilities

Deferred income tax assets and liabilities are recognised to provide for temporary differences between the tax bases of assets and liabilities, and their carrying amounts in the financial information. Deferred income tax is determined using tax rates that have been enacted or substantially enacted by the balance sheet date and are expected to apply when the related deferred income tax asset is realised or the deferred income tax liability is settled. Deferred income tax assets and liabilities are recognised at face value.

3 Accounting policies for the income statement

3.1 Net turnover

Net turnover represents amounts invoiced for goods and services supplied during the financial year reported on, net of discounts and value added taxes.

Revenues ensuing from the sale of goods are accounted for when all major entitlements to economic benefits as well as all major risks have transferred to the buyer. The cost price of these goods is allocated to the same period.

Revenues from services are recognised in proportion to the services rendered, based on the cost incurred in respect of the services performed up to balance sheet date, in proportion to the estimated costs of the aggregate services to be performed. The cost price of these services is allocated to the same period.

3.2 Cost of sales

Cost of sales represents the direct and indirect expenses attributable to net turnover.

3.3 Selling, General and Administrative expenses

Selling, General and Administrative expenses are recognised at the historical cost convention that are not directly attributable to the cost of the goods sold, and are allocated to the reporting year to which they are related. Selling expenses are related to various communication activities for the Company's logistics and administrative support services. General and Administrative expenses include the employee benefits, depreciations, outsourcing cost and other general cost.

Salaries, wages and social security contributions are taken to the income statement based on the terms of employment, where they are due to employees.

Provisions for employee benefits:

The pension plans are financed through contributions to pension providers such as insurance companies. The pension obligations are valued according to the 'valuation to pension fund approach'. This approach accounts for the contribution payable to the pension provider as an expense in the profit and loss account.

Based on the administration agreement it is assessed whether and, if so, which obligations exist in addition to the payment of the annual contribution due to the pension provider as at balance sheet date. These additional obligations, including any obligations from recovery plans of the pension provider, lead to expenses for the company and are included in a provision on the balance sheet.

A pension receivable is included in the balance sheet when the company has the right of disposal over the pension receivable and it is probable that the future economic benefits which the pension receivable holds will accrue to the Company and the pension receivable can be reliably established.

As at year-end 2014 (and 2013) no pension receivables and no obligations existed for the company in addition to the payment of the annual contribution due to the pension provider.

3.4 Finance income and costs

Interest paid and received

Interest paid and received is recognised on a time-weighted basis, taking account of the effective interest rate of the assets and liabilities concerned. When recognising interest paid, allowance is made for transaction costs on loans received.

3.5 Income tax expense

Income tax is calculated on the result before tax in the income statement, taking into account any losses carried forward from previous financial years where not included in deferred income tax assets and tax exempt items, and plus non deductible expenses. Account is also taken of changes in deferred income tax assets and liabilities owing to changes in the applicable tax rates.

3.6 Principles for preparation of the cash flow statement

The cash flow statement is prepared according to the indirect method. The funds in the cash flow statement consist of cash and cash equivalents. Cash equivalents can be considered as highly liquid investments.

Cash flows in foreign currencies are translated at an estimated average rate. Exchange rate differences concerning finances are shown separately in the cash flow statement.

Corporate income taxes, issuance of share capital, interest received and dividends received are presented under the cash flow from operating activities. Interest paid and dividends paid are presented under the cash flow from financing activities.

Transactions that do not result in exchange of cash and cash equivalents, such as financial lease, are not presented in the cash flow statement. The payment of lease terms on account of the financial lease contract is considered as an expenditure of financing activities as far as it concerns redemptions and as an expenditure of operational activities as far as it concerns interest.

4 Risk management

4.1 Currency risk

The Company is mainly active in the European Union and all receivables and payables are denominated in Euro. Accordingly, the currency risk is not hedged.

4.2 Interest rate risk

The Company is exposed to interest rate risk mainly on the interest-bearing cash at bank. The company is exposed to the consequences of variable interest rates on cash at bank. The company has not entered into any derivative contracts to hedge the interest risk on assets or liabilities.

The financial statements were prepared on a going concern basis in accordance with Chinese Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises and the Implementation Guide as well as Chinese Accounting Standards for Small Enterprises, subject to the following significant accounting policies and accounting estimates.

III. Statement of compliance

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Chinese Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises and Chinese Accounting Standards for Small Enterprises. The financial statements give a true and complete view of the financial position of the Company as of 31 December 2014, and of its financial performance and its cash flows for the year then ended.

IV. Significant accounting policies and accounting estimates

1. Accounting year

The Company's accounting year is the period starting from January 1 to December 31 of a calendar year.

2. Functional currency

The Company's functional currency is Renminbi (RMB). All amounts disclosed in Proforma Indian Rupees are Renminbi converted against a currency rate of Rupees(INR) 10.18=RMB 1.00.

3. Accounting basis and measurement basis

The Company adopts the accrual basis of accounting. Generally, the Company measures the accounting elements on the historical cost basis. In case the amount of any accounting elements can be reliably measured as required by Chinese Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises, such accounting elements are measured at replacement cost, net realizable value, present value, or fair value.

4. Accounting and translation of foreign currency transactions

(1) Translation of foreign currency transactions

Foreign currency transactions are initially recognized by applying the spot exchange rate at the date of the transaction, but foreign currency translations or transactions involving foreign currency translation are initially recognized by applying the exchange rate actually used.

(2) Accounting of monetary items and non-monetary items denominated in foreign currencies at the balance sheet date

Foreign currency monetary items are translated using the spot exchange rate at the balance sheet date. Exchange differences arising from the differences between the spot exchange rate prevailing at the balance sheet date and those spot rates used on initial recognition or at the previous balance sheet date are recognized in profit or loss, except that translation differences previous balance sheet date are recognized in profit or loss, except that translation differences arising from borrowings relating to the acquisition, construction or production of a qualifying asset as specified by Chinese Accounting Standards for Business Enterprises No.17 – Borrowing Costs are capitalized.

Foreign currency non-monetary items measured at historical cost continue to be translated at the spot exchange rates at the dates of the transactions, i.e. the amounts in functional currency shall remain unchanged.

Foreign currency non-monetary items measured at fair value are translated at the spot exchange rate on the date the fair value is determined. Difference between the adjusted functional currency amount and the original functional currency amount is treated as changes of fair value (including changes of exchange rate) and is recognized in profit and loss for the current period.

(3) Translation of financial statements denominated in foreign currency

Financial statements denominated in foreign currency are translated into Renminbi in accordance with the following requirements:

Assets and liabilities on the balance sheet are translated at the spot exchange rate prevailing at the balance sheet date. All equity items except for "unappropriated profits" are translated at the spot exchange rates at the dates on which such items arose.

Income and expenses in the income statement are translated at the spot exchange rates at the dates of the transactions/an exchange rate that approximates the actual spot exchange rates at the dates of the transactions.

Translation differences arising from the foregoing financial statements translation are presented as a separate component of equity in the balance sheet.

Cash flow statement denominated in foreign currency is translated at the spot exchange rate at the date of the cash flow/an exchange rate that approximates the actual spot exchange rates at the date of the cash flow.

5. Recognition criteria of Cash and cash equivalents

- (1) Cash comprises cash on hand and deposits that can be readily withdrawn on demand;
- (2) Cash equivalents are short-term ("Short-term" usually refers to three months or less from the date of acquisition), highly liquid investments that are readily convertible to known amounts of cash and which are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value.

6. Receivables

The individually significant receivables are tested separately for impairment. Where there is objective evidence that the receivables are impaired, the excess of the carrying amount over its present value of the future cash flows is recognized as the impairment losses, with provision made for bad debts. Receivables that are not impaired after separate testing are classified into several portfolios by credit risk characteristics, and the impairment losses are calculated at a certain proportion of balance of the receivables portfolios on balance sheet date, with provision made for bad debts.

Identification criteria of doubtful debts:

- (1) Revoke or bankruptcy of debtor; debts cannot be settled through judicial process; debt clean-up costs exceed the amount of the debt;

- (2) The debtor is faced with insolvency and closure caused by serious natural disaster and is unable to settle the debts in a short time;
- (3) Ageing of the debts exceeds 3 years and there is conclusive evidence indicating the debts are not recovered.

7. Inventories

Inventories include raw material, material in transit, commodities in stock, and low-cost items.

Inventories are initially measured at cost. Cost of inventories comprises all costs of purchase, costs of conversion and other costs.

The Company adopts the weighted average cost formula to assign the actual costs of inventories and amortizes low-cost items and packaging materials by using immediate write-off method

The Company adopts the perpetual inventory system.

At the balance sheet date, inventories are measured at the lower of cost and net realizable value. When the circumstances that previously caused inventories to be written down below cost no longer exist, the amount of the write-down is reversed. The reversal is limited to the amount originally provided for the decline in value of inventories. The amount of the reversal is included in profit or loss for the current period.

If the cost of inventories is higher than the net realizable value, a provision for decline in value of inventories shall be recognized in profit or loss for the current period.

8. Fixed assets

Fixed assets are tangible assets that are held for use in the production or supply of goods or services, for rental to others, or for administrative purposes and that have useful lives more than one accounting year.

Fixed assets are recognized only when it is probable that economic benefits associated with the assets will flow to the Company and the cost of the assets can be measured reliably. Subsequent expenditures incurred for fixed assets that meet the recognition criteria are included in the cost of the fixed assets; meanwhile the carrying value of the replaced part are derecognized. Subsequent expenditures that fail to meet the recognition criteria are recognized in profit or loss in the period in which they are incurred.

Fixed assets are initially measured at cost while effect of any expected abandoning costs are considered. Generally, costs of fixed assets comprise the purchase price, related taxes, and any directly attributable expenditure for bringing the asset to working condition for its intended use, such as delivery costs and installation costs. However, where payment for the purchase price of fixed assets are deferred beyond normal credit terms, cost of the fixed assets are determined based on the present value of the purchase price.

Straight-line method is applied for depreciation of fixed assets. Useful lives, estimated net residual value, and the depreciation rates of each type of fixed assets are as follows:

Type of fixed asset	Estimated net residual value (%)	Estimated useful life (year)	Annual depreciation rate
Office equipment	10	5	18%
Transport equipment	10	5	18%

Depreciation of fixed assets is provided monthly. Depreciation of a new fixed asset is not provided in the same month when it is added, but since the following month; depreciation of a fixed asset is still provided in the same month when it is abandoned, and the provision stops since the following month.

Where each part of a fixed asset has different useful lives or brings economic benefits to the Company in different patterns, different depreciation rates apply.

Depreciation policy for assets leased through finance lease is consistent with that for the Company's owned fixed assets. If there is reasonable certainty that the Company will obtain ownership of the leased asset by the end of the lease term, the leased asset is depreciated over its useful life. If there is no reasonable certainty that the Company will obtain ownership of the leased asset by the end of the lease term, the leased asset is depreciated over the shorter of the lease term and its useful life.

Useful lives, estimated net residual values, and depreciation methods of fixed assets are assessed at least at each financial year-end and adjustments are made when necessary.

9. Construction in progress

Costs of construction in progress are determined on the basis of actual expenditure of the construction, including any construction expenditures, capitalized borrowing costs before the construction has achieved the working condition for its intended use, and other related expenses.

Construction in progress is recognized as a fixed asset once it has achieved the working condition for its intended use.

10. Intangible assets

Intangible assets are identifiable non-monetary assets without physical substance owned or controlled by the Company, including land use right and software.

Intangible assets are measured initially at cost. When it is probable that economic benefits associated with the intangible assets will flow to the Company and the cost of the assets can be measured reliably, expenditures incurred for intangible assets are included in the cost of the intangible assets; any other related expenditure is recognized in profit or loss in the period in which they are incurred.

Intangible assets with finite useful lives are amortized within their estimated useful lives by applying the straight-line method since the assets are available for use.

Useful lives and amortization methods of intangible assets are assessed at the end of the period and any changes are accounted for as changes of accounting estimates.

11. Long-term deferred expenses

Long-term deferred expense refers to expense that has occurred and that shall be borne by the current period and subsequent period and amortized during over-one-year period. Cost incurred for improvement of a fixed asset leased to the Company under operating lease is recognized as long-term deferred expenses and averagedly amortized over the periods benefited from such costs. Start-up costs are recognized in profit or loss when they occur.

12. Impairment of assets

The Company adopts the following impairment policies, except for inventories, construction contracts, deferred tax, financial assets, and long-term equity investments which have no quoted price from an active market and whose fair value cannot be reliably measured:

The Company assesses at the balance sheet date whether there is any indication that an asset may be impaired. If any indication exists that an asset may be impaired, the Company estimates the recoverable amount of the asset. Goodwill arising in a business combination and an intangible asset with an indefinite useful life is tested for impairment annually, irrespective of whether there is any indication that the asset may be impaired.

The recoverable amount of an asset is the higher of its fair value less costs to sell and the present value of the future cash flows expected to be derived from the asset. If there is any indication that an asset may be impaired, recoverable amount is estimated for the individual asset. If it is not possible to estimate the recoverable amount of the individual asset, the Company determines the recoverable amount of the asset group to which the asset belongs. Identification of an asset group is based on whether major cash inflows generated by the asset group are largely independent of the cash inflows from other assets or asset groups.

If the recoverable amount of an asset or asset group is less than its carrying amount, the Company reduces the carrying amount to its recoverable amount. That reduction is recognized in profit or loss for the current period and a provision for impairment loss of the asset or asset group is recognized accordingly.

For the purpose of impairment testing, the Company allocates the carrying amount of goodwill on a reasonable basis to each of the related asset groups from the acquisition date. If it is not possible to allocate to the related asset groups, the Company allocates to each of the related sets of asset groups. Each of related asset groups or sets of asset groups is an asset group or set of asset group that is able to benefit from the synergies of the business combination and is not be larger than a reportable segment defined by the Company.

In testing asset groups or sets of asset groups with goodwill for impairment, if there is any indication that the related asset groups or sets of asset groups may be impaired, the Company first tests those asset groups or sets of asset groups to which goodwill has not been allocated. Then the Company recognizes any impairment losses after determining the recoverable amount and comparing it with the relevant carrying amount. After that, the Company tests those asset groups or sets of asset groups to which goodwill has been allocated, by comparing the carrying amount of such related asset groups or sets of asset groups with their recoverable amount. If the recoverable amount is less than the carrying amount, the Company first reduces the amount of impairment loss from the carrying amount of any goodwill allocated to the asset group or set of asset groups, and then reduce from the carrying amount of other assets (other than goodwill) within the asset group or set of asset groups, pro rata on the basis of the carrying amount of each asset.

Once the foregoing asset impairment loss is recognized, it will not be reversed in a subsequent period.

13. Employee benefits

In the accounting period in which employees render services to the Company, the Company recognizes the employee benefits payable for the services as a liability.

The Company has attended the employee social insurance system, including basic pensions, medical insurance, housing fund, and etc., expenditures incurred are included in the cost of relevant assets or are recognized in profit or loss in the period in which they are incurred.

When the Company terminates the employment relationship with employees before the end of the employment contracts or provides compensation as an offer to encourage employees to accept voluntary redundancy, a provision is recognized for the compensation arising from termination of employment relationship with employees, provided that the Company has a formal plan for termination of employment relationship or has made an offer for voluntary redundancy, which will be implemented immediately, and that the Company cannot unilaterally withdraw from the termination plan or the redundancy offer.

Early retirement plan is also accounted for by using the same termination benefit principle. As for salaries and social insurances to be paid/ contributed during the period starting from the day of terminating rendering services to the day of normal retirement for early-retired employees, the Company recognizes them in profit or loss for the current period (i.e. termination benefits) when they meet the reorganization conditions of provisions.

14. Provisions

An obligation related to a contingency is recognized as a provision when all of the following conditions are satisfied: the obligation is a present obligation of the Company; it is probable that an outflow of economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation; and the amount of the obligation can be measured reliably.

At the balance sheet date, the Company takes into consideration factors pertaining to a contingency such as the risks, uncertainties and time value of money and measures the provision at the best estimate of the expenditure required to settle the related present obligation.

Where all or part of the expenditure required for provision settlement is expected to be reimbursed by a third party, the reimbursement is recognized as a separate asset only when it is virtually certain that reimbursement will be received. The amount recognized for the reimbursement will not exceed the carrying amount of the provision.

15. Revenue

(1) Revenue from sale of goods

Only when the Company has transferred to the buyer the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the goods, the Company retains neither continuing managerial involvement to the degree usually associated with ownership nor effective control over the goods sold, the amount of revenue can be measured reliably, it is probable that the associated economic benefits will flow to the Company, and the associated costs incurred or to be incurred can be measured reliably, the Company recognizes revenue from sale of goods.

(2) Revenue from rendering of services

When the outcome of a transaction involving the rendering of services can be estimated reliably at the balance sheet date, revenue associated with the transaction is recognized using the percentage of completion method. Stage of completion of such transactions is determined on the basis of surveys of work performed.

The outcome of a transaction involving the rendering of services can be estimated reliably when all of the following conditions are satisfied: the amount of revenue can be measured reliably; it is probable that the associated economic benefits will flow to the Company; the stage of completion of the transaction can be measured reliably; and the costs incurred and to be incurred for the transaction can be measured reliably.

When the outcome of a transaction involving the rendering of services cannot be estimated revenue is recognized to the extent of costs incurred that are expected to be recoverable and an equivalent amount is charged to profit or loss as service costs. If the costs incurred are not expected to be recoverable, the costs incurred are recognized in profit or loss for the current period and no service revenue is recognized.

(3) Revenue from royalties

The amount of royalties is determined on the accrual basis according to relevant contract or agreement.

(4) Revenue from interest

The amount of interest is determined according to the length of time for which the Company's monetary fund is used by others and the effective interest rate.

16. Leases

A finance lease is a lease that transfers in substance all the risks and rewards incidental to ownership of an asset. An operating lease is a lease other than a finance lease.

1. Accounting of operating leases as a lessee

The Company recognizes the lease payments under an operating lease on a straight-line basis over the lease term, and either includes in the cost of another related asset or charges to profit or loss for the current period.

2. Accounting of operating leases as a lessor

The Company recognizes the income from operating leases in profit or loss on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

3. Accounting of finance leases as a lessee

At the commencement of the lease term, the Company records the leased asset at an amount equal to the lower of the fair value of the leased asset and the present value of the minimum lease payments, each determined at the inception of the lease, and recognize a long-term payable at an amount equal to the minimum lease payments. The difference between the recorded amount of the leased asset and the recorded amount of the payable is accounted for as unrecognized finance charge. Unrecognized finance charge is allocated to each period during the lease term. The Company recognizes finance charge for the current period using the effective interest method.

17. Accounting of income tax

(1) Income tax expense

Income tax expense includes current tax and deferred tax of an enterprise.

Current/deferred tax expense or income is recognized in profit or loss, except that current tax and deferred tax arising from transactions or events which are directly recognized in owners' equity is recognized in owners' equity and that deferred tax arising from business combinations is adjusted to the carrying amount of the goodwill.

(2) Current income tax

At the balance sheet date, current income tax liabilities (or assets) for the current and prior periods are measured at the amount expected to be paid (or recovered) according to the requirements of tax laws. Taxable profit is calculated on the basis of pre-tax profit adjusted according to tax laws.

(3) Deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities

As for differences between the carrying amount of certain assets or liabilities and their tax base as well as temporary differences between the carrying amount and tax base of those items that are not recognized as assets or liabilities but have a tax base that can be determined according to tax laws, the Company recognizes such differences as deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities by applying the balance-sheet-debt method.

At the balance sheet date, deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities are measured at the tax rates that are expected to apply to the period when the asset is realized or the liability is settled, according to the requirements of tax laws.

At the balance sheet date, the Company assesses the carrying amount of a deferred tax asset. If it is probable that sufficient taxable profits will not be available in future periods to allow the benefit of the deferred tax asset to be utilized, the carrying amount of the deferred tax asset is reduced. Any such reduction in amount is reversed when it becomes probable that sufficient taxable profits will be available.

18. Uncertainty of significant accounting estimates

The following are other major sources of uncertainty of key assumptions and estimates of future events at the balance sheet date, and such uncertainty may cause significant adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities in the next accounting year.

(1) Impairment provision of receivables

The Company provides for doubtful debts on the basis of recoverability of receivables. When any indication exists that receivables are not recoverable, provision for doubtful debts is required. Provision for doubtful debts requires professional judgment and estimation. Differences between the result of re-estimate and existing estimate may influence the carrying amount of receivables in the period the estimates change.

(2) Useful life and residual value of fixed assets

The Company estimates useful life and residual value of fixed assets on the basis of past experience with actual useful life and residual value of similar fixed assets. If the useful life of such fixed assets shortens, the Company increases their depreciation rate or disposes of obsolete/idle fixed assets.

(3) Income tax and deferred tax assets

Since certain issues relating to the enterprise income tax are not confirmed by the tax authority when the income tax is accrued, the Company follows existing tax laws and regulations to achieve reliable estimate and judgment for accrued income tax. Differences between the conclusion made by tax authority and the amount recognized by the Company will influence the income tax of the current period.

Deferred tax assets include asset impairment provision, deductible losses, warranty provision, and temporary difference between the carrying amount and tax base of expense relating to early retirement. All tax losses that are not deducted yet are recognized as deferred tax assets to the extent that it is probable that there is sufficient taxable profit to deduct the losses. Realization of deferred tax assets relies largely on the future taxable profit and the actual tax rate of the year in which temporary differences are reversed. Therefore, management is required to apply judgment to estimate the time and amount of future taxable profit, and together with tax planning, to decide the amount of deferred tax assets.

(4) Liability of early retirement benefits

The Company has recognized part of early retirement benefits as a liability. The amount of such benefits/liability are calculated and paid on the basis of several assumptions, including discount rate, benefit increase rate of relevant period, and other factors. Differences between the actual amount and the assumption are recognized as expense for the current year. Although management believes such assumptions are reasonable, past experience the Company relies on and changes of assumption premise will influence balances of expenses and liabilities relating to the Company retirement benefits.

The economy in the United States of America ('US') is positive as consumer confidence continues to increase and unemployment is at its lowest level since before the economic recession in late 2008/early 2009. In addition, US net farm income forecast outlook is projected to be lower compared to previous three years, however 2015 yields, acreage planted and farm income will post record levels in spite of lower forecasts.

In this challenging environment your Company's performance was significantly better than the tractor industry as the billing volume grew by 21.2% to 15,766 tractors as compared to 13,011 tractors in the previous year. Tractor retail volume grew consecutively second year above 20% to 15,016 tractors as compared to 12,451 tractors in the previous year. Both the retail as well as billing performance has been the highest ever till date in the history of the Company. The overall market share thus improved from 8% to 10% in US and dropped from 3.9% to 3.0% in Canada.

Correspondingly, the Revenue for the financial year 2015 was at $357 million (Rs 2,238 Crores) as compared to $278 million (Rs 1,742 Crores) in the previous financial year. The Profit after tax for the year was $2.29 million (Rs. 25 Crores) against previous year profit after tax of $3.41 million (Rs. 23 Crores) which includes Deferred tax credit of $ 1.42 million (Rs. 9 Crores) and not available in current year.

Your Company stabilized its newly introduced products in the sub compact segment and also introduced US manufactured UTVs in the segment which were well received in the marketplace. Your company continued to strengthen the dealer channel, which is reflected in substantially improved performance during financial year 2015. During current year, your Company opened its fifth Mahindra Authorized Distribution Center (MADC).

Your Company's composite brand strength improved during current year to 62% from 56% in previous year. Your Company had highest Customer as Net Promoter score (CaPS) of 65 and an Employee Engagement score (mCARES) of 4.0. Your Company continues to invest in multiple CSR initiatives across North America. Your Company is at third position in the US tractor sales for 0 to 120 horse power category as per Association of Equipment Manufacturers' report.

Your Company undertook several initiatives during the year in order to further cut costs and bring in efficiency and strengthen the operating margin. Your Company continues to look towards further strengthening its Dealer channel and focus on identified regional markets and Canada in the coming financial year 2016.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Stockholder and the Board of Directors

Mahindra USA, Inc.

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of Mahindra USA, Inc., a Texas corporation, which comprise the balance sheet as of March 31, 2015 and 2014, and the related statements of income, stockholder's equity, and cash flows for the year then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our qualified audit opinion.

Basis for Qualified Opinion

As discussed in Note 1 to the financial statements, the Company reports its investments in Mahindra North American Technical Center, Inc. and Mahindra Tractor Assembly, Inc., wholly owned subsidiaries, on the equity method of accounting. In our opinion, accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America require that all majority-owned subsidiaries be accounted for as consolidated subsidiaries. If the financial statements of these subsidiaries had been consolidated with those of Mahindra USA, Inc., total assets and total liabilities would be increased by $5,815,715 as of March 31, 2015, and revenues and expenses would have increased by $27,602,271 for the year then ended.

Qualified Opinion

In our opinion, except for the effects of not consolidating all majority-owned subsidiaries, as discussed in the Basis for Qualified Opinion paragraph, the financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Mahindra USA, Inc. as of March 31, 2015 and 2014, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Emphasis-of-Matter for Presentation of Financial Information

The presentation of financial information in Indian rupees in the consolidated financial statements is not a required part of the basic financial statements. We have verified the arithmetic accuracy of the presentation based upon an exchange rate provide by Company's management. We did not audit and do not express an opinion on such information, and our opinion is not modified with respect to this matter.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS MARCH 31, 2015 AND 2014

NOTE 1 – THE COMPANY AND SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Company

Mahindra USA, Inc. (the "Company") ("MUSA") was incorporated June 8, 1994 in the State of Texas, and commenced business on March 15, 1995. The Company is owned by Mahindra and Mahindra, Ltd. ("M&M"). M&M is a publicly traded corporation headquartered in Mumbai, India which, among other activities, manufactures farming equipment and automobiles. The Company sells tractors, parts, attachments and accessories in North America under wholesale distribution agreements. The Company's sales are to a network of more than 497 dealer locations throughout North America.

The Company formed a wholly owned subsidiary on January 25, 2013, Mahindra Tractor Assembly, Inc., ("MTA") to sell electric powered scooters in North America under wholesale distribution agreements with a network of dealers. Effective on November 30, 2014, ownership of MTA was transferred to another M&M subsidiary, Mahindra Overseas Investment Company Mauritius Limited.

The Company formed another wholly owned subsidiary on December 18, 2013, Mahindra North American Technical Center, Inc., ("MNATC") to design and develop prototype complete vehicle designs and related parts to facilitate M&M's expansion in the worldwide vehicle market.

The Company reported its investment in MTA and MNATC on the equity method of accounting. Accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America require that all majority-owned subsidiaries be accounted for using consolidated financial statements.

Financial Presentation in U.S. Dollars and Indian Rupees

Financial information in this report is shown in U.S. dollars ("$$") and in Indian rupees ("INR"). For both March 31, 2015 and 2014, dollar amounts are translated for convenience into Indian rupees at exchange rate of 62.64 INR per dollar which is the average of the telegraphic transfer buying and selling rates quoted by the Mumbai Branch of State Bank of India on March 31, 2015. Within the notes to the financial statements, Indian rupee amounts are shown parenthetically following the U.S. dollar amount.

Significant Accounting Policies

Accounting method -

The financial statements are prepared on the accrual basis of accounting in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAP"). However, as noted above, the financial results of MTA and MNATC, both being wholly owned subsidiaries, are not included in these financial statements.

Use of estimates -

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Receivables -

Receivables are stated at the amount invoiced for the sale to the various dealers. There is currently an allowance for uncollectible accounts of $1,206,082 (75,548,876 INR) and $862,613 (54,034,078 INR) at March 31, 2015 and March 31, 2014, respectively, which management considers sufficient to cover uncollectible accounts (see Note 2 for a discussion of dealer financing arrangements).

Revenue recognition-

Revenue from the sale of tractors, parts, attachments and accessories is recognized when the ordered goods are invoiced to the dealer. Invoices are issued after credit approval and when the ordered items are ready for shipment.

Inventories-

New tractors, parts, and accessories are stated at the lower of cost or market. Cost is determined by the moving average price.

Property and equipment -

Property and equipment are stated at cost. The cost of additions and improvements are capitalized and expenditures for repairs and maintenance are expensed in the period incurred. When items of property and equipment are sold or retired, the related costs and accumulated depreciation are removed from the accounts and any gain or loss on disposition is included in the statement of income.

Depreciation is provided over the useful lives of the related assets using the straight-line method for financial reporting and the modified accelerated cost recovery method for tax purposes.

Income taxes -

Income for financial reporting purposes is different than income for income tax reporting purposes due principally from timing differences relating to allowances for inventory valuation, allowance for doubtful accounts, depreciation and expense accruals. Federal and state income tax returns for the Company are subject to examination for three years from the date of filing. Years open for examination are from March 31, 2012 to present.

Statement of cash flows -

For purposes of the statements of cash flows, the Company considers all cash accounts, money market accounts, and certificates of deposit with maturities of less than three months to be cash and cash equivalents.

Supplemental disclosure of cash flow information for the years ended March 31:

Interest Paid	980,695	61,430,735	2,011,697	126,012,700

Advertising -

The Company subsidizes product advertising carried on by dealers within each dealer's local market, and conducts dealer conferences. The Company also advertises in trade magazines, at trade shows and uses various other means of promotions, including product brochures, to increase brand awareness and sale of products in the market. The Company capitalizes expenditures with extended advertising value and amortizes these costs over an eighteen month period. Expenditures without extended advertising value are expensed in the year incurred.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

NOTE A – ORGANIZATION AND NATURE OF OPERATIONS

Mahindra North American Technical Center, Inc. (hereinafter referred to as “the Company”) was incorporated in the state of Delaware on December 18, 2013 and is licensed to do business in Michigan. The Company engineers, designs, develops, assembles and delivers parts, tooling and prototype vehicles to the automotive market as an Original Equipment Manufacturer (OEM). Each product is designed for the customer’s specific global market and segment needs. The Company is a wholly owned subsidiary of Mahindra USA, Inc.

NOTE B – SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The significant accounting policies are detailed below:

1. Basis of preparation

- a. The accompanying financial statements are prepared on the accrual basis of accounting in accordance with the accounting and reporting requirements of generally accepted accounting principles in the United States of America (“US GAAP”) to reflect the financial position, results of operation and cash flows of the Company.
- b. The financial statements are for the years ended March 31, 2015 and March 31, 2014.
- c. Financial information in this report is shown in U.S. dollars (“USD”) and in Indian rupees (“INR”). For March 31, 2015 and March 31, 2014 dollar amounts are translated for convenience into Indian rupees at exchange rate of 62.64 INR per dollar, which is the average of the telegraphic transfer buying and selling rates quoted by the Mumbai Branch of State Bank of India on March 31, 2015. Within the notes to the financial statements, Indian rupee amounts are shown parenthetically following the U.S. dollar amounts.
- d. Previous year’s figures have been regrouped, reworked or reclassified wherever required.

2. Use of estimates

Preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

3. Property and equipment

Property and equipment are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation. Cost of items of property and equipment comprises cost of purchase and other costs necessarily incurred to bring it to the condition and location necessary for its intended use.

The Company depreciates property and equipment over the estimated useful life using the straight-line method. Upon retirement or disposal of assets, the cost and accumulated depreciation are eliminated from the accounts and the resulting gain or loss is credited or charged to operations.

Property and equipment are considered to have a useful life of three (3) to thirty (30) years. Expenditures for maintenance and repairs are charged to expense. Property and equipment is reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate the carrying value of the asset may not be recoverable.

4. Business enterprise segments

The Company operates in one reportable operating segment.

5. Operating leases

Lease rent expenses on operating leases are charged to expense over the lease term. Certain operating lease agreements provide for scheduled rent increases over the lease term. Rent expense for such leases is recognized on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

6. Cash and cash equivalents

The Company considers all highly liquid investments with a maturity of three months or less when purchased to be cash equivalents.

7. Income taxes

Income taxes are provided for the tax effects of transactions reported in the financial statements and consist of taxes currently due, plus deferred taxes related primarily to differences between the basis of certain assets and liabilities for financial and tax reporting. The deferred taxes represent the future tax return consequences of those differences, which will either be taxable or deductible when the assets and liabilities are recovered or settled, respectively.

The Company has determined whether any tax positions have met the recognition threshold and has measured the Company’s exposure to those tax provisions. Management believes that the Company has adequately addressed all relevant tax positions and that there are no unrecorded tax liabilities. Federal and state taxing authorities generally have the right to examine and audit the previous three years of tax returns filed. Any interest or penalties from federal and state taxing authorities were recorded in the accompanying financial statements.

8. Revenue recognition

Revenues from contracts are recognized when earned and collectability is reasonably assured. The Company’s contract with its principle customer, Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd (M&M) specifies that invoices may be raised for the costs incurred in engineering and developing drivable concept prototype vehicles plus an agreed upon profit margin. Anticipated losses on contracts are recorded when determinable.

9. Cost of revenue

The cost of engineering services to develop prototype parts that will be incorporated into the Company’s vehicle products are expensed as incurred and reported as cost of revenue. These services can occur in five distinctly different ways:

1. Suppliers of engineering services or models used for analysis that are contracted by the Company.
2. The cost of prototype parts that are produced only for use by the Company by vendors that will never be selected as a production supplier of M&M – see prototypes below.
3. The development and prototype costs incurred by full service suppliers of M&M are invoiced directly to the customer through the supplier’s Indian branches.
4. Costs to develop Build-to-Print components are normally borne by the Company as the eventual part manufacturer and supplier to M&M in India is not known.
5. Co-developed parts that may remain proprietary to the supplier but are modified to the Company’s specification may involve costs to the Company or may be invoiced via a supplier unit in India directly to M&M.

Tooling

Tooling represents costs incurred by the Company in the development of new parts and tooling used in the manufacture of the Company’s products. All preproduction costs incurred for tools that the Company will not own and that will be used in producing products are expensed when incurred. The Company has the right to use the tools and the reimbursement of such costs is contractually guaranteed by the customer. When the part for which tooling has been developed reaches a test or validation-ready status, the tooling becomes the property of the customer.

Prototypes

Throughout the concept design and engineering development process of the Company, numerous prototypes, bucks and mules are developed to evaluate characteristic aspects of performance or the appearance of the contracted vehicle. Occasionally prototype parts will be developed by third party suppliers based on the specifications provided by the Company. The Company has the right to use the prototypes and the reimbursement of such costs is contractually guaranteed by the customer.

Engineering

Costs associated with the salaries, wages and benefits expense of employees directly involved in the research and development activities of the Company are reported as engineering. Personnel employed in the activities of the Company were paid through a separate leasing arrangement between M&M and Mahindra Technical Services, Inc (“MTSI”) until August, 2014. Thereafter, the engineering costs amounted to USD 5,564,831 (INR 348,581,014).

10. Administrative

The personnel related costs not included in engineering along with the facilities related expenses are considered to be administrative. For the year ended March 31, 2015, administrative costs were USD 3,865,987 (INR 242,165,404). Personnel engaged with administrative activities were paid through a separate leasing arrangement between MTSI and M&M until August, 2014.

POLICY FOR REMUNERATION OF DIRECTORS, KEY MANAGERIAL PERSONNEL AND OTHER EMPLOYEES

Purpose

This Policy sets out the approach to Compensation of Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and other employees in Mahindra Gujarat Tractor Limited (MGTL).

Policy Statement

Our compensation philosophy strives to attract and retain high performers by compensating them at levels that are broadly comparable with the median of the comparator basket while differentiating people on the basis of performance, potential and criticality for achieving competitive advantage in business.

In order to effectively implement this, our compensation structure is developed through external benchmarking as appropriate, with relevant players across the industry we operate in.

Non-Executive Including Independent Directors

The Nomination and Remuneration Committee (NRC) shall decide the basis for determining the compensation, both fixed and variable, to Non Executive Directors, including Independent Directors, whether as commission or otherwise. NRC shall take into consideration various factors such as director's participation in Board and Committee meetings during the year, other responsibilities undertaken such as membership or Chairmanship of committees, time spent in carrying out their duties, role and functions as envisaged in Schedule IV of the Companies Act 2013 and such other factors as the NRC may deem fit for determining compensation.

The Board shall determine compensation to Non-Executive Directors within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders' resolution.

Executive Director/Managing Director/Manager

The remuneration to Executive Director(s)/Managing Director/Manager shall be recommended by NRC to the Board. Remuneration will consist of both fixed compensation and variable compensation and shall be paid as salary, commission, performance bonus, perquisites and fringe benefits as approved by the Board and within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders' resolution. While fixed compensation is determined at the time of their appointment, variable compensation will be determined annually by NRC based on their performance.

Key Managerial Personnel (KMPs)

The remuneration to Manager shall be recommended by NRC to the Board. Remuneration will consist of both fixed compensation and variable compensation and shall be paid as salary, commission, performance bonus, perquisites and fringe benefits as approved by the Board and within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders' resolution. While fixed compensation is determined at the time of their appointment, variable compensation will be determined annually by NRC based on their performance.

The terms of remuneration of the Chief Financial Officer (CFO) and the Company Secretary shall be determined either by any Director or such other person as may be authorised by the NRC.

The above remuneration shall be competitively benchmarked for similar positions in the industry and aligned with their qualifications, experience, and responsibilities. Pursuant to the provisions of section 203 of the Companies Act 2013, the Board shall approve remuneration of the above KMPs at the time of their appointment.

The remuneration to directors, KMPs and senior management involves a balance between fixed and incentive pay reflecting short and long-term performance objectives appropriate to the working of the company and its goals.

Employees

We follow a position and level based approach for compensation benchmarking with companies in the tractor and related industries.

We have a CTC (Cost to Company) concept which includes a fixed component (guaranteed pay) and a variable component (performance pay). The percentage of the variable component increases with increasing hierarchy levels as employees at higher positions have a greater impact and influence on the company's overall business result. CTC is reviewed once every year and the compensation strategy for positioning of individuals takes into consideration the following elements:

- Performance
- Potential
- Criticality

Remuneration for new employees other than KMPs and senior management will be decided by HR, and approved by the Managing Director, based on factors such as relevant job experience, last compensation drawn, skill-set of the selected candidate, internal equity and related parameters.

2 Significant Accounting Policies

2.1 Basis of Preparation of Financial Statement

The Financial statements are prepared in accordance with the generally accepted accounting principles in India and comply with the Accounting Standards notified under the Companies (Accounting Standards) Rules, 2006 (as amended) and relevant provisions of the Companies Act, 2013. The financial statements have been prepared under assumption of going concern on accrual basis under the historical cost convention. The accounting policies adopted in the preparation of the financial statements are consistent with those followed in the previous year, except those specifically mentioned at respective places.

2.2 Use of Estimates

The Preparation of Financial Statements requires estimates and assumptions to be made that affect the reported amount of assets and liabilities on the date of the financial statements and the reported amount of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Differences between the actual results and estimates are recognized in the period in which the same are known/materialized.

2.3 Fixed Assets

(a) Tangible Assets

All fixed assets are stated at cost of acquisition less accumulated depreciation, except for land, which is freehold and is therefore stated at cost. Cost is net of specific grant received, if any. Assessment of indication of impairment of an asset is made at the year end and impairment loss, if any, is recognised.

Certain fixed assets were transferred to various Industrial Co-operative Societies on hire purchase basis, had been reduced from the Gross Block of Fixed Assets of the Company in the year of actual transactions in past, but they still remain the property of this Company till the last installment is paid.

When an asset is scrapped or otherwise disposed off, the cost and related depreciation are removed from the books of account and resultant profit (including capital profit) or loss, if any, is reflected in the Statement of Profit and Loss.

(b) Intangible Assets

All intangibles assets are initially measured at cost and amortized so as to reflect the pattern in which asset's economic benefits are consumed.

a) Development Expenditure

The expenditure incurred on technical services and other project/product related expenses are amortised over the estimated period of benefits, not exceeding five years.

b) Software Expenditure

The expenditure incurred is amortised over three financial years equally commencing from the year in which the expenditure is incurred.

2.4 Impairment of Assets

The carrying value of assets/cash generating units at each balance sheet date are reviewed for impairment. If any indication of impairment exists, the recoverable amount of such assets is estimated and impairment is recognised, if the carrying amount of these assets exceeds their recoverable amount. The recoverable amount is the greater of the net selling price and their value in use. Value in use is arrived at by discounting the future cash flow expected to arise from the continuing use of an asset and from its disposal at the end of its useful life to their present value based on an appropriate discount factor. When there is indication that an impairment loss recognised for an asset in earlier accounting periods no longer exists or may have decreased, such reversal of impairment loss is recognised in the statement of Profit and Loss, except in case of revalued assets.

2.5 Depreciation/Amortisation

The Company has revised its policy of providing depreciation on fixed assets effective 1st April 2014. Depreciation is now provided on straight line basis for all assets as against the previous policy of providing on written down value basis. As a result of change in method of depreciation from WDV to SLM and recomputation of depreciation retrospectively, Surplus arised for the period prior to 1st April, 2014 has been shown as an "Exceptional Item" in the Statement of Profit & Loss.

During the period ended on 31 Mar'15, the Company has realigned its depreciation policy in accordance with Schedule-II to Companies Act, 2013. Consequently w.e.f. 1st April 2014 : (a) carrying value of assets is now depreciated over its revised remaining useful life. (b) where the remaining useful life of the assets is 'Nil' as on 1st April 2014, carrying value of assets after retaining the residual value has been recognised in the opening reserves in accordance with transitional provision of note 7(b) of Schedule-II of the Companies Act, 2013.

The Company has adopted the useful life as it is as provided in the Schedule-II of the Companies Act, 2013 without technical evaluation of useful life of the Assets.

Depreciation/Amortisation on fixed assets other than on freehold land and capital work-in-progress is charged so as to write off the cost of assets over its useful life, keeping 5% residual value on the following basis:

Operations

During the year 2014 - 2015 grapes export volumes increased to 662 containers and 9,660 MT over that of 642 containers and 9,250 MT of the previous year. This growth has been achieved despite entire grapes cultivation across Maharashtra having been affected by unseasonal rains and hail storm which led to destruction of standing crops during February and March, 2015. Unseasonal rains and hailstorm have adversely affected the Indian Industry and consequently exports have dropped from 5,050 containers last season to 3,300 containers this season. Your Company has started grapes exports from Egypt to Europe and Middle East. In the current year, the Company exported 10 containers from Egypt. This initiative will open up new avenues of growth in the future. Your Company's signature Khet-Se-Kaliyan-Tak ("KSKT") initiatives adopted by the Company over the last few years has been further strengthened by engaging International experts in grapes from Chile and arranging their visits to farms. Other farmer engagement initiatives such as Farmer Felicitation and Awards functions have been conducted with much rigour and this has helped significantly improve satisfaction levels amongst farmers as indicated by improvement in CaPs survey from a score of 26 in Financial Year 2014 to 45 in Financial Year 2015. The Company continued participating and exhibiting in International Fruit exhibitions and conferences like Asia Fruit Logistica and Berlin Fruit Logistica. This has helped attract new customers from Thailand, Cambodia and Russia.

The Company has placed strict controls on the chemicals residue and is continuously being managed over the season. Consequently, there have been no quality issues in the current Financial Year pertaining to the export markets.

In domestic sales, during the year under review, the performance of the Company reflects a significant improvement as compared to the previous year. The revenue more than doubled over the last year (Rs. 22 crores vis-à-vis Rs. 9 crores). This was possible due to scale up achieved in apples and bananas over the last year. Domestic operations in fruits, however, have been stopped from January, 2015 onwards and are now being carried on in the Company's Joint Venture subsidiary formed with Univeg.

Purchase of Pack House situated at Nasik, Maharashtra

The Company's operations in Grapes have increased significantly over the last few years. However, it has now started facing constraints in availability of quality pack houses which meet the stringent European quality standards. Despite numerous interactions and efforts, vendors are not willing to build a Pack House for the Company till a guaranteed future business is committed to them. The Company therefore felt an urgent need to acquire or build a Pack House to meet its business requirements.

A proposal has been received for outright acquisition of a Pack House from Amaya Foods Private Limited having its Registered Office at J-10, Green Park Main, New Delhi-110016 which meets the Company's requirements and will enable the Company to scale up operations further. Negotiations are at an advanced stage and the Company hopes to conclude the deal soon.

Outlook for the Current Year

As mentioned earlier, due to unseasonal rains and hailstorm the grapes exports for season 2015 has seen a substantial drop in volumes. This will reflect in the sales of the first quarter of Financial Year 2016, which coupled with the Euro depreciation against INR is expected to lead to a subdued performance in Financial Year 2016.

The Company has intensified efforts to grow exports from Egypt and is also exploring other sourcing locations for shoring up the financials in the latter half of the Financial Year 2016. Plans are also afoot to scale up volumes of grapes export from India in early part of season 2016 between December to March. The European market continues to remain strong which will further help the Company.

Dividend

Your Directors have not recommended dividend with a view to conserve resources for the future growth of your Company.

Subsidiary Company

As on 31st March, 2015 your Company has one subsidiary company Mahindra UNIVeG Private Limited ("MUPL") which was incorporated in 2014, to undertake the domestic development of the Fresh Produce supply chain for distribution to Indian markets, imports of Fresh Produce to India and exports (other than grapes which would remain with the Company). Your Company holds 60% of the share capital and voting power of MUPL. During the year, MUPL earned revenues of Rs. 973.32 lakhs and recorded a loss of Rs. 33.02 lakhs.

The newly formed Joint Venture Company i.e. MUPL, will benefit from the global expertise of UNIVeG who will provide technical know how and best practices in quality control, post-harvest handling of fresh produce, ripening process, farm agronomy practices and procedures to meet international quality standards.

II. REMUNERATION OF THE DIRECTORS, KEY MANAGERIAL PERSONNEL AND OTHER EMPLOYEES

The second part of the Policy sets out the approach to compensation of Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and other employees in Mahindra Shubhlabh Services Limited.

Policy Statement

We have a well-defined Compensation Policy for Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and all employees of the Company. The overall compensation philosophy which guides us is that in order to achieve global leadership and dominance in markets, we need to attract and retain high performers by compensating them at levels that are broadly comparable with the median of the comparator basket while differentiating people on the basis of performance, potential and criticality for achieving competitive advantage in the business.

In order to effectively implement this, we have built our Compensation structure by a regular annual benchmarking over the years with relevant players across the industry we operate in.

NON-EXECUTIVE INCLUDING INDEPENDENT DIRECTORS

The NRC shall decide the basis for determining the compensation, both fixed and variable, to the Non-Executive Directors, including Independent Directors, whether as commission or otherwise. The NRC shall take into consideration various factors such as Director's participation in Board and Committee Meetings during the year, other responsibilities undertaken, such as Membership or Chairmanship of Committees, time spent in carrying out their duties, role and functions as envisaged in Schedule IV of the Companies Act, 2013 and such other factors as the NRC may consider fit for determining the compensation. The Board shall determine the compensation to Non-Executive Directors within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders Resolution.

Managing Director or Executive Directors or Manager

The NRC shall decide the basis for determining the compensation, both fixed and variable, to the Managing Director or Executive Director or Manager as the case may be.

Key Managerial Personnel (KMPs)

The terms of remuneration of Key Managerial Personnel of the Company shall be determined in such manner and by such persons as may be authorised by the Board from time to time. The remuneration shall be consistent with the competitive position of the salary for similar positions in the industry and their Qualifications, Experience, Roles and Responsibilities. Pursuant to the provisions of section 203 of the Companies Act, 2013, the Board shall approve the remuneration at the time of their appointment.

The remuneration to Directors, KMPs and Senior Management involves a balance between fixed and incentive pay reflecting short and long-term performance objectives appropriate to the working of the Company and its goals.

Employees

We follow a differential approach in choosing the comparator basket for benchmarking, depending upon the level in the organization:

- a. For all employees from Operational to Executive Band, we benchmark with a set of comparators from the same industry.
- b. For Strategic band and above, we have a position-based approach and the comparator basket includes benchmarks from across relevant industries.

We have a CTC (Cost to Company) concept which includes a fixed component (Guaranteed Pay) and a variable component (Performance pay). The percentage of the variable component increases with increasing hierarchy levels, as we believe employees at higher positions have a far greater impact and influence on the overall business result. The CTC is reviewed once every year and the compensation strategy for positioning of individuals takes into consideration the following elements:

- Performance
- Potential
- Criticality
- Longevity in grade.

Remuneration for the new employees other than KMPs and Senior Management Personnel will be decided by the HR, in consultation with the concerned business unit head at the time of hiring, depending upon the relevant job experience, last compensation and the skill-set of the selected candidate.

The Company may also grant Stock Options to the Employees and Directors (other than Independent Directors) in accordance with the ESOP Scheme of the Company as may be formulated and subject to the compliance of the applicable statutes and regulations.

Deferred tax assets are recognised for timing differences of items other than unabsorbed depreciation and carry forward losses only to the extent that there is reasonable certainty that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realised. Deferred tax assets related to unabsorbed depreciation and carry forward losses are recognised only if there is virtual certainty supported by convincing evidence that there will be sufficient future taxable income available to realise the assets. Deferred tax assets are reviewed at each balance sheet date for their realisability.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Overview

Water scarcity already affects every continent. Around 1.2 billion people, or almost one-fifth of the world's population, live in areas of physical scarcity, and 500 million people are approaching this situation. Another 1.6 billion people, or almost one quarter of the world's population, face economic water shortage.

Water scarcity is among the main problems to be faced by many societies and the World in the 21st century. Water use has been growing at more than twice the rate of population increase in the last century, and, although there is no global water scarcity as such, an increasing number of regions are chronically short of water.

Water scarcity is both a natural and a human-made phenomenon. There is enough freshwater on the planet for seven billion people but it is distributed unevenly and too much of it is wasted, polluted and unsustainably managed.

Eventually many water saving technologies have been evolved to conserve scarce water resource and increase the existing water use efficiency in Indian agriculture.

Micro-irrigation such as Drip Irrigation and Sprinkler Irrigation are amongst these technologies in use over last three decades. These irrigation systems are more efficient than conventional flood irrigation method, because they deliver low volumes of water directly to plants' roots, minimizing losses to wind, runoff, evaporation and these irrigations systems use 30 to 70 percent less water than conventional irrigation systems for different crops.

The awareness of use of Irrigation technology has established a stronghold in the Asian regions, where it is best utilised in India and China but still there is ample market potential with a continuously growing population. The various State Governments are also encouraging farmers to use irrigation techniques by introduction of various mega subsidy projects.

Industry Structure and Developments

The Indian micro irrigation market is mainly contributed by drip irrigation system in terms of revenue. The drip and sprinkler irrigation technologies differ in terms of flow rate, pressure requirement, wetted area and mobility. India has mammoth potential for both the irrigation methods. Major States having maximum area coverage under micro irrigation are Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Gujarat, and Tamil Nadu.

The MI Industry has been segmented on the basis of types of micro irrigation system such as drip and sprinkler irrigation system, by States, crop pattern/types, by applications of micro irrigation system and by organizational structure of the industry.

The Indian micro irrigation market is highly competitive with the presence of large and small scale drip and sprinkler irrigation systems producers and marketers across numerous states across India.

The micro irrigation systems market is classified mainly into the organized and unorganized segments in the country. The Company is presently a major supplier of micro irrigation systems (MIS) in India. Our strong brand name, expertise in agronomy services, and wide spread network have contributed to our growth.

Opportunities and Outlook

The long term outlook of the Micro Irrigation Industry is robust. The real boost to the business is likely to come from the micro irrigation projects launched by various State Governments and the recently introduced National Mission for Sustainable Agriculture (NMSA). Agricultural growth can be sustained by promoting conservation and sustainable use of these scarce natural resources through appropriate location specific measures. Towards this end, NMSA has been formulated for enhancing agricultural productivity especially in rainfed areas focusing on integrated farming, water use efficiency, soil health management and synergizing resource conservation. NMSA derives its mandate from Sustainable Agriculture Mission which is one of the eight Missions outlined under National Action Plan on Climate Change (NAPCC).

Water scarcity is the most driving factor of the MI Industry. The area available for crop cultivation, growing population in the country and GDP in the agriculture sector contributes to the growing demand for MIS. The other major contributor to this market is growing pollution levels due to which the water level has declined and in the near future this trend is expected to continue.

The stability of the Government at Centre and States also contributes to the growth of MI Industry by way of consistent policies on subsidies to farmer community.

Operations and Financial Performance

During the year 2014-15, your Company achieved Sales Turnover of Rs. 169.23 crore as compared to Rs. 174.73 crore in the preceding year. Performance was marginally affected due to the following reasons: low demand for micro irrigation systems owing to untimely rains across many parts of India and many State Governments have yet to release guidelines in line with NMSA guidelines.

The Company's profitability was under pressure due to additional provisioning on account of receivables and slow moving inventories despite reduction in input costs and optimum utilisation of its resources.

The Company has further introduced Design Quality Index (DQI) and Installation Quality Index (IQI). It helps in the measurement of quality of designs and installation of products being supplied to farmers. Your Company continued its focus on various Quality initiatives such as 1S 2S, Total Productive Maintenance (TPM), Continuous Improvement Teams (CIT), Mahindra Yellow Belt Programme, Kaizen, Parivartan, and display of Quality Parameters on all machines.

These measures have resulted in significant improvement in production efficiencies and reduction in rejections.

During the year, the Company has entered into Memorandum of Understanding with S-Rain Control A/s, Denmark to introduce automation irrigation control products catering to farmers farming with hi-tech solutions. The Company is also in the process of introducing new products helping farmer community for crop protection.

Risks, Concerns and Threats

The major threats to the MI Industry are from unorganised sector who mainly provide low quality irrigation systems which sustain for hardly one cropping season.

The availability of trained personnel, fluctuation in polymer prices, erratic climatic conditions and seasonality in agriculture sector are the major threats being faced by the MI Industry. The installation of MI Systems results in higher initial cost thereby putting burden on farmers.

Industry growth is heavily dependent on Government policies and release of capital subsidies. Long lead time in release of State subsidies result in a greater requirement of working capital for the MIS Industry. However, with the implementation of National Mission on Micro Irrigation by the Central Government, it is expected that we shall have greater uniformity in release of subsidies.

Internal Control Systems

Your Company has adequate internal control procedures commensurate with its size and nature of business. The internal control system is supplemented by extensive internal audits, regular reviews by management and well-documented policies and guidelines to ensure reliability and speedy compilation of financial statements, safeguarding the assets and interests of the Company and ensuring compliance with laws and regulations. The Company continuously upgrades these systems in line with best accounting practices. The Company is also in the process of implementation of compliance management systems.

The Audit Committee of Board of Directors periodically reviews the audit plans, observations and recommendations of the internal and external auditors with reference to significant risk areas and adequacy of internal controls.

Human Resources

Your Company continues to maintain its unique track record of industrial harmony. One of our top priorities has been to build talent across the organisation, business process, quality assurance and customer care.

Human resources initiatives such as skill level upgradation, training, appropriate reward and recognition systems and productivity improvement are the key focus areas for development of the employees of the Company. The measures for safety, training, welfare and development of employees receive highest priority.

As we look ahead, we are confident that our strong, positive people philosophy and practices will make us a preferred destination for talent.

As on 31st March, 2015, the total number of employees of your Company was 430.

II. SUCCESSION PLANNING:

Purpose

The Talent Management Policy sets out the approach to the development and management of talent in the Mahindra Group to ensure the implementation of the strategic business plans of the Group and the Group Aspiration of being among the Top 50 globally most-admired brands by 2021.

Board:

The successors for the Independent Directors shall be identified by the NRC atleast one quarter before expiry of the scheduled term. The NRC will accord due consideration for the expertise and other criteria required for the successor.

The Board may also decide not to fill the vacancy caused at its discretion.

Senior Management Personnel:

A good succession-planning program aims to identify high growth individuals, train them and feed the pipelines with new talent. It will ensure replacements for key job incumbents in KMPs and senior management positions in the organization.

Significantly, we have a process of identifying Hi-pots and critical positions. Successors are mapped for these positions at the following levels:

1. Emergency successor
2. Ready now
3. Ready in 1 to 2 years
4. Ready in 2 to 5 years
5. Ready in more than 5 years

in order to ensure talent readiness as per a ladder approach.

Policy Statement

The Talent Management framework of the Mahindra Group has been created to address three basic issues:

- 1) Given the strategic business plans, do we have the skills and competencies required to implement them? If not, how do we create them – by developing them internally or through lateral induction from outside?
- 2) For critical positions, what is the succession pipeline?
- 3) What are the individual development plans for individuals both in the succession pipeline as well as others?

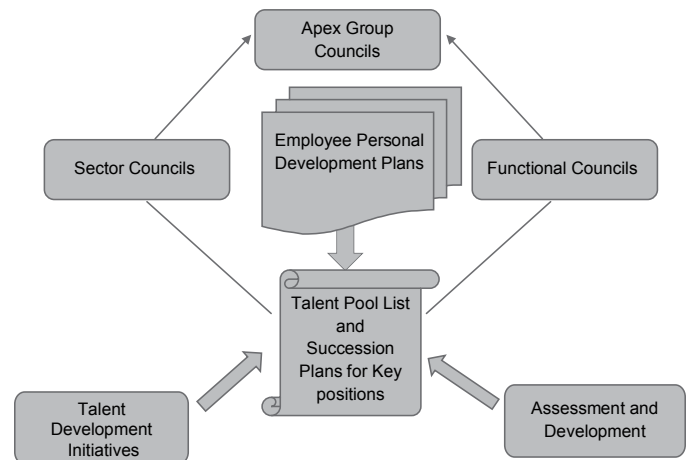

The framework lays down an architecture and processes to address these questions using the 3E approach:

- a) Experience i.e. both long and short-term assignments. This has 70% weightage

- b) Exposure i.e. coaching and mentoring – 20% weightage
- c) Education i.e. learning and development initiatives – 10% weightage

The Talent Management process is applicable to all employees. Over the years, the Talent Management framework has become a well-structured and process-oriented system which is driven by an interactive and collaborative network of Talent Councils at the Group and Sector Levels. These Talent Councils, which consist mainly of Senior business leaders supported by HR, are a mix of Sector (Business) and Functional Councils coordinated by an Apex Talent Council, headed by the Group Chairman. The Apex Council reviews the work done by the Talent Councils and facilitates movement of talent across Sectors. The Sector/Functional Councils meet regularly throughout the year and the Apex Council interacts with each one of them separately once a year, and in addition conducts an integrated meeting where the Chairpersons of all the Councils are present.

The Talent Management process can be represented pictorially as under:

The talent pipeline is maintained and developed so as to ensure that there is a seamless flow of talent. An important part of this exercise is drawing up and implementing IDAPs (Individual Development Action Plans) for every Executive concerned using the 3E approach mentioned above.

ANNEXURE V TO DIRECTORS' REPORT

Purpose

This Policy sets out the approach to Compensation of Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and other employees in EPC Industrié Limited.

Policy Statement

We have a well-defined Compensation policy for Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and all employees, including the Chairman, Presidents and other Members of the Group Executive Board who are employees of the Company. The overall compensation philosophy which guides us is that in order to achieve global leadership and dominance in domestic markets, we need to attract and retain high performers by compensating them at levels that are broadly comparable with the median of the comparator basket while differentiating people on the basis of performance, potential and criticality for achieving competitive advantage in the business.

In order to effectively implement this, we have built our Compensation structure by a regular annual benchmarking over the years with relevant players across the industry we operate in.

NON-EXECUTIVE INCLUDING INDEPENDENT DIRECTORS:

The Nomination and Remuneration Committee (NRC) shall decide the basis for determining the compensation, both Fixed and variable, to the Non Executive Directors, including Independent Directors, whether as commission or otherwise. The NRC shall take into consideration various factors such as director's participation in Board and Committee meetings during the year, other responsibilities undertaken, such as membership or Chairmanship of committees, time spent in carrying out their duties, role and functions as envisaged in Schedule IV of the Companies Act 2013 and Clause 49 of the Listing Agreement with the Stock Exchange and such other factors as the NRC may consider deem fit for determining the compensation. The Board shall determine the compensation to Non-Executive Directors within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders resolution.

Whole Time Director or Executive Director or CEO:

The remuneration to Whole Time Director or Executive Director or CEO shall be recommended by NRC to the Board. The remuneration consists of both fixed compensation and variable compensation and shall be paid as salary, commission, performance bonus, stock options (where applicable), perquisites and fringe benefits as approved by the Board and within the overall limits specified in the Shareholders resolution. While the fixed compensation is determined at the time of their appointment, the variable compensation will be determined annually by the NRC based on their performance or alternatively, the NRC may recommend to pay the consolidated remuneration.

Key Managerial Personnel (KMPs)

The terms of remuneration of Chief Financial Officer (CFO) shall be determined by the Audit Committee from time to time. The terms of remuneration of the Company Secretary shall be finalised/ revised by the Whole Time Director or such other person as may be authorised by the Board from time to time. The remuneration shall be consistent with the competitive position of the salary for similar positions in the industry and their Qualifications, Experience, Roles and Responsibilities. Pursuant to the provisions of section 203 of the Companies Act 2013 the Board shall approve the remuneration at the time of their appointment.

The remuneration to directors, KMPs and senior management involves a balance between fixed and incentive pay reflecting short and long-term performance objectives appropriate to the working of the company and its goals.

Employees

We follow a differential approach in choosing the comparator basket for benchmarking, depending upon the level in the organization:

- a. For all employees from Operational to Executive Band, we benchmark with a set of comparators from the same industry.
- b. For Strategic band and above, we have a position-based approach and the comparator basket includes benchmarks from across relevant industries.

We have a CTC (Cost to Company) concept which includes a fixed component (Guaranteed Pay) and a variable component (Performance pay). The percentage of the variable component increases with increasing hierarchy levels, as we believe employees at higher positions have a far greater impact and influence on the overall business result. The CTC is reviewed once every year and the compensation strategy for positioning of individuals takes into consideration the following elements:

- Performance
- Potential
- Criticality
- Longevity in grade

Remuneration for the new employees other than KMPs and Senior Management Personnel will be decided by the HR, in consultation with the concerned business unit head at the time of hiring, depending upon the relevant job experience, last compensation and the skill-set of the selected candidate.

The Company may also grant Stock Options to the Employees and Directors (other than Independent Directors and Promoter) in accordance with the ESOP Scheme of the Company and subject to the compliance of the applicable statutes and regulations.

Fixed assets are carried at cost less accumulated depreciation/impairment losses, if any. Cost includes cost of acquisition or construction and is stated at historical cost.

Fixed Assets (other than Office Premises at Ahmedabad, Furniture & Fixtures, Office Equipments and Vehicles) have been revalued as on June 24, 1998 and the resultant surplus has been added to the block of the assets.

Depreciation on all assets, is provided on Straight Line Method as per the useful life prescribed in Schedule II to the Companies Act, 2013. Leasehold Assets are written off over the period of lease. Depreciation on additions to assets or on sale/disposal of assets is calculated from the beginning of the month of such addition or up to the month of such sale/scrapped as the case may be.

Fixed assets retired from active use and held for sale are stated at the lower of their net book value and net realisable value and are disclosed separately in the Balance Sheet.

During the year, pursuant to the notification of Schedule II to the Companies Act, 2013 with effect from April 1, 2014, the Company revised the estimated useful life of its assets to align the useful life with those specified in Schedule II. The details of useful life are as follows:

Asset	Revised useful life	Previous useful life (approx)
Buildings
Factory Building	30 Years	30 Years
Office Building	60 Years	60 Years
Plant and Equipment	15 to 19 Years	19 Years
Furniture and Fixtures	10 Years	16 Years
Office Equipments	5 Years	21 Years
Factory Equipments	10 Years	10 Years
Moulds and Dies	6 Years	6 Years
Computers and Data processing Equipment	3 Years	3 Years
Vehicles - Cars	8 Years	11 Years
Vehicles - two wheelers	10 Years	11 Years

Pursuant to the transition provisions prescribed in Schedule II to the Companies Act, 2013, the Company has fully depreciated the carrying value of assets, net of residual value, where the remaining useful life of the asset was determined to be nil as on April 1, 2014, and has adjusted an amount of Rs. 69,26,238/- (net of deferred tax of Rs. Nil) against the opening Deficit in the Statement of Profit and Loss under Reserves and Surplus.

The depreciation expense in the Statement of Profit and Loss for the year is higher by Rs. 3,08,594/- consequent to the change in the useful life of the assets.

E. Intangible Assets:

Intangible assets are recognised only when economic benefit attributable to the assets will flow to the enterprise and cost can be measured reliably. They are being amortised over the estimated useful life of three years.

The estimated useful life of the intangible assets and the amortisation period are reviewed at the end of each financial year and the amortisation period is revised to reflect the changed pattern, if any.

F. Impairment of Assets:

The carrying value of assets/cash generating units at each balance sheet date are reviewed for impairment. If any indication of impairment exists, the recoverable amount of such assets is estimated and impairment is recognised, if the carrying amount of these assets exceeds their recoverable amount. The recoverable amount is the greater of the net selling price and their value in use. Value in use is arrived at by discounting the future cash flows expected to arise from the continuing use of an asset and from its disposal at the end of its useful life to their present value based on an appropriate discount factor. When there is indication that an impairment loss recognised for an asset in earlier accounting periods no longer exists or may have decreased, such reversal of impairment loss is recognised in the Statement of Profit and Loss, except in case of revalued assets.

G. Investments:

Long term investments are valued at cost. However, provision for diminution in value is made to recognise a decline other than temporary in the value of investments. Current investments are valued at the lower of cost and fair value.

H. Inventories:

Inventories comprise all costs of purchase, conversion and other costs incurred in bringing the inventories to their present location and condition.

Raw materials and bought out components are valued at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Cost is determined on the basis of the weighted average method.

Finished goods produced and purchased for sale, manufactured components and work-in-progress are carried at cost and net realisable value whichever is lower. Excise duty is included in the value of finished goods where applicable.

Stores, Spares and tools other than obsolete and slow moving items are carried at cost. Obsolete and slow moving items are valued at cost and estimated net realisable value, whichever is lower.

I. Foreign Exchange Transactions:

Transaction in foreign currencies are recorded at the exchange rates prevailing on the date of transaction. Monetary items are translated at the year-end rates. The exchange difference between the rate prevailing on the date of transaction and on the date of settlement as also on translation of monetary items at the end of the year is recognised as income or expense, as the case may be.

J. Revenue recognition:

Sales of goods are recognised, net of estimated returns and trade discounts. Sales include excise duty but exclude sales tax and value added tax.

Revenue is recognised when the risks and rewards of ownership are passed on to the customers and no significant uncertainty as to its measurability and collectability exists.

K. Other income:

Interest income is recognised on a time proportion basis taking into account the amount outstanding and the applicable rates. Dividend income is accounted for when the right to receive it is established.

L. Government Grants:

Capital Incentive Subsidy, not specifically related to fixed assets, is credited to Capital Incentive Reserve and retained till the requisite conditions are fulfilled. The Company is entitled to various incentives from government authorities. The Company accounts for its entitlement as income on accrual basis and no significant uncertainty as to its measurability and collectability exists.

M. Employee benefits:a) Short term employee benefits

All employee benefits falling due wholly within twelve months of rendering the service are classified as short term employee benefits. The benefits like salaries, wages, short term compensated absences, etc. and the expected cost of bonus, ex-gratia, are recognised in the period in which the employee renders the related service.

b) Post-employment benefits(i) Defined contribution plans

The Company's contribution to provident fund, employee state insurance scheme and superannuation fund are considered as defined contribution plans and are charged as an expense as they fall due based on the amount of contribution required to be made and when services are rendered by the employee.

(ii) Defined benefit plans

The employees' gratuity fund scheme, managed by LIC is a defined benefit plan. The present value of obligation is determined based on actuarial valuation carried out as at the end of each financial year using the Projected Unit Credit Method.

The obligation is measured at the present value of the estimated future cash flows. The discount rate used for determining the present value of the obligation under defined benefit plans, is based on the market yield on government securities, of a maturity period equivalent to the weighted average maturity profile of the related obligations at the Balance Sheet date.

Actuarial gains and losses are recognised immediately in the Statement of Profit and Loss.

In case of funded plans, the fair value of the plan assets is reduced from the gross obligation under the defined plans to recognise the obligation on the net basis.

Gains or losses on the curtailment or settlement of any defined benefit plan are recognised when the curtailment or settlement occurs. Past service cost is recognised as expense on a straight line basis over the period until benefit become vested.

c) Long term employee benefits

The obligation for long term employee benefits such as long term compensated absences, long service award, etc. is recognised in the similar manner as in the case of defined benefit plans as mentioned in (b) (ii) above.

d) Employee Stock Compensation Cost

The Company has formulated Employee Stock Option Schemes (ESOS) ("the Scheme") in accordance with the SEBI (Employee Stock Option Scheme and Employee Stock Purchase Scheme) Guidelines, 1999. The Scheme provides for grant of options to employees of the Company to acquire equity shares of the Company that vest in a graded manner and that are to be exercised within a specified period. In accordance with the SEBI Guidelines; the excess, if any, of the closing market price on the day prior to the grant of the options under ESOS over the exercise price is amortised on a straight-line basis over the vesting period.

N. Leases:

In respect of Operating Leases, Lease payments are recognised as expenses and Lease income are recognised as income on a straight line basis over the lease term. Initial direct costs are recognised immediately as expenses.

O. Borrowing Costs:

All borrowing costs are charged to the Statement of Profit and Loss except:

- (a) Borrowing costs that are attributable to the acquisition or construction of assets that necessarily take a substantial period of time to get ready for their intended use, which are capitalised as part of the cost of such assets.
- (b) Expenses incurred on raising long term borrowing are amortised over the period of borrowing. On early buyback, conversion or repayment of borrowings, any unamortised expenditure is fully written off in that year.

P. Product Warranty:

In respect of warranties given by the Company on sale of certain products, the estimated costs of these warranties are accrued at the time of sale. The estimates for accounting of warranties are reviewed and revisions are made as required.

Q. Taxes on income:

Income Taxes are accounted for in accordance with Accounting Standard on "Accounting for Taxes on Income", (AS-22). Tax expenses comprise both current tax and deferred tax. Current tax is the amount of tax payable on the taxable income for the year as determined in accordance with the applicable tax rates and the provisions of the Income Tax Act 1961, and other applicable tax laws.

Minimum Alternate Tax (MAT) paid in accordance with the tax laws, which gives future economic benefits in the form of adjustment to future income tax liability, is considered as an asset if there is convincing evidence that the Company will pay normal income tax. Accordingly, MAT is recognised as an asset in the Balance Sheet when it is probable that future economic benefit associated with it will flow to the Company.

Deferred tax asset is measured based on the tax rates and the laws enacted or substantively enacted as at the balance sheet date. Deferred tax assets are recognized only to the extent there is reasonable certainty that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realized. In respect of carry forward losses and unabsorbed depreciation, deferred tax assets are recognized only to the extent there is virtual certainty supported by convincing evidence that sufficient future taxable income will be available against which such deferred tax assets can be realized.

R. Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets:

A provision is recognised when the Company has a present obligation as a result of past events and it is probable that an outflow of resources will be required to settle the obligation in respect of which a reliable estimate can be made. Provisions (excluding retirement benefits) are not discounted to their present value and are determined based on the best estimate required to settle the obligation at the Balance Sheet date. These are reviewed at each Balance Sheet date and adjusted to reflect the current best estimates.

Contingent liabilities are not recognised but are disclosed in the notes. Contingent assets are neither recognised nor disclosed in the financial statements.

S. Share issues expenses:

Share issue expenses are adjusted against the Securities Premium Account as permissible under Section 57 of the Companies Act, 2013, to the extent any balance is available for utilisation in the Securities Premium Account.

1.2 USE OF ESTIMATES

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management of the Company to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosures of contingent liabilities at the date of these financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses for the year. The management believes that the estimates used in the preparation of the financial statements are prudent and reasonable. Future results could differ due to these estimates and the differences between the actual results and the estimates are recognised in the periods in which the results are known/materialise.

1.3 REVENUE RECOGNITION

- i) Sales are recognised at the time of despatches to customers or their respective transporters for onward despatches to customers. Impact of variation in selling price with respect to despatched goods are recognised as and when confirmed. Sales include excise duty, wherever applicable. Sales are recorded net of Trade Discounts, Rebates & Sales Tax. In respect of Toolings developed for the customers to be used for the production of components, sale is recognised on completion of such Toolings.
- ii) Incomes from services rendered are booked based on agreements/arrangements with the concerned parties.

1.4 PROVISIONS & CONTINGENT LIABILITIES

A provision is recognized when the Company has a present obligation as a result of past events and it is probable that an outflow of resources will be required to settle the obligation, in respect of which a reliable estimate can be made. Provisions (excluding retirement benefits) are not discounted to their present value and are determined based on best estimate required to settle the obligation at the Balance Sheet date. These are reviewed at each balance sheet date and adjusted to reflect the current best estimates.

Contingent Liabilities are not recognised in the financial statements but disclosed in the Notes.

1.5 FIXED ASSETS/DEPRECIATION

Depreciation is provided on a Straight-Line Method based on useful life basis as specified and in the manner prescribed in Schedule II to the Companies Act, 2013, except for the fixed assets mentioned in para (ii) to (v) below. - ii) Depreciation on dies manufactured by the Company is charged @ 20%. Depreciation on vehicles (cars) is charged @ 25%.
- iii) Intangible Assets (Others than Software) are stated at cost less accumulated amortisation. These are amortised over a period of 6 years, which is the estimated useful life of the asset. Software expenditure capitalised during the year is amortised over 3 years from the date of its capitalization.

- v) Assets individually costing up to Rs.5000/- are depreciated at 100% within one year from the date of purchase.
- vi) Capital Work in progress includes cost of assets not ready for intended use before the year end.

- ii) Work-in-progress and Finished goods are valued at lower of cost or net realisable value as certified by Management. Cost includes material cost and an appropriate portion of manufacturing overheads, wherever applicable, incurred in bringing them to their present location and condition. Finished goods include excise duty, wherever applicable.

Payment of gratuity at the time of retirement is routed through the trust created by the company.
- ii) Defined benefit plans
The company operates a defined benefit plan for its employees in the form of gratuity fund. The cost of providing benefit under the plan is determined on the basis of actuarial valuations being carried out at each Balance Sheet date. The retirement benefit obligation recognized in the Balance Sheet represents the present value of the defined benefit obligation.

ECONOMY

The global economy continued to expand during 2014 at a moderate, however, uneven pace at 3.3% up from 3% in 2013.

Increasingly divergent trends have been observed in major economies. U.S. exceeded growth expectations. India and the U.K. recorded significant pickups in economic growth. Eurozone showed modest recovery in growth. However, this was offset by Japan struggling to strengthen its weak recovery, further slowdown in China, Russian and Brazilian economies faltering. Weaker-than-expected growth has been reflected in falling oil prices, which in turn have pushed inflation rates lower. Central banks have responded with a new wave of stimulus measures. The Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) inflation focus, strong government mandate, over and above the benign global commodity prices have led to improvement in India's economic fundamentals.

India's macroeconomic fundamentals have improved in 2014-15. The annual growth rate of the Indian economy is estimated to have increased to 7.4% in 2014-15 as compared to 6.9% in the fiscal year 2013-14. The growth in 2014-15 is largely due to domestic demand. The growth in the exports is projected to be only 0.9% and the growth rate of imports, around -0.5%. The deceleration in imports owe substantially to the sharp decline in international oil prices. Acceleration in services and manufacturing growth in the face of subdued global demand conditions point to the strengthening of domestic demand. Manufacturing is expected to grow further with the Government of India making it a focus area with the 'Make in India' initiative. However, agriculture suffered due to poor monsoon. The Gross Value Added (GVA) at basic prices in agriculture is expected to decline from 3.7 per cent in 2013-14, an exceptionally good previous year from the point of view of rainfall, to 1.1 per cent in 2014-15. Inflation has declined by over 6 percentage points since late 2013. Current Account Deficit came down from a peak of 6.7% of GDP (in Q3, 2012-13) to an estimated 1% in 2014-15. The average Wholesale Price Index inflation declined in 2014-15 to 3.5% (April-December) vis-à-vis 8.9% in 2013-14. With easing of inflationary conditions, the RBI signalled softening of the monetary policy stance by cutting policy repo rates by 25 bps in January and 25 bps in February to 7.5%. RBI also reduced the Statutory Liquidity Ratio by 50 bps to 21.5% of Net Demand and Time Liabilities (NDTL). RBI decided to infuse liquidity to banks on weekends through MSF operations. Liquidity conditions are expected to be comfortable in the coming year. These conditions should augur well for a reinvigoration of private consumption demand. This coupled with a stable government, thrust on rural infrastructure and reforms, it is expected that India's growth will be strong.

The Company has maintained its leadership position for vehicles and tractors in the rural and semi-urban markets. Despite unfavourable monsoons affecting the tractor segment, the Company maintained a healthy growth of business backed by growth in the overall auto industry. All vehicle categories were in the positive territory except for commercial vehicles, which are gradually moving towards positive territory.

FINANCE

During the year under review, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) remained focused on keeping the economy on a disinflationary glide path and targeted to hit 8% Consumer Price Index (CPI) inflation by January 2015 and 6% by January 2016. The RBI continued its stance against inflation by holding the policy rates for the first nine months of the Fiscal Year 2014-15, while allowing the effects of past monetary policy tightening to work to bring down inflation. However, at the same time, RBI through active liquidity management operations ensured that Liquidity conditions remained broadly stable and it continued to provide liquidity through overnight and term repos. RBI remained committed to provide liquidity/credit to the productive sectors, and hence reduced the Statutory Liquidity Ratio (SLR) by 150 basis points (bps) during the year. With softening of international commodity prices, particularly crude oil, CPI decelerated sharply in second half of the year from September 2014, which allowed the RBI to cut the policy (Repo) rates by 50 bps during the last quarter of the year. The actions of RBI resulted in sovereign and corporate bond yields declining by 80 bps and more in the year. However, despite a generalized fall in the cost of funds, banks did not transmit that by reducing their base rates. Liquidity conditions remained in a deficit but stable mode throughout the year. However, your Company was able to take advantage of reduction in interest rates by devising appropriate borrowing strategies and ensuring that prudent Asset Liability Management Guidelines are adhered to.

Intent of the Policy

The intent of the Remuneration Policy of Directors of Mahindra & Mahindra Financial Services Limited ("the Company") is to focus on enhancing the value and to attract and retain quality individuals with requisite knowledge and excellence as Executive and Non-Executive Directors for achieving objectives of the Company and to place the Company in a leading position.

The Nomination and Remuneration Committee (NRC) of the Board shall, while formulating the policy ensure that —

- a) the level and composition of remuneration is reasonable and sufficient to attract, retain and motivate Directors of the quality required to run the company successfully;
- b) relationship of remuneration to performance is clear and meets appropriate performance benchmarks; and
- c) remuneration to Directors, key managerial personnel and senior management involves a balance between fixed and incentive pay reflecting short and long-term performance objectives appropriate to the working of the Company and its goals.

While deciding the policy on remuneration of Directors, the Committee may consider amongst other things, the duties and responsibilities cast by the Companies Act, 2013, the Listing Agreement, various Codes of Conduct, Articles of Association, restrictions on the remuneration to Directors as also the remuneration drawn by Directors of other companies in the industry, the valuable contributions and inputs from Directors based on their knowledge, experience and expertise in shaping the destiny of the Company, etc. The Policy is guided by a reward framework and set of principles and objectives as more fully and particularly envisaged under Section 178 of the Companies Act, 2013 and principles pertaining to qualifications, positive attributes, integrity and independence of Directors, etc.

Directors

The Managing Director is an executive of the Company and draws remuneration from the Company. The Non-Executive Chairman and Independent Directors receive sitting fees for attending the meeting of the Board and the Committees thereof, as fixed by the Board of Directors from time to time, subject to statutory provisions. The Non-Executive Chairman and Independent Directors would be entitled to the remuneration under the Companies Act, 2013. Other Non-Executive Non-Independent Directors who receive remuneration from the holding company or a Group Company are not paid any sitting fees or any remuneration. The NRC while determining the remuneration shall ensure that the level and composition of remuneration to be reasonable and sufficient to attract, retain and motivate the person to ensure the quality required to run the Company successfully. While considering the remuneration, the NRC shall also ensure a balance between fixed and performance-linked variable pay reflecting short and long term performance objectives appropriate to the working of the Company and its goals.

GLOBAL ECONOMY

Global economic growth during the year 2014 remained subpar and uneven. While the developed economies led by the US and UK continued to strengthen, the growth in most emerging markets slowed further during the year. Among the key emerging economies, China further slowed down due to weak global growth and policy induced slowdown to move the economy to more manageable levels and due to slowdown in investment, particularly in real estate. The year also saw a sharp decline of over fifty percent in crude prices. The sharp decline in commodity prices in general and crude prices in particular had a strong negative impact on the exporting countries while positively influencing the importing nations.

Segment wise, agriculture is estimated to have grown by 1.1%, industry at 5.9% and services at 10.6% during 2014-15.

Within industry, manufacturing grew by 6.8% against 5.3%, underscoring the gradual recovery in the sector, with basic goods growing by 6.9% against 2.1% during the last year while capital goods expanded by 6.2% against a contraction of 3.6% the year earlier. Consumer durables manufacturing declined by 12.5% during the year, compared with 2013-14, signifying the lack of purchasing power in the economy. Services sector expanded by 10.6% against 9.1% in the preceding year. The year saw continuation of muted activity in railway and port traffic, domestic and international passenger traffic, international freight traffic, tourist arrivals, motorcycle and tractor sales as well as bank credit and deposit growth.

India, helped by the stability in its macroeconomic environment, expected cyclical recovery and easing of the interest rate cycle attracted considerable foreign flows into the country during the fiscal. This led to expansion of the forex reserves by US$ 55 billion to US$ 340 billion. The sharp decline in commodity prices in general and crude prices in particular led to reduction in imports and helped control Current Account Deficit (CAD). Gold imports, which had dropped by staggering 47% in 2014, increased by 19.5% during the fiscal to US$ 34.32 billion, primarily due to the decline in global prices and the relaxation of a few of the supply related curbs placed by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI).

Inflation moderated sharply during 2015 partly supported by the drop in international crude oil prices. Food inflation came down, aided by a limited increase in minimum support prices for food grains, subdued rural wage growth and the government's offloading of food stocks. A sharp drop in crude oil prices helped contain fuel inflation, though hikes in excise duty limited the pass-through of global oil prices to domestic retail prices.

Easing inflationary pressure allowed RBI to reduce repo rates (rate at which RBI lends to banks) twice by 25bps each to 7.5%. The gradual pass-on of this reduction to the borrowers will provide the much-needed support to growth by fuelling household spending and reducing corporate interest outgo.

INDIAN FINANCIAL SECTOR - A SYNOPSIS

The Indian Financial Sector comprises banks and financial institutions. Tighter liquidity conditions, stringent prudential norms and regulatory changes have resulted in fewer and stronger Non-Banking Financial Companies (NBFCs) in the country.

The year 2014-15 saw some significant changes in the banking and financial industry:

After a gap of more than 10 years, RBI awarded bank licences to two new entities.

The monetary framework has been changed to 6 reviews per year as compared to 8 earlier.

The RBI issued norms for payments banks and small banks and initiated a process to issue differentiated licences.

RBI received 41 applications for payments bank licence and 72 for small finance bank licences.

Banks were allowed to undertake Cash Reserve Ratio (CRR)/ Statutory Liquidity Ratio (SLR) exemption for the funds raised via infra bonds.

Under the Prime Minister led Pradhan Mantri Jan Dhan Yojana over 130 million bank accounts were opened, helping take financial inclusion significantly forward.

INDIAN NBFC SECTOR

Credit Scenario

Indian rural economy has slowed down over the last two years. This has adversely affected the asset quality to some extent and weakened the growth for the NBFC sector. NBFCs though, stand to benefit from the reduction in the cost of funding, which in turn should help to improve margins.

A strong monsoon and pro-growth rural focused policy measures should lead to a pick-up in the rural economy and augur well for the NBFC sector with rural presence.

Industry Scenario

The NBFC sector is an important part of the Indian financial sector. It has been consistently contributing to the sector through its scale of operations, technological prowess and innovation in form of newer financial products and services. Having a strong link with the financial sector on both sides of the balance sheet, NBFCs along with other financial entities are subjected to counterparty failures, decline in collateral value, interest rate movement, liquidity and solvency risks. NBFCs have shown dynamism in delivering innovation and in assisting financial inclusion. A wide reach into the remotest areas of the country has helped NBFCs resolve the credit shortage of smaller enterprises and entrepreneurs, who are a productive part of India's growth.

NEW REGULATIONS

The RBI issued new regulations for the NBFC sector, taking cue from several important recommendations made by the Working Group (Chairperson: Smt. Usha Thorat) on Issues and Concerns in the NBFC Sector and the Committee on Comprehensive Financial Services for Small Businesses and Low Income Households (Chairman: Dr. Nachiket Mor). As per the new norms, NBFCs that accept public funds and interact with customers will be subject to stringent prudential regulations.

Net Owned Funds

NBFCs would be required to raise the minimum Net Owned Fund (NOF) limit to Rs. 1 crore by March, 2016, and to double it to Rs. 2 crore by 2017, in a phased manner. Currently the minimum NOF requirement is at Rs. 25 lakh.

CRAR-Tier 1 Capital

For deposit and non-deposit taking NBFCs, Capital to Risk (Weighted) Assets Ratio or CRAR, which includes Tier I capital of 7.5%, is 15% currently. This will be changed to Tier I capital of 8.5% by end of March 2016 and 10% by March 31, 2017.

Provision on Standard Assets

NBFCs also have to maintain standard provisioning of 0.3% by end of March 2016; 0.35% by March 2017 and to 0.4% by end of March 2018.

Asset Classification

Asset classification norms are being harmonised with those of banks. An asset is classified as Non-Performing Asset (NPA) when it has remained overdue for a period of 6 months or more for loans; and overdue for twelve months or more in case of lease rental and hire purchase instalments, as compared to 90 days for banks. Lease Rental and Hire-Purchase Assets shall become NPA if they become overdue for 9 months (currently 12 months) for the financial year ending March 31, 2016 and will become NPAs by March 31, 2018 in a phased manner in case they are overdue for 3 months. Assets other than Lease Rental and Hire-Purchase Assets shall become NPA if they become overdue for 5 months for the financial year ending March 31, 2016; if overdue for 4 months for the financial year ending March 31, 2017; and if overdue for 3 months for the financial year ending March 31, 2018 and thereafter.

Corporate Governance and Disclosure Norms

Directions pertaining to Corporate Governance have been encapsulated in a separate set of Guidelines viz. "Non-Banking Financial Companies - Corporate Governance (Reserve Bank) Directions, 2015" effective 10th April, 2015.

These are applicable to all Deposit accepting NBFCs (NBFC-D) and NBFC-ND-SI (non deposit accepting NBFC with asset size of Rs. 500 crore and above). All the provisions pertaining to Corporate Governance and Disclosure contained in the Revised Regulatory Framework for NBFCs issued on November 10, 2014 have been incorporated in the Guidelines, albeit in a structured manner.

The salient features are given hereunder:Board committees

The constitution of the following committees has been made mandatory:

- Audit Committee
- Nomination Committee
- Risk Management Committee

Audit partner rotation

The new framework prescribes rotation of the Partner of the Audit firm every three years.

Information Systems Audit

The Audit Committee is required to ensure that Information Systems Audit is conducted at least once in two years.

Fit and proper criteria for Directors

To put in place a policy for ascertaining the 'Fit and Proper criteria' for Directors in accordance with the Guidelines that have been prescribed.

There are also increased requirements for Directors to provide declaration or undertaking and quarterly filings (statement of change of Directors and Certificate from Managing Director that 'fit and proper criteria' in selection of Directors has been followed) with the RBI; the annual statement to be certified by the Auditors.

Additional Disclosures in Financial Statements

The new framework has significantly increased the disclosure requirements in the Financial Statements. Some of the important additional disclosures to be made in the Financial Statements of NBFC-D and NBFC-ND-SI include the following:

- Registration, licence, or authorisation obtained from other Financial Sector Regulators
- Ratings assigned by credit rating agencies and migration of ratings during the year
- Penalties, if any, levied by any Regulator
- Information i.e. area, country of operation and joint venture partners with regard to joint ventures and overseas subsidiaries
- Asset liability profile, extent of financing of parent company products, NPAs and movement of NPAs, details of all off-balance sheet exposures, structured products issued, securitisation or assignment transactions.

GROWTH DRIVERS OF NBFC SECTOR

The NBFC sector witnessed strong activity in some sectors, indicating a revival. Predominant among them is the CV industry where freight activity has risen and lower diesel prices are helping improve operator profits. States are getting a greater share of revenue from the Centre, and thus, will be able to channelize funds into sustainable social benefit schemes, and infrastructure improvement. This will boost the rural economy.

The following sectors drive growth in the NBFC sector, and their current performance in 2014-15 and the long term outlook is listed below:

Automotive

One of India's major sectors, the automotive industry contributes 22% to India's GDP. In 2014-15, Passenger Vehicles sales increased by 3.9% during the fiscal but the overall Commercial Vehicles segment registered a de-growth of 2.84% during the year. Medium & Heavy Commercial Vehicles grew by a strong 16.02% and Light Commercial Vehicles sales declined by 11.57%. (Source: Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturer's). India is expected to become the third largest market for automobiles by 2020, signifying bright growth prospects.

Tractor

India is the largest tractor market in the world. (Source: JD Power Asia Pacific report). The sector performed sub-par in 2014-15 due to below-normal monsoon, lower farm output and low support prices of wheat and paddy. During the fiscal, Tractor sales saw a double digit decline to 5.5 lakh units due to lower demand on account of sluggishness in the economy. Karnataka was the only State to register a double digit increase in the sales of tractors on account of relatively better rainfall. Based on good monsoon predictions, improving irrigation infrastructure, the prospects for the tractor industry look positive in the long-term. Tractors also find use in other industries like infrastructure and construction, both of which are expected to witness a major upturn, on the back of recent policy initiatives. Given these factors, we believe that tractor financing will also grow significantly.

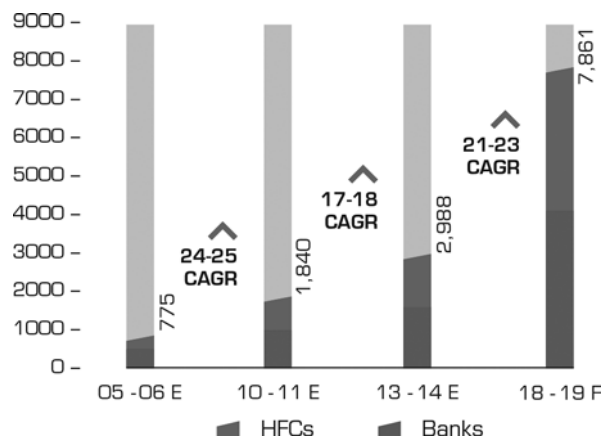

Infrastructure and Real Estate

The sector continued a lacklustre performance with slow execution and several stalled projects in 2014-15. Thus, demand for construction equipment remained tepid during the year. However, the future looks bright due to benign interest rates, falling crude and steel prices and infrastructure investment increasing in several States across India. The recent budget proposals have given a big push for infrastructure sector with Rs. 70,000 crore increase in investment. The budget also stressed on the need to revive the Public Private Partnership (PPP) mode of infrastructure development. The Government of India's revised norms on minimum built-up area, capital requirements and easing of exit norms will attract Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) into construction.

Housing Finance

The Government of India's new vision is to ensure 'Housing for All' by 2022, especially with prioritised focus on affordable rural housing. This requires several initiatives to empower consumers and to promote mass housing construction technologies. Adequate development of the housing sector could help increase its share in the economy from 6% in 2013 to 10-12% by 2022.

Mutual Fund

Indian mutual fund industry has significant headroom to develop, with the country's savings rate being over 30-35% in the last few years. The Asset Under Management (AUM) stood at Rs. 10,82,757 crore at the end of March 31, 2015. The number of investors has grown significantly in the past fiscal and an upward trend in markets and improving economic indicators are expected to result in a much more broad-based participation in 2015-16.

Source: Association of Mutual Funds in India (AMFI)

Gold loan industry

For most of 2014, gold prices fell largely due to rising US dollar, tepid demand from the two largest importing nations viz India and China and due to limited demand of Gold Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs). In case of lending against gold, RBI harmonised the LTV ratio to 75% for banks as well as NBFCs. The Central Bank also mandated a high Tier I Capital Adequacy Ratio of 12% for the greater risk in gold lending.

OUTLOOK

Reducing international commodity prices prove to be a favourable external shock for crude importers even as this adversely impacts crude exporters. Global growth is likely to steadily shoot up through 2015 and 2016. The growth outlook in the Euro area is expected to improve, bolstered by increase in demand from lower crude prices and a depreciating euro along with easing financial and credit conditions following accommodative monetary policies. Capital movements into US Treasuries on the back of a US rate hike and uncertainty regarding commodity and energy prices as well as geopolitical climate, are a few of the key risks and could disrupt global growth as market sentiments shift rapidly.

In India, the retail inflation has consistently fallen since September 2014. The Government's policies aimed at increasing infrastructure investment and subdued commodity prices together with upbeat financial market conditions for India points at sustained recovery in 2015-16. Retail inflation is estimated to lie below 6% in 2015-16. CAD is estimated to remain around the acceptable levels of less than two percent on account of restrained input costs unless global commodity prices rise again, particularly those of crude oil. Meanwhile, softened input costs shall put savings into government and corporate pockets. As per RBI survey, Fiscal deficit is expected to moderate further at 3.9% in 2015-16 because of lower subsidies, deregulated energy prices and excise levies on diesel and coal.

Customer Insight: Focus on customer is one of the key factors that have driven the Company in all these years. A strong business model and a prudent insight about its customers gives the Company a competitive edge. Better risk management have made Mahindra Finance achieve commendable growth as well.

Strong balance sheet: On the asset side, loans and advances make up nearly 92.6% of the total assets. This primarily includes auto loans. Most of these loans are retail loans, and therefore spread a large customer and geographic base.

Opportunities

Demographic pattern and rising rural prosperity: India has one of the youngest populations in the world, and this means that there will be a large number of people seeking employment and livelihood. The aspirations in rural India are rising, and opportunities for those wanting to be entrepreneurs are increasing. Rural prosperity is also on the rise, fuelled by increased support prices and welfare schemes initiated by the government. Per capita Gross Domestic Product has grown faster in India’s rural areas than in its urban centres.

New opportunities: The rising income and prosperity levels in rural India will lead to many new opportunities like home finance and SME loans. New opportunities like home finance, SME finance for the rural reach along with, and a foray into factoring and bill payment for the rural hard-to-reach customer will take the Company to new scales of success.

Challenges

Regulatory concerns: Newer regulatory updates pose a constant challenge for smooth operations of the Company.

With constant updates governing the functional aspects of financial institutions, there lies an unseen challenge in the coming years.

Geographical concentration: Too much focus on rural market and lesser on urban markets might affect the Company’s sustainability.

Threats

Cost of funds: Higher cost of funds might lead to reduced bottomline for the Company. Also, a lesser interest spread, or higher cost of lending might lead to customers turning away to cheaper source of funds.

Higher delinquencies: Asset quality deterioration may not only wipe the profits out of the Company but eat into its networth. The Company must ensure that it maintains minimal delinquency levels.

RISK MANAGEMENT

MMFSL has formulated a robust Enterprise-wide Risk Management program (ERM) which involves risk identification, assessment and risk mitigation planning for business, strategic, operational, financial and compliance related risks. The ERM framework has been deployed across various processes in the organisation and is governed by the corporate risk office. A robust internal check process is deployed to prevent and limit risk of non-compliance.

The Risk Report prepared by the Chief Financial Officer covers inter alia, the key risks, movement in the profile of high risk category, root causes of risks, and their impact, the risk management measures and controls adopted to mitigate the risks. The Risk Report is reviewed by the Risk Management Committee and placed before the Board of Directors periodically.

The key Business Risks and the mitigation measures adopted by the Company are as follows –

Risk	Counter-measures
The Company is exposed to high credit risk given the unbanked rural customer base and diminishing value of collateral.	The Company manages credit risk through credit norms established through adequate experience in this line of business. Deep insight about the nature of borrowers and a strong business model reduces the risk of default significantly.
General industrial or economic slowdown affects the consumer sentiment and cash flows and may result in the slowdown of demand for vehicles consequently affecting Company’s business.	The Company’s diversified business portfolio coupled with customer reach enables it to sustain growth even in difficult financial conditions.
Disruption in funding could lead to liquidity crunch.	The Company gets funding requirements from diverse sources, including Banks, FIs etc securitization of receivables, and other credit facilities like retail Fixed Deposits.
Sharp fluctuations in interest rate may lead to a decline in the Company’s net interest margin and ability to offer competitive lending rates to its customers.	The Company has prudently evolved a strategic fund mix to reduce dependence on banks and enables it to strike a balance between various sources of funding while reducing the cost of borrowing. The Company enjoys an excellent credit rating on its financial instruments which enables it to raise funds at competitive rates.
The shortage of skilled manpower in the local areas of operation pose a considerable risk given the Company’s customer centric business model.	The Company strives to attract and retain the best talent from local markets, adopts a robust performance management system, employee engagement and training practices, learning and development initiatives to create an inspiring and rewarding work environment.

Risk	Counter-measures
Competition from new entrants or unorganised sector or diversification by existing financial institutions.	The Company's extensive rural presence gives it a distinct edge. We have built trust and capabilities over three decades across India. Such an indepth reach is not easy to build, and represents a significant advantage for us.
Difficulty in expanding operations across new markets.	The Company through its deep consumer insights collaborates with local business partners and adopts strategies to successfully market its products ensuring it reaches the targeted customers.
Stringent Regulations reducing the regulatory arbitrage between Banks and NBFCs; and resulting in increasing compliance costs.	The Company has put in place robust systems and processes to ensure compliance with all the applicable regulations. This has enabled the Company to earn the trust and good will of its stakeholders.

11) Share issue expenses:

Expenses incurred in connection with fresh issue of Share capital are adjusted against Securities premium reserve in the year in which they are incurred.

12) Impairment of assets:

The carrying value of assets/cash generating units at each balance sheet date are reviewed for impairment. If any indication of impairment exists, the recoverable amount of such assets is estimated and impairment is recognised, if the carrying amount of these assets exceeds their recoverable amount. The recoverable amount is the greater of the net selling price and their value in use. Value in use is arrived at by discounting the future cash flows expected to arise from the continuing use of an asset and from its disposal at the end of its useful life to their present value based on an appropriate discount factor.

13) Provisions and contingent liabilities:

Provisions are recognised when there is a present obligation as a result of a past event, and it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation and there is a reliable estimate of the amount of the obligation.

Contingent liabilities are disclosed when there is a possible obligation arising from past events, the existence of which will be confirmed only by the occurrence or non occurrence of one or more uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the Company or a present obligation that arises from past events where it is either not probable that an outflow of resources will be required to settle the obligation or a reliable estimate of the amount cannot be made.

14) Employee Stock Compensation Costs:

Measurement and disclosure of the Employee Share-based Payment plans is done in accordance with SEBI (Employee Stock Option Scheme and Employee Stock Purchase Scheme) Guidelines, 1999 and the Guidance Note on Accounting for Employee Share-based Payments, issued by ICAI. The Company measures compensation cost relating to employee stock options using the Intrinsic value method (i.e. excess of market value of shares over the exercise price of the option at the date of grant). Compensation cost is amortized over the vesting period of the option on a straight line basis. The options which have lapsed are reversed by a credit to Employee compensation cost, equal to the amortised portion of value of lapsed portion and credit to Deferred employee compensation cost equal the unamortised portion.

15) Lease:

Lease rentals in respect of assets taken on operating lease arrangements are recognized as per the terms of the lease.

16) Earnings Per Share:

Basic earnings per share is calculated by dividing the net profit or loss for the period attributable to equity shareholders by the weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the period. Earnings considered in ascertaining the Company's earnings per share is the net profit for the period after deducting preference dividends and any attributable tax thereto for the period. The weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the period and for all periods presented is adjusted for events, such as bonus shares, sub-division of shares etc. that have changed the number of equity shares outstanding, without a corresponding change in resources. For the purpose of calculating diluted earnings per share, the net profit or loss for the period attributable to equity shareholders and the weighted average number of shares outstanding during the period is adjusted for the effects of all dilutive potential equity shares.
